Vanderlip Praises Red Cross Relief Work

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 16.—Americans should continue their humanitarian work in the Near East, said Frank A. Vanderlip, New York financier, when he visited this city in the course of an economic survey of Europe.

"We may be charged with shirking our political responsibilities in the Near East and with desertion of our associates in the late war when they came here to administer an exceedingly awkward and difficult situation," he continued. "But there is nothing but praise for America for her wonderful relief work here."

Mr. Vanderlip said Americans had signally distinguished themselves in their behalf of the 500,000 Russian, Armenian and Turkish refugees who fled to Constantinople. He continued:

"The American Red Cross has furnished these unfortunate refugees with $10,000,000 in supplies and transportation. They have been the chief instrument in moving refugees to where they could have an economic life. Their work has just ceased. There are still tens of thousands of refugees. There are 15,000 utterly without means of support.

"Every American here feels the Red Cross work should be continued for a short time until these remaining refugees are able to secure subsistence for themselves."

PERSONAL MENTION

TO SUBSCRIBERS

The Herald has changed the time for its special rate campaign from April to November. This change was made this year at the request of many subscribers that we change the date of renewal until after the harvest. During November we will accept subscriptions to The Herald at the special rate of $4, where the paper is delivered by mail within the county and $5, where it is delivered by carrier or where the postoffice of the subscriber is outside of the county. All papers that are not paid for in advance by December 1, will be discontinued and anything due will be turned over to a collector for collection at our regular subscription rate of 85 cents a month. All subscriptions taken after December 1st will be charged for on the basis of 65c per month or $6.50 a year.

We feel quite confident that our subscribers will extend to us the same consideration we gave them last spring and send in their subscriptions immediately. Individually, the amount is small, but in the aggregate is a great deal. When you remember that a newspaper makes nothing on its subscriptions, and under the unusual conditions that have existed during the past two years, really loses money on them, you will be good enough, we are sure to give this matter your immediate attention and not wait until the last day, when you may forget it and after which it will be too late to get the benefit of the special rate.

THE HERALD PUBLISHING COMPANY.

S. W. Dwinell, of Macdoel, California returned home this morning after spending two days here on business connected with the Cotton-Peppers mill. Mr. Dwinell stated that he had taken over the property and that it would be in operation the coming spring.

"THE JOURNEY'S END" AT THE STRAND ON SUNDAY

If any one should have made a prediction that the day would come when dramatic pictures would be made without a single subtitle, he would immediately be considered either a theorist or a dreamer, and yet such a dream has been accomplished in "The Journey's End," to be seen at the Strand on Sunday. There is not a single subtitle in it, and yet the action is crystal-clear. This feat has been accomplished by intelligent construction, more intelligent direction, and skillful acting.

And in the unfolding of the plot the auditors are introduced to many scenes which epigrammatically may be summed up thus:

The Catacombs of Rome, many, many feet underground.

The daring and bravery of ironworkers and their fearless handling of the molten metal.

The splendid sacrifice that a strong man made to insure his wife's happiness.

The collapse of a New York skyscraper while in course of construction.

How the pure innocence of a little child averted a tragedy.

The happy end of a man who had given all for love.

The love of a workman for a woman—and how fate juggles their lives.

Many scenes of rare beauty and charm photographed both here and abroad.

The perfect love which questions not but merely seeks to serve.

The balcony scene from "Romeo and Juliet" with a very different ending.

The gardens of a convent in Rome with flowers and rare shrubs blooming in profusion.

A struggle between two men which ended in happiness.

DUCKS AND GESE ARE STILL PLENTIFUL

Duck and goose hunters are still bringing in liberal bags of game from the swamps and grain fields in this section. One morning this week a large flock of geese settled in a grain field near Dorris. The barrage that resulted when several citizens opened fire upon them resembled a miniature Argonne.

WOLFE FAMILY RETURN

Richard F. Wolfe and wife, who recently came to Dorris from Chiloquin, will depart for Oregon soon where they will make their home on a farm owned by Mrs. Wolfe's father. Mr. Wolfe has been associated with the Dorris Lumber and Box company here.

Quebec has cut its street car accidents 50 per cent.

First German Publicly Received

Richard Strauss, famous composer, is the first famous German to be received by a public official in the United States since the v. Mayor Eylan of New York received him at the city hall.
