NATIONAL FORESTS WILL BE SURVEYED FOR ROAD PROGRAM

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 31.—Assistant Forester Sherman and Chief Engineer Norcross of the forest service have left Washington by an extended trip to the west to confer with their field officers, survey the condition of the national forests, and consider the construction program for forest roads under the federal road law recently enacted.

Sherman and Norcross will be in Portland February 18, and in Salem February 19 and 20, when they will consult with the local forest officials, and with the state highway authorities with reference to the road program in Oregon.

Under the road act forest roads are as "roads wholly or partly within or adjacent to and serving the national forests." A total of $15,000,000 is provided for such roads, of which $5,000,000 is available and the remainder will be available on July 1.

Fifty per cent, but not more than $3,000,000 in any one year, is to be spent for roads and trails of primary importance to the forests, apportioned among the forest land states in proportion to the needs of the forests, considering the people to be served, existing transportation facilities, value of timber and other resources, location of materials to be used and similar considerations.

The rest of the fund is to go for forest roads which are of primary importance to the states and counties, apportioned according to the value and area of the forest lands, probably about half and half between state and county roads. The roads of primary importance to the forests may be constructed without contributions from the states or counties, though their aid may be accepted if offered.

This is the first recognition by the government of its obligation to maintain for itself the roads which are entirely or chiefly built for the protection and administration of the national forests.

BILLY RHODES AT THE STRAND TONIGHT

Billy Rhodes, that dainty morsel of femininity, whose praises have been sung for years by motion picture devotees and reviewers the country over because of her brilliant work in short comedy subjects and in big feature productions, has the picture of her career in "The Blue Bonnet," a vivid visualization of the wonderful work of the Salvation Army "over here," which is shown at The Strand theatre tonight.

Known wherever pictures are as an ingenue comedienne without a rival, Miss Rhodes has electrified her associates by the clever way in which she handled herself in a score
