ANOTHER ANGLE

DEVELOPMENT of the dairying industry is going to play a big part in the future of Klamath county. There is no need to lay stress upon the obvious. The irrigated area of the Klamath project is constantly expanding and we are already past the stage where livestock feeding consumes the year-in-and-year-out hay surplus.

Distance from market makes competition with closer-in hay-growing sections impossible in any present coast market that absorbs large quantities of hay.

The freight cost eats at least half of each ton of hay shipped. Figure in production, hauling and hauling costs and you have the farmer's puzzle—"Find the profit."

The dairy cow is the finest machine so far invented for concentrating crude alfalfa into butter, cheese, cream and canned milk, commodities for which there is always a profitable demand and on which all the profit is not swallowed by freight and handling.

Klamath County is making big advances in dairying. It will soon be at the point where the expansion of the milk-producing industry will be able to keep step with the extension of irrigation, providing that means for concentrating the raw milk are provided.

This means condensing plants, creameries and cheese factories. And this brings us at last to the thought that started us to writing—that good roads and the development of dairying go hand in hand.

The dairyman must deliver the milk from his farm to the creamery or factory at least once daily. To do this economically he must have a highway that is not a series of hogholes in winter and chuck-holes in summer.

The farmer of today is a far-sighted business man and if the premise that dairying is to be the leading future industry is right, then the logical result of the entire county vote on February 21 will be unanimous ratification of the highway bond issue.

The Hollywood movie colony has developed a new sensation, with murder, love, intrigue and all the elements that attract public interest. Exit Patty.

The robins are here. Soon the candidate will be grasping the hands of the proletariat and chirping assurances of unwavering allegiance to their interests. Signs of spring.

It's easy to detect the progressive citizen these days. He's the fellow who shovels the snow off his sidewalk every morning.

We agree with Hiram Johnson that a man must eat but is that a good reason for parking a lunch counter in Sixth street?

DORRIS

Mrs. Gladys Atkinson is home again after a few days visit with her sister, Mrs. Alfred Peterstetter, of Klamath Falls.

Girls of the Dorris high school, under the coaching of their instructor, Mrs. Kate Hope Livingston, are preparing an entertainment for the public to be held at the high school on the evening of Valentine's Day. "Bring enough pennies to go around your heart," is the cryptic wording of the invitations.

George Eborhard of the Butte Valley Machine Shop and Garage has accepted a position with the Associated Lumber and Box Company of this place.

Lester Kirkpatrick of Merrill is visiting with his brother Claude Kirkpatrick and family of Dorris.

Mrs. Dollie Skeen was a passenger to Klamath Falls on last evening's train where she will spend a few days on business.

J. O'Neill of Mt. Hebron was a busness visitor in Dorris Wednesday.

Dr. J. G. Goble, optometrist-optician of Klamath Falls, was in Dorris last Sunday visiting with old friends. He will be here again Sunday, February 12.

Residents were surprised but elated to arise yesterday morning and find the earth covered again with six to eight inches of snow. Every inch of snow is appreciated by those who are dependent upon this commodity to furnish moisture for summer crops.

Herman Berceovich, proprietor of the Dorris Mercantile company, is expected home from San Francisco this week end. Berceovich has been in the city attending buyer's week and acquainting himself with business conditions.

SAYS FOUNDATION FOR UNITY RESULT OF SPANISH WAR

CHICAGO, Feb. 10.—Calling attention to the anniversary, February 15, of the sinking of the battleship Maine, Oscar F. Christrom, commander in chief of the United States War Veterans, in a written statement today declared it his belief that the war with Spain which ensued, "laid the foundation for that unity of action and singleness of purpose which enabled America to act with such force and consequence in the great world war."

"When on February 15," he writes, "the news was flashed across the United States that the battleship Maine, resting at anchor in the harbor of Havana on a friendly mission, had been blown up and had settled into a watery grave, carrying with her 265 of her crew to a death hurried upon them without opportunity for even resistance, the spirit of America flamed into an unquenchable passion."

Commander Christrom then sketched the activities of the army and navy in the Spanish American war, telling of Dewey's victory, the Oregon's trip around the Horn and the achievements of Schley and Sampson at sea and Shafter and Lawton on land.

"Three or four months and it was over," he said. "Many have asked what it all amounted to? In our opinion, First: It bound together the North and the South, the East and the West in the unbreakable ties of comradeship in arms. Second: It taught the world that the sleeping young giant, America, could rise and strike mightily and quickly, decisive blows for liberty and human rights, unselfishly. Third: It gave to America her first place, her first concern and a leading position of respect in the councils of the nations."

Commander Christrom concluded his statements by reciting the objects of the Spanish American War Veterans and issuing an invitation for all those who are eligible, to join.

"HELL'S OASIS" AT THE STRAND TONIGHT

"Hell's Oasis," the feature of tonight's bill at the Strand is a screen adaptation of Wm. L. Roberts' famous stage play, "The Fighting Parson," which title will be recognized by all theatrical lovers for the past two generations.

The story runs from evil to good—with struggles every inch of the path. Because of his love for a girl, the hero finds himself marked for assassination by a gang of criminals who had enlisted on their side practically an entire community, whose aim it is to remove him and the girl and everything else that has anything to do with reforming the one worst spot in the Great American Desert.

Neal Hart is very much at home in the part of the Fighting Parson. It is an excellent role for him and his success in it proves his versatility, for it is the first time that Hart has ever been seen in a story with religion the main thread of a "bad-man" theme.

Betty Brown is charming in the role of the little evangelist, the girl for whom Hart risks his life.

VALENTINES ARE SENT TO ADVERTISE CITY

CHICAGO, Calif., Feb. 10.—Valentines will advertise Chico to the four corners of the country, if residents of this city co-operate with Eugene Bowles, secretary of the chamber of commerce.

The chamber of commerce idea is for residents to enclose literature of this city in St. Valentine messages to their friends in other sections of California and in the East. The chamber of commerce will furnish literature.

WOMAN MAYOR OF TOWN 80 YEARS OLD

MAGNETIC SPRINGS, O., Feb. 10.—Mrs. Mary McFadden, who was eighty years old last December, has been appointed Mayor of this village and thereby hanks a tale of how the secretary of the Commerce club here originated and put through to a successful conclusion, the idea of bringing publicity to a health resort whose popularity appeared to be waning.

As Secretary Williams of the Commerce club tells it, this little health resort of 200 residential cottages, tucked away in the country, 14 miles over rutty roads from the nearest town, Delaware, was in a rut and something had to be done.

When Mayor Nathan O. Brown announced his intention of spending the winter in Florida, Secretary Williams conceived the idea. "We will appoint a woman mayor," he suggested and prevailed upon Mayor Brown to name Mrs. McFadden to act during his absence, giving as his reason that Mrs. McFadden was the oldest woman in town capable of acting as mayor during Brown's absence.

This was done and Secretary Williams got busy in the publicity end of the venture. Almost overnight Magnetic Springs became known as the home of the oldest woman mayor in the country. The old bus to Delaware that had almost stopped operating for lack of patronage, once more took on life and did a thriving business, particularly with newspaper reporters and curiosity seekers.

Mrs. McFadden met the newspaper boys and frankly told them: "I hardly know what it is all about." Secretary Williams issued announcements concerning her policies.

But this was not all. The state officials at Columbus questioned the legality of her acting as mayor. They pointed out that the job automatically fell upon the shoulders of the president of the village council. Secretary Williams was equal to the emergency. He induced a councilman to resign, if necessary and then induced the president pro tem to resign as president of council and the way was paved to have Mrs. McFadden fill the position as president pro tem of the council and thereby assume the office of mayor.

And Magnetic Springs has been turned into a thriving village, according to Secretary Williams.

WHEN THE PAPER DOESN'T COME

My father says the paper
He reads ain't put up right,
He finds a lot of faults, he does.
Persuade it all night.
He says there ain't a single thing
In it worth while to read,
And that it doesn't print the kind
Of stuff the people need.
He tosses it aside and says
It's strictly on the bum—
But you ought to hear him holler
When the paper doesn't come.

He reads about the wedding
And he snorts like all get out,
He reads the social do's
With a most derisive shout.
He says they make the papers
For the women folks alone,
He'll read about the parties
And he'll fume and fret and groan.
He says of information
It doesn't have a crumb—
But you ought to hear him holler
When the paper doesn't come.

He's always first to grab it.
And he reads it plumb clear thru.
He doesn't miss an item
Or a want ad—this is true.
He says they don't know what we want,
The darn newspaper guys;
I'm going to take a day sometime
An' go an' put 'em wise.

Sometimes it seems as though they must
Be deaf and blind and dumb—
But you ought to hear him holler
When the paper doesn't come.

HERMAN KURTZTSCHE

"When it comes to eating, working and sleeping, I'm like a different man from what I was a short time ago," said Herman Kurtztisch, 106 1/2 Norris Place, Milwaukee, with the Northwestern Life Insurance Co. in relating his experience with Tanlac.

"My whole system was about to give way as a result of two years' constant suffering from stomach trouble and I was so run down and worn out I was hardly able to work. I actually dreaded to eat, as after every meal I suffered so terribly from heartburn, and I was so nervous I got little rest day or night. "If it hadn't been for Tanlac I'm firmly convinced I would have had to resign my place. It came to my aid in the nick of time and I am strong for it. Tanlac was worth at least fifty times what it cost me."

1,000-YEAR OAK MAY BE W. O. W. EMBLEM

CHICO, Feb. 10.—An oak tree whose age is estimated to exceed 1,000 years and under whose prodigious branches General William Tecumseh Sherman estimated an army of 7,000 could stand, has been proposed by people of this city as the emblem of the Woodmen of the World. The tree is not far from here. A proposal to this effect has been made to the head camp of the order at Denver, Colorado. The tree was named after Sir Thomas Hooker, noted English naturalist, who in 1877, after close examination and considerable study, pronounced it larger than any of the wondrous oaks for which England is famed. Sir Thomas said the tree was more than ten centuries old. It is more than 100 feet high and its circumference eight feet above the ground is 24 4-10 feet. Its longest branch extends away from the trunk for 195 feet. From north to south its branches extend an even 200 feet. The greatest circumference of its outside branches is said to be almost 100 feet.
