NEWS OF INTEREST TO KLAMATH LUMBERMEN

Spruce Timber at Port Angeles Sold

PORTLAND, Jan. 30.—The last of the real property of the United States Spruce Production corporation passed into private hands Friday with the sale of the sawmill at Port Angeles, Wash., and 26 miles of logging railroad to E. S. Grammer of Seattle for $1,500,000. The sawmill has a maximum capacity of 400,000 feet per eight hour shift and the railroad taps standing timber tracts estimated to cruise 10,000,000,000 feet. The stand of spruce timber in the tract is said to be the finest in the world.

Grammer is president of the Admiralty Logging company and the Puget Mill company and is heavily interested in other lumber operations in the Puget Sound district. He announced Friday that as soon as negotiations for the transfer of the property have been completed work of placing the Port Angeles mill and railroad in operation would begin.

The mill was erected by the Spruce Production corporation for the purpose of cutting up spruce lumber for the manufacture of airplanes during the war. The mill buildings were 90 per cent completed when the armistice was signed and the machinery is stored at Vancouver Barracks. Cost of building the railroad was approximately $4,000,000, according to Colonel Van Way, head of the Spruce Production corporation, and estimated cost of the mill was $1,200,000.

According to the terms of the sale the railroad will be operated as a private carrier, except for handling timber blown down in the storm of a year ago, which Grammer has agreed to haul for the owners at cost. Estimates of the down timber vary from 4 per cent to 10 per cent of the total stand in the district served by the road.

The only remaining property held by the Spruce Production corporation consists of 4000 tons of new steel rails, stored at Vancouver Barracks, Colonel Van Way stated. The rails are in weights of 45 and 60 pounds and is suitable for logging operations.

CONFESSES TO THEFTS

Plymouth Storm Admits of Complicity With Haskins Brothers

Plymouth Storm has added his confession to those already made by the four Haskins brothers and their cousin Earl Haskins, and there is now a record of seven burglaries which they have committed. There may be others added to the list, when they have had an opportunity to jog their memories.

The places which they entered are as follows: George Baker's cabin near Upper Klamath Lake; Volchater brothers' tent near Pelican Bay; Charlie Wilson's cabin on the island in Link river; L. K. Porter's residence, 515 N. Eleventh street; J. Knable's cabin at Cofer's brickyard; the Mint farm and a small cabin on Oregon avenue, adjoining Viking's grocery store.

HIS LOAD WAS HEAVY

Stops for Rest in Fireman's Reading Room; Leads in Jail

Herbert Pygal was out with a few friends the other night who entertained him, not wisely, but too well. As the shades of night began to fall he found himself in the vicinity of the city hall. His load at that time had grown too heavy to carry and he sought refuge and rest in the fireman's reading room. There the police found him, wrapped tightly in the arms of Morpheus and moonshine and he was removed to a cell below. When he faced Judge Levitt in the morning, he was sent on his way with the admonition not to repeat the transgression.

WOMEN PLAN CLEANUP

C. of C. Auxiliary to Raise Funds Through Tag Day

Next Saturday, February 4, has been designated as "Tag Day" for the benefit of the improvement campaign planned by the Ladies Auxiliary of the Chamber of Commerce.

One of the first objects of the campaign is the beautifying of the unsightly banks of the Canal and, as the trees must be planted very early in order to insure good growth, it is necessary to raise these funds now. Six of Klamath Falls' representative young women have charge of the Tag Day, each one having four assistants.

Band Sawmill Will Resume on Wednesday

BEND, Jan. 30.—Announcement is made by J. P. Hennessy, manager of The Sheelin-Sixon Company's plant here, that a second shift in the mill will be started Wednesday, February 1. This will mean the employment of at least 150 men in addition to those now employed, and more as soon as some of the lumber is dried and shipping is increased.

The proposed doubling of the output of the mill here is not so much called for by the prospect of a better market, said Hennessy, as by a desire on the part of the Minneapolis officials of the company to break even on overhead expenses, by running the mills at full capacity.

The sales force of the company has recently been increased, said Hennessy, and this is partly responsible for the increase in production planned.

Logging camp No. 2 has just been opened, in anticipation of the second shift in the mill, Hennessy stated.
