K. K. K. STORE, Leading Clothiers

THE NEWSPAPER "WAR"

for the paper during the contest, are out their cash. They betrayed the confidence of the men who purchased the preferred stock of the company. And now they undertake to break a legal contract that calls for the delivery over to us of property that has been practically paid for in cash and services rendered.

We are curious to see how the business men of the city will view the matter. The human family from the earliest ages, always recognized a square deal. Modern society has always condemned dishonorable practices and has demanded obedience to the rules of business ethics. We will watch with interest to see, now that the truth is laid before them, who of the business men of the city will place themselves outside of the pale of the early ancestor and modern business conditions.

Since we have opened up the subject, we are going to ask the indulgence of our readers for a further word. For the past year, there has been carried on upon The Herald a vicious, unprincipled, unmanly, illegal attack. Every effort has been put forth to destroy it. In this fight there have been interested some of the so-called "leading business men" of the city.

The reason advanced by some of these was that we were holding them up on advertising rates, notwithstanding the fact that there was no change in rates under our old contract, even though the circulation of the paper—which furnishes the basis upon which rates are based—had materially increased. When the objection was raised to the form of our old contract, we changed it to meet the demands of the objectors, but this did not satisfy. We knew it would not, for we knew what was going on, just as we knew of the midnight raid of the man who deserted his companions.

During the past three years The Herald has stood for everything of a constructive character. Every stand it has taken upon any question before the people of the county has been vindicated. We have sought to avoid strife and controversy, except where silence would be injurious to the community. We have offered to withdraw from the newspaper business at a price that everyone knows is a fair one. We have refrained from retaliation, for we have no desire to plunge this city into a fight that will be of such proportions and entail such consequences to certain individuals in this city, that we will undertake it only as a last resort. But we promise you, if we start we will never quit until we finish what we undertake.

As we have repeatedly stated, we are willing to meet the situation half way. If those engaged in this campaign of destruction of The Herald are men who want to play a man's game, they will find that we will meet them on a fair and square basis, asking only that which one business man should accord to another. But it must be understood from the start that we will never make a humiliating compromise; that we shall not alter the policy of this paper; that we shall never, under any circumstances however remote, permit any person or association of persons, to control the utterances of The Herald, but that we shall follow the same course in the future that we have in the past.

We have not ceased to believe that in time some of the business men of this city would awaken to their unfairness to us and meet us on a man-to-man basis. We shall cling to this belief until we are convinced in our own mind that settlement can be reached only through one course, and when that that time comes we shall unhesitatingly follow it, let the consequences be what they may.
