PROGRESSING

Pendleton Tribune

REPUBLICANS did not promise to pull the nation immediately out of the depression into which democratic policies had thrown it. They have never professed to be able to do so and no reasonable man expects them to. On March 4, 1922, the republican administration will have been in power 12 months, and it has accomplished more than most people thought possible in that length of time. By adoption of the budget and by reduction of estimates in congress, immense savings have been made.
By a conference on limitation of armaments, international agreements have been reached as a result of which millions upon millions of dollars will be saved to the nation in years to come. By the enactment of an emergency agricultural tariff law, imports of foreign foodstuffs have been reduced and the home market saved for the American farmer, where foreign competition was injuring him. By a wise administration of our fiscal system Liberty Bonds have been brought from about 85 cents on the dollar to a market value of 97 cents on the dollar.

Touching on one phase of accomplishment, the Bache Review of New York, says: "The farm condition still continues to occupy attention and remains on the front page of financial reviews. The dismal picture which has been pretty steadily depicted is, however, changing somewhat. The real change began when, through the efforts of Eugene Meyer, jr., the war finance corporation's powers were revived and almost immediately utilized to ease the pressure and skillfully send credit through the agricultural structure where it was most needed."
We recommend that quotation to the attention of Cordell Hull, chairman of the democratic national committee. Hull recently declared that the republicans are responsible for the present financial depression. A democratic administration refused to revive the war finance corporation, but a republican congress, while Wilson was still president, passed a bill for that purpose. Wilson vetoed it, and both houses passed it over his veto, Hull voting with the republicans.

Now do not overlook these facts.
There was a depression that started in 1920, before any of the national conventions had been held. The democrats refused to do anything to help the situation. The revival in agriculture, which is the basis of all our prosperity, began with the restoration of the war finance corporation.
That government agency was restored by the republicans over the veto of Wilson, and with Hull's approving vote. Hull is on record as against his own assertions.

column Saturday on the 1922 business outlook should have been credit-credit line was inadvertently omitted.

Cutworms Relish Poison Bait

One of the most injurious forms of cutworms in Oregon passes the winter in the soil as partly grown caterpillars. After the plowing is done in the spring there is no food left for them and they develop a wonderful appetite for early set plants or sprouting crops. To avert this injury broadcast the standard cutworm poison over the ground sometime between the plowing and the appearance of the crop above ground. Fifteen pounds per acre is sufficient for the worst infestation. The poison mixture calls for bran, 50 pounds, calcium arsenate, lead arsenate or paris green, 2 pounds, and one gallon of molasses.
Add water to make a crumbly mass, being careful not to get it too moist to scatter well.

News From the Country

MERRILL

A surprise party was given at the Jones' home three miles northeast of Merrill. The evening was spent in dancing and other games. A lunch was served and a pleasant time enjoyed by all.

W. F. Fruits was a passenger on Friday's stage.

Miss Elda Offield of Klamath Falls spent the week end with her parents Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Offield.

We do not need to read of the long winters as we are experiencing one of the severest in years. The ground has been covered with snow for eleven weeks. But as there is plenty of cheap feed nothing need suffer. The people from Doid Hollow report snow from three to four and a half feet.

A dance was given at the home of Dan J. Murphy just north of town Tuesday night. Although it was a cold night the dancers were not dismayed. All seemed to enjoy a pleasant evening.

Miss Ruth Hill was a visitor over Sunday with her parents.

A number of students are reported absent from school on account of colds.

Mrs. Drew of Klamath Falls, has been visiting her daughter, Mrs. Fred Peterson.

Offield and Ratcliff have moved a bunch of cattle to the C. E. Craig place to feed.

Mr. and Mrs. John Ratcliff Jr., are receiving congratulations on the birth of a daughter, born Tuesday, February 28.

Miss Ella Hatton and Miss Helen Elliott spent the week end in Klamath Falls.

Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Martin of Klamath Falls were visitors Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Anderson.

The Library club met at the Library, March 2. It was decided to buy linoleum for the library floor. A committee consisting of Mesdames R.
H. Anderson, Harwood, Jinnette, Davis, Frasier and Carleton was appointed to have charge of the card party for March. Refreshments were served after the business meeting by Mesdames Jinnette, Davis, Frasier and Carleton. The following were present: Mesdames R. H. Anderson, F. Peterson, R. Kattenhorn, J. Dewey, E. D. Harwood, P. C. Grimshaw, C. Bailey, G. A. Thoma, Moyer, Wm.
Walker, Jas. Stevenson, Geo. J. Walton, Gleim, Geo. Wright, Shuck and the hostesses.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. J. Walton spent Monday in Klamath Falls, while there being the guests of Judge and Mrs. D. V. Kuykendall.

Practically all the lambs have been shipped from the Merrill country, a large shipment taking place recently, owing to the low price of feed and the increase in price of lambs. The feeding has been very profitable this year.

R. C. Anderson and daughter Mrs.
Dan Colwell and Katherine Colwell left Wednesday morning for Chico, Cal. in hopes that the climate might prove of benefit to Katherine. She has been quite ill for some time.

BONANZA

Bonanza residents were privileged to witness the onward march of civilization from the time of Columbus to the present day, when the grade pupils presented the pageant "Civilization" Friday night to a record audience.

The play was under the management and direction of the grade teachers, Mrs. C. Chaney, Misses Nettie Dryden and Alice Lytle. Each part was well played and each pupil showed the result of careful training and rehearsal.

Following is the program of the evening:
Opening song, "You're Welcome If You Keep Right Still."—Chorus of children.

Song, "Peterkins & Polly"—Dorothy and Donald Grisez.

Ribson drill, a group of girls.
Song, "Two Crusty Little Pies." Amelia Bun, Anna Hamaker, Leonard and Darrel Bell.

THE MYSTERIOUS RIDER, STORY BY ZANE GREY
AT STRAND TODAY

A photoplay that more than does justice to the splendid novel from which it was filmed as "The Mysterious Rider," Benjamin B. Hampton's photodramatization of the best seller by Zane Grey, the newest Hodgkinson release which is presented at the Strand Theatre today. A love story of compelling sweetness, powerful drama, mystery, suspense and intrigue; a sparkle of fun and humor throughout, and a great, thrillingly human theme at the base of it all—those qualities sum up "The Mysterious Rider."

Seldom has a better group of artistists been assembled for a single cast than in "The Mysterious Rider," and certainly that cast has never been excelled in point of fitness for the various story roles.
A sweet, wholesome love story, a drama of compelling power, humor, pathos and a touch of tragedy before love's sunshine breaks forth at the end—that's "The Mysterious Rider," the newest Hodgkinson photoplay presented at the Strand Theatre today.
Also at Jennings, in another episode in the life of the Reformed Bandit and a good comedy. Same prices prevail, 19-29 cents.
