

HIGHWAY AGAIN OPEN

Scenic Columbia River Route Cleared of Ice and Snow

PORTLAND, March 10.—The Columbia river highway, Oregon's famous scenic route traversed every year by thousands of tourists from all parts of the country, is again open for traffic after having been blockaded for several weeks as a result of a freakish storm which swept the region in December.

A combination of sleet and snow was piled in deep drifts along the highway for many miles in Multnomah and Hood river counties, shutting off all traffic, working a hardship on sections of the state which normally depend upon the highway for transportation facilities all the year round, as well as preventing sight-seeing trips.

Multnomah county put crews of men to work cutting a pathway through the ice walls that covered the highway, and the state highway commission undertook to clear that part of the highway in Hood river county adjoining.

When the unusual storm swept the Columbia River gorge railroads were blockaded for several days, and many automobiles overturned by the storm were stalled in deep drifts.

Seconds of Boxers Not to Use Towels

PORTLAND, March 10.—Seconds of boxers appearing in Portland bouts must use fans and not towels between rounds and must not talk or shout to the boxers between rounds, according to rules recently adopted by the local boxing commission.

Only two persons, in addition to the fighter, will be allowed in the corners between rounds. A space just outside the ring is assigned the seconds and they will not be allowed to move from this space while a round is in progress.

Use of towels was forbidden because they raise too much rosin from the ring floor. While the boxers are in action the seconds can use signals but can talk to their men only between rounds.

DIVORCE FILED

A divorce suit was filed in the circuit court recently by William Hyde against Rita Hyde, the complaint charging cruel and inhuman treatment.

SASKATCHEWAN SHEEP MEN INCREASING THEIR FLOCKS

REGINA, Sask., March 10.—"In spite of the fact that the prices for mutton, lamb and wool are much lower than they were immediately after the war, the sheep population of Saskatchewan is slowly but steadily increasing," J.G. Robertson, secretary of the Saskatchewan Sheep Breeders' association, reports in his annual statement.

"The increase is not due to any new purchase of sheep to any great extent, but to the fact that the increased demand in earlier years has not yet lost its momentum, and to natural increase," says Robertson. "It is also possible that many farmers are realizing that, taking all things into consideration, there is just as much profit in maintaining a fair-sized flock as there is in producing any other farm product.

Although sheep men have to accept lower prices, Robertson states that they can at least secure the very best prices obtainable if they will cater to market requirements.

INDUSTRIAL HOME FOR THE SALVATION ARMY

SPOKANE, Wash., March 10.—"Put the down-and-out in an atmosphere which will make him ashamed to stay down and out," is to be the motto of the Salvation Army's new $120,000 social and industrial home, which is to be finished and opened here some time this month.

It will not be a spoken motto, but it will be a psychological condition. The building represents the latest ideas in social work of this type. When thrown open, it will become the men's center of the Salvation Army in Spokane, and in an emergency, a thousand or more people can be cared for in it.

The big fresh air basement will house a number of dormitories, showers, and a reading and writing room. Then there will be a gymnasium, a soup kitchen for emergencies, an employment bureau and hotel rooms for those able to pay. The auditorium and officers' quarters complete the building.

Shot Ends Trial

Marcie Mathews, 17, of Waco, Texas, didn't wait for the law to take its course. She settled the trial of J. S. Crossin, below, whom she accused of wronging her, by shooting him in the courtroom.

School students stretch their muscles, he has a supplementary class in a down-town bank, where he has been engaged by the bank officials.

Every member of the bank staff, from president to janitor, stands first on one foot, then on the other, "bending the crab," varying the exercise with a series of movements which would readily intimidate the nerviest bank robber. The money goes uncounted for half an hour, from 4 to 4:30, and then the staff goes back to work. The diversion seems to be enjoyed.

NO ADVERTISING SIGNS IN CALIFORNIA FORESTS

SAN FRANCISCO, March 10.—Advertising signs in the 17 national forests of California must come down, following an order issued by the district forester at San Francisco on January 27. Advertisements printed on rocks and trees are also to be effaced. According to the regulations of the forest service of the United States Department of Agriculture, such advertising is prohibited in all national forests without special permits, which are seldom issued. The object of this regulation is to prevent defacing the mountain landscapes of the national forests with billboards and other unsightly signs.
