

The Office Cat

BY JUNIOR

EVER HAPPEN TO YOU? My dad was never good to me. Was never nice and kind. The coward would lay me on his knee And strike me from behind.

"You can't lick me," said the two-cent stamp as the post mark struck him.

Amos Tash says, kissing is a dangerous habit, but ain't it grand if you live thru it?

Judge—"And why haven't you a horn on your automobile?" Italian—"Please, Mister Joodga, I don't need a horn. It says on da front, "Dodge."

Joe the Plodder says that factious speak louder than words to the politician.

Egg-View Note The infant terrible gazed intently at the head of a visitor which was as bald as a billiard ball. His mother trembled, for she knew of what the darling was capable. "Mama," suddenly remarked the boy, "When this gentleman has been in mischief do they spank him on the head?"

S. E. Martin says the only mark some fellows make in the world is the reputation they get for being E. Z. Marks

Identified The bank teller in a snippy way said: "But I don't know you, madam!"

The woman was red-headed, and she got "red-headed" in a minute. She said, "Oh, yes, you do. I don't need anyone to identify me. I'm the 'red-headed' hen' next door to you whose 'imps of boys' are always running across your garden. When you started to town this morning your wife said: 'Now, Henry, if you want a dinner fit to eat this evening, you'll have to leave me a little money. I can't keep this house on Christian Science.'"

"Here is your money," interrupted the paying teller very faintly.

TUFF I've tried to stem the tide of fate. My efforts have been in vain. I'm either too early or too late. To climb the hill of fame.

No, Dorothy, dear, people are not necessarily subject to bulls just because they find themselves in hot water.

Bobby came home from his first day at kindergarten with the announcement that he could write. Up on being given a pencil and paper he made his usual meaningless scribbles. "But what," said his mother, "does it say?"

"How do I know?" answered Bobby. "I haven't learned to read it yet."

No Reason Mother, why do you put this stuff in the Office Cat column when I'd sooner read about how to make a wireless telephone?

Don't ask me, Reginald; editors is funny things.

Our Daily Fiction Once upon a time there was a man who appeared before the city council to protest against a street assessment who didn't begin his speech by saying, "I have lived in this city for 20 years; I am an American citizen, and I pay taxes—big taxes—on my property."

Little four year old Will was playing in the rain. His mother called "Will come in you'll get your feet wet and get a cold in the bargain." Will came in and asked "Mother where is my bargain?"

SLAYER IS SUICIDE

Double Verdict Returned by Coroner's Jury in Double Tragedy

ELLENSBURG, March 18.—A verdict of "murder and suicide" was returned by the coroner's jury in connection with the slaying yesterday of Andrew Young of Seattle, by Tom Vining, a veteran railroad conductor, who later shot and killed himself. Young had two sisters living in Albany, Oregon.

Capt. Wm. Arnold, division superintendent of the Warren Construction company is here in the interest of his company, looking after paving and irrigation business.

LITTLE MARJORIE DAW IN "FIFTY CANDLES"

Probably the deepest interest of most every audience rests in the feminine appeal of a picture.

If the men are handsome, they attract the eye. If a character player is realistic in his work he is branded as a real artist and is admired for his ability to inject this realism in his portrayal, but with these and the greatest variety of strongly upheld parts, no picture has the appeal which does not carry the feminine charm that goes far beyond the eyes and on to the heart.

Perhaps the most winsome of screen ingenues of the play is little Miss Marjorie Daw who is lending her talents to Irvin V. Willat's "Fifty Candles" which comes to the Strand Theatre Sunday. Miss Daw's ability to demand a laugh or tear at will to say nothing of her delicate handling of any part assigned her, has certainly embodied her in the memories of all lovers of the screen.

Miss Daw is happy in the enacting of the role of Mary-Will Tellfair, a little lady whose heart has carried her to faroff lands in order that she might marry the boy she believes she loves. Edward Burns as Ralph Coolidge, a young American civil engineer, plays opposite Marjorie Daw.

IF YOU REQUIRE GLASSES

You need them now. To postpone the wearing of glasses because of groundless prejudice is to take risks with your eyes. You cannot be too careful to preserve the quality of your vision. To begin to care for your eyes today is better than tomorrow. One eye, if not both may be slightly defective, and defects can only grow worse if the eyes are left to grapple with them unaided.
