JUST LIKE A MAN

By C. J. Later

Paw was stormin' round the house an' lookin' fer the comb. Sed he ter Maw "Bome things have legs the way they seem 'em' roam. Why, 'twuzn't more'n an hour ago I put it right up here."

A pointin' to a little shelf atop the chiffonier.

Poor Maw, she never sed a word. Just side glanced thoughts at me. As if I knew, if I would speak, just where that comb could be.

An, Jee, I hadn't seen the thing 'cuz 'twan on Saturday.

When a feller doesn't hev to comb to just go out an' play.

Gosh! Paw jst kep' stormin' 'round, each minute raised his ire. An' if stch words could make a smoke, you'd though our house afire.

'Twuz in the kitchen, 'neath the stove an' under every chair. That Paw went hobin up an' down, more crosser an a bear.

He looked the icebox through an' through an' stirred the garbage can. At which my Maw jst hed to laugh an' sed "That silly man!"

An' then she riz up from her chair. "Paw, will you please look here?" A pointin' to a little shelf atop the chiffonier.

"Women may smoke," sagely remarks Andy McGee "but the old-fashioned way of scratching a match still remains a strictly masculine privilege."

That's what you might call the seat of consolation for menfolks.

What has become of the Oulja board that used to tell us everything that was going to happen?

Rastus Washington called at Underwood's Drug store the other day. "Boss," he said, "I want one ob dem plasters you done stiek on yoah back."

"I understand," said Magoo, "you mean one of our porous plasters."

"No, nah," he replied positively. "I don't want none of yoah poorest plasters—I want the best one you got."

ATTA HOY

A barber who hailed from Perdue would continually urge a shampoo. He talked so of dandruff.

That the townfolk got damrruff. And made this poor barber skiddoo.

Fred Duke says the man who lays down on the job picks a mighty poor couch.

"Spring skirts will be 6 inches from the knee," says A. C. Yaden. Up or down?

The Kaiser wants permission to move to Finland. The finish, as you were about to say.

He blew himself for an auto. Took his wife out for a run. He punctured all four tires at once. Bill: $19.91.

He paid that first bill gladly. Then started out once more. Stopped too quick and stripped his ears. Bill: $20.84.

Next he left his wife at home. And took out his soul mate. His carburetor sprung a leak. Bill: $39.48.

She had to have a little lunch. With wine beneath the tree. They lost their way and other things. Bill: $16.63.

Next day he killed a neighbor's cow And hurt a boy aged 'leven. A gasoline man called that day. Bill: $15.57.

His cash was gone, no food to eat. And still this young sport cried. He put a mortgage on the house. And take just one more ride.

Saving

I have often been asked to define the true secret of success. It is THRIFT in all its phases, THRIFT as applied to saving. A young man may have many friends, but he will find none so steadfast, so ready to respond to his wants, so capable of pushing him ahead, as a little leather-covered book, with the name of a bank on its cover.

Saving is the first great principle of all success. It creates independence, it gives a young man standing, it fills him with vigor, it stimulates him with the proper energy; in fact, it brings to him the best part of any success—happiness and contentment. If it were possible to inject the quality of saving into every boy, we would have a great many more real men.—Sir Thomas Lipton
