REAL SURPRISE FOR PATRONS AT THE STRAND

The patrons of the Strand theatre were given a surprise Saturday evening, when they were greeted by famous Lua Hawaiians, who have appeared on all of the theatre circuits of the world and who have made records for the Victor, Edison and Columbia phonograph companies. Many of their records are on sale in this city at Shepherd's. Their coming was a surprise and was due entirely to a desire to pay a visit to their old time friend, Ted White, manager of the Strand. They were on their way to Hawaii and dropped in to renew old acquaintances.

That they are artists of the highest type is unquestioned. Lua is

Holiday Business

The Holiday Season is always the time of a rush of business. Wholesale and retail trade is stimulated by heavy buying and there is always the resulting congestion and hurry and confusion.

Many suggestions are made for relieving this condition. "Do your Christmas shopping early" is one of the best means of avoiding the rush.

Both buyer and seller at holiday time can secure satisfactory results and quick action by use of the long distance telephone. When you know what you need and where it can be obtained, both parties to the transaction can secure quick and satisfactory results by use of the long distance telephone.

CHRISTMAS SEASON IS MARKED BY MARRIAGES

Another sign of the approach of Christmas and the ensuing holidays is the sudden sale of marriage licenses in greater numbers than usual, by the county clerk. On Saturday last four of Klamath counties young citizens procured licenses to marry. They were: Lee E. Brown and Mary Alene Coates, both of Merrill; Dale N. Clemens and Eva Hanks of this city; Charles I. Coppock and Isarel A. Jones, of Mailin; and Charles A. Patterson and Nellie McAndrews of Klamath Falls.
