BEAUTIFUL DISPLAY OF CRATER LAKE PICTURES

Probably the most beautiful display of Crater Lake pictures ever seen in one collection is now on display in the window of Underwood's pharmacy.

There are photos and panorama views in black and white and sepia as well as air-brushed water colors and oils.

There are pictures by Miller and also by Stinson, but it is no disparagement to the work of either of those artists to say that the most beautiful one of all is a photo taken by Duncan in 1912. This picture is the only one ever taken that shows practically the entire lake, both the Phantom Ship and Wizard Island, as well as the full length of the crater. In addition, the cloud effect in the view is most wonderful.

The Eastman Kodak company, of Rochester, N. Y., have thousands of pictures sent to them each year, taken in all parts of the world, and they have pronounced this picture "the finest of the kind" that they have ever seen.

The copyright on the picture is owned by Underwood's, and thousands of copies have been sold from it.

SHE COLLAPSED ON WAY TO STORE

MRS. MENDELHALL HAD TO BE TAKEN HOME BY HER HUSBAND

"I frequently had such awful attacks of indigestion I thought I could not live through them and I was so nervous and restless I got very little sleep. I was so weak that twice on my way to the corner store I collapsed and had to be carried home by my husband.

"I only weighed ninety pounds when I began taking Tanlac and now I weigh a hundred and twenty pounds and I feel better and stronger than ever in my life. I am in such splendid health I can hardly realize I am the same person. In my opinion Tanlac has no equal."

Foremost among these are the consideration of the preliminary results of the new economic policy, which abandons Communism to a considerable extent, and the famine which threatens to wipe out millions of Russians in the Volga Districts before the next harvest.

Report was brought into Merrill that the tank house of Chas. Lewis was burned Friday morning about 7 o'clock. Mr. Lewis was thawing out the pipes, which had frozen. With the help of the neighbors the house, which was near by, was saved.

The people of this vicinity are anticipating the opening of the new drug store. The building has been renovated and new furniture has been installed. The store will be modern in every respect. A soda fountain is being installed.
