

The Office Cat

BY JUNIUS

A MID WINTER REVERIE

As wintry winds with dismal sigh Sweep round my humble shack, My thoughts revert to days gone by— Days just a few months back.

The snow sifts in, I know not how, To swell my discontent; Methinks I'll disassemble an awful row When comes the man for rent.

I'm chilled through—neck, hip and thigh; My feet are blamed near frozen; It's three to one the furnace guy Is playing cards, or dezin!

The sun peeps in my dreary room When I am most downhearted, But ere he drives away the gloom, Again he hath departed.

The coin that I had left from coal I've handed to the plumber, So won't, I be a happy soul When comes the good old summer?

The old Spartans used to make their youngsters take a cold plunge to harden them, but the only plunge the hardened youth of today makes is over the bank in father's new car.

Love of money is the root of all industry.

Unnecessary Precaution I say, old man, I advise you to look out for Jinks. He owes you a big grudge on account of that old car you worked off on him.

"Pooh, Pooh, nothing doing. That bird never was known yet to pay anything he owed."

Oh, the sun shines east, The sun shines west, But we think modern styles The best!

There is only one thing braver than a man who will wear overshoes on a rainy day and that is a girl who will wear galoshes.

Foolish Etiquette When Struck By an Automobile As You Are— about to be struck, reach out quickly and, seizing one of the rubber tires, tear it from the rim. This will at least give you an air cushion resting place.

Apologize Humbly— to the chauffeur, a gentle action that will possibly save you from arrest. A wise form of address is to praise the make and speed of his machine.

Depart— as gracefully as possible. The most fashionable way is in an ambulance.
