

The Office Cat

BY JENIS

A FABLE

JOHN DOE, a waiter, KISSED his wife good bye,
AND went to work,
IN good faith,
IN A Main street cafe,
UNDER the new hours
HIS employers wished on him;
HE worked for breakfast,
STARTED for home,
COULD not quite make it;
HE worked for luncheon,
STARTED for home,
AND sure enough,
HE met himself coming back,
FOR Dinner.
AFTER a few days
HE finally met his wife
ON the street,
AND so was able TO tell her,
THAT he was working "steady,"
AND that she must NOT worry,
BECAUSE the boss,
MEANT well by him,
AND was giving him
PLENTY of time
IN which TO perform his duties.

I THANK YOU.

Bobble—Daddy, I want to tell you somefin'. Ruth May said there was a boy in school, but he isn't in her grade, and he had a bottle with somefin in it, and he was drinkin' out of it and callin' it whiskers. And the teacher told him to stop, but he wouldn't, and the teacher took him up stairs to a big rough man, and he strapped him.

THANK, A. A. D.

The following splendid contribution is from an admiring friend, A.
A. D., of Kingston, Ontario, Canada:

Why is a dog's tail a great curiosity? Because its owner never saw it before.

Fellows study astronomy now so when they die they can find their road to heaven.

They say it is hard for a woman to climb the ladder of life alone.
"It wouldn't be if it wasn't for so many men standing around rubber-ing."

One half of our parents have been women.

What is a mule?
A cross between a stick of giant powder and the devil.

Why was George Washington like a piano?
Because he was Grand, Upright and Square.

These will all make you laugh like a feather.

He—"Keep quiet, don't you see I've got a bite."
She—"Oh, dear, you don't seem to want to kiss me any more since we got married."

He—"Did you ever hear of a fisherman giving bait to a fish after he caught it?"

Now I lay me down to sleep,
In my little bed;
If I should die before I wake How will I now I'm dead?

The days may come,
The days may go;
But where they come from
I don't know.

Do you drink?
Is that an invitation or an inquiry?

I found a button in a cigar today.
It must have come off the wrapper.

You are looking better today.
I ought to. I had my eyes examined.

How did you lose your arm?
I was swimming—a steamboat ran over it.

What kind of fruit do you like?
A date with a peach.

If hot air was music, the Office Cat would be a whole brass band.

There was a sign on the car which read: "Don't smoke, remember the Chicago fire. Don't spit, remember the Johnston flood."

The English critic who says Americans lack imagination should look at some of the overdrawn bank accounts.

Eddie Lawrence says a bad temper may be concealed behind good looks.
A girl who is a thing of beauty is not always a joy forever.

Newspapers invariably report that the robbers used a large black car.
Never a blue, green or red one.

Traces of Spanish Exploration Found
On Hawaiian Isle

HILO, ISLAND OF HAWAII, T.
H., Oct. 22.—(By Mail.)—The discovery of what is described as the imprint of "a practically perfect Spanish shoe, with narrow toe, waist of the foot and heel being clearly defined" in the surface of an ancient lava flow on the west coast of Hawaii near the ancient city of Refuge known as Honaunau, the Hawaiian territory in which has aroused great comment and speculation throughout the territory.

The first Spaniards to touch the island were said to have come in 1576, when tradition said that a Spanish vessel was wrecked on the southeast coast of the island. But the City of Refuge was built in the eleventh century and there is no evidence that any lava flow came down the mountainside of the volcano Mauna Loa, which rises 14,- 000 feet above the City of Refuge, since the city was built. Consequently, it is presumed that the lava flow containing the shoe imprint is of a much more ancient day than 1100 indicating that Spaniards visited the island long before 1576.

The sea-shore at the base of Mauna Loa, near Honaunau is one of the few remaining sections of the Hawaiian territory in which life proceeds along much the same lines as it did a century ago. Like many of the other strange things contained on the 4,000 square mile volcanic island of Hawaii, the problem of the "Spaniard's foot" probably will never be solved.

Modern rice mills are gradually superseding the primitive sort in the Philippines, and modern threshing machines are being used by some of the rice planters.
