A CHANGE IN SIZE

Readers of The Herald will notice that the paper comes to them in a new form today. This change was made necessary for two reasons: First, the increase in our circulation has been so great—it is over 2500 now—that we could not print six pages and get the paper to our readers on time, required for presswork being so great that it delayed the paper each day.

WEATHER PROBABILITIES

The barometric pressure has been quite capricious the last two weeks or so, changing from high to low, following each other with rapidity and with great swings from one extreme to the other.
