HUNTER IS KILLED NEAR MERRILL

A. P. Latta, of Portland, while hunting wild geese yesterday in the company of Crosby Garrison, a former Malin resident and Joe Fotheringham, a Merrill rancher, was killed by the accidental discharge of a shotgun, while driving along the road about eight miles south of Merrill.

The accident occurred about 3:30 o'clock. As the party drove along the road, Latta noticed his shotgun slipping from the machine, and reaching for the weapon grabbed it by the barrel. As he drew it toward him the hammer caught on the running board discharging a load of shot into Latta's left leg, below the knee, the shot ranging upward. His companions quickly made a tourniquet of handkerchiefs in an effort to stop the flow of blood. The wounded man was taken to the John Ratcliffe place and Dr. J. G. Patterson summoned from Klamath Falls. Latta was dead, however, before the physician arrived, death overtaking him at 5:45 o'clock. Dr. Patterson said that his death was due to shock, as the application of the tourniquet had checked the blood flow.

Latta, it seemed was connected with the Apostolic mission in Portland and his last request was that telegrams be sent asking for the prayers of the members of that mission. He is survived by a daughter, who is employed by the American Type Founders Co., in Portland.

A somewhat pathetic incident in connection with unfortunate accident is the fact that Crosby Garrison, who lived with Latta in Portland at Ninth and Burnside streets, drove into this section early last spring in the same Ford car, having with him a child. An accident occurred coming over the Topsy grade and the child was killed.

Latta's body was brought to the Whitlock undertaking parlors today and will be shipped to Portland for interment.

AUTUMN FAIR HAS PROVED BIG SUCCESS

The surge that started the big Autumn Fair on its way Thursday night carried to a high water mark last evening, so high, in fact, that those in charge are satisfied that it is going to be the most successful one yet held.

Plans are all complete for the closing this evening and everything is in readiness for the large crowd that is going to be on hand. Business at all the booths was lively yesterday afternoon and evening. It was so brisk at the fishing pond that that concern had to go out of business, for all the articles on hand were disposed of. A special effort will be made to have at least a partial supply tonight, if it is at all possible to get the articles. Dancing and refreshments will be features for this evening, in addition to the Country Store, the candy and other booths. As usual, the Houston-Fils orchestra will furnish the music.

LACK OF FUNDS MAY DISRUPT MALIN SCHOOL

Lodie Boldischar was a caller at the county collectors' and school superintendent's offices today to inquire about the money which is due the Union High school district at Malin. Boldischar stated that a total of $410 has been received this year to run the district and that the budget provides an allotment of $4,500 for the district during the present school year.

Salaries and other expenses cannot be met, Boldischar said, and unless quick action is taken by the school authorities, the school session in the Union high school may have to be abandoned, a situation which would sadly disrupt the school plans this year. The Union high school was to be formally dedicated this coming week but postponement may be made unless money is obtained to run the district.

The county school superintendent has been remitting money regularly for District 35, Shaasta View school, and some of the money due the Union High school has been diverted temporarily to Shaasta View, and the latter district cannot make it good to Union high Boldischar claims.

The Malin bank holds some protested warrants, amounting to 2,500, which have accumulated during the past eight or nine months and the bank cannot further finance the school system without county support. A serious situation exists for the school at Malin unless quick action is taken by the authorities, Boldischar states.

The county court at its session this afternoon will take the matter under consideration.

EPISCOPAL CHURCH IS NOW A CERTAINTY

At a meeting of a large number of the local members of the Episcopal church held last evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. O. D. Burke, the oft expressed wish of Bishop Paddock was realized. There is to be erected upon the property at the northeast corner of Seventh and High, owned by the Episcopalians, a parish hall.

This decision comes only after years of working and saving by the members of this denomination—endeavors that started when there were but a few here and when it seemed an almost hopeless task to build up a fund of even a thousand dollars, the mark first set by the ambitious and zealous little flock. But the thousand mark was reached and passed, the High street property was purchased and a fund was started for a building, and this has been carefully garnered until the nickels and dimes that have been earned by teas, food sales, bazaars and other undertakings have mounted higher and higher, until the four-thousand dollar mark has been passed. And then came the great question—a church or a parish hall?

The meeting last evening unanimously decided, after hearing Bishop Paddock, who came here for the purpose of aiding his flock to reach a decision, to build a parish hall.

"Unity in the community! That is the keynote, the keynotes, the very foundation of our project," said Bishop Paddock today. "We hope to make our hall, to a great extent, a community center, where in may be held such meetings and undertakings as have for their purpose the bringing closer together the people of the community, irrespective of creed or nationality. Until we have a church, our religious services will be held in the hall."

No decision has been reached as to the character of size of the structure and none will be until the finance committee, has been appointed and it has ascertained how much money will be available. It is not the intention to seek support outside of the denomination, but those who may feel so disposed may contribute, and, it is needless to say, such subscriptions will be gratefully received and appreciated.
