Bear and Bees

Fable: Once upon a time there was a gruff old fellow with the goat who never said a word when folks stumbled over his bad foot.—Brooklyn Home News.

A Mean Thing to Say

"I have so much on my hands at present that I don't know what to do."

"Why not try some soap and water?"

POME

Dare to do right.
Dare to be true.
And crooked stock salesmen
Will be after you.

Not a Second Time

"What man has done, you can do."
"But those who have been done
you can't do so easily."

Essay on Service

By—Cy Kology

I reckon that word holds a record for overwork. Almost a case of service, service everywhere, but mostly pen and ink.

To my way of thinkin' the concern that gives genuine service to its patrons doesn't have to advertise it.

Service itself is an advertisement you can see in the dark.

Information

"I have brought this Christmas present."
"To exchange it?" interposed the jeweler.
"No, merely to ask what it is?"

Trimming Them up

New office boy—Please, sir, you told me to file these letters, sir, but wouldn't it be easier to trim them off with a pair of scissors.

SOME BOY

He ran just like an arrow, you. He surely was a find. In fact he ran so fast, one day He left his shoes behind.

This can be said, they don't have to lift their skirts when crossing a slushy street.

A friend of mine who was invited out to dinner Sunday passed his glass when he was asked if he would have some corn, says Harold Christy.

L. L. Brownell says a doctor often tells his patients to go to a warmer climate—when they are slow in paying their bills.

Acquired Knowledge

Used Car Dealer—What! Can't pay your note? Why, you four-flusher, before you bought this car, you told me that you were well off."

(Victim sighing)—So I was, but I didn't know it.

Blessed are the peacemakers—but they have a ticklish job.

No man ever realizes what a horrible looking critter he is until he sees his reflection in the mirror of public opinion.

Another Victim

This is the dope on Chauncey Mc-Mann.
Who went out to drive in his brand new sedan;
Speed was his curse, he came home in a hearse,
A dead-to-rights case of a joy-riding fan.

TODAY'S FASHIONS

DOGS AND TOGS GROW DAILY ROUGHTR AND ROUGHER AND DECIDEDLY SMARTER
Wire-Haired Breeds and Snappy Tweeds Are a Splendid Combination for the Out-Door Girl

Whether you are buying a new dog or a new street suit, the one thing you simply must remember is, "The rougher, the smarter."

Time was, and not so many years ago at that, when dogs and fabrics were smooth. For handsome gowns and wraps, women wore rich broadcloth and allied fabrics; for street and traveling suits, nothing more informal than serge or cheviot.

And in those days smooth-haired pug dogs, silky spaniels, dainty little terriers were the accepted favorites of the canine world.

But rough dogs and rough togs have been creeping on us gradually for several years.

All over America today rough breeds and rough tweeds are in the forefront of fashion.

For the business woman, the sportswoman, or the shopper, as well as Miss Fifth Avenue out giving her wire-haired fox terrier its constitutional, already one perceives that nothing will be more popular for the spring of 1933 than the three-piece suit, which, in most of its variations, consists of but two pieces!

Sometimes the three-piece suit is really made of skirt, blouse and cape, but most frequently it consists of a simple, one-piece dress with a matchless cape. Often the dress is sleeveless, of the genus once called "jumper," with which any sort of sport silk or lingerie blouse may be worn.

While tweeds are in the limelight, heavier mixtures, wool jersey and the newer kasha, a delightful fabric with a very close, wooly weave, are ideal for the three-piece suit.

RAISING BABY CHICKS

E. H. Thomas, County Agent

More than 20,000 day-old chicks from various hatcheries in California and Oregon will be shipped into Klamath county during March and April. Many people will raise 90 per cent of the chicks received. However, where the chicks do not have proper care and feed, a 50 per cent loss is not uncommon. Much depends upon how the chicks are handled during the first few days.

It is highly important that a definite understanding be reached with the hatchery as to just what day the chicks are to arrive, and arrangements be made for receiving them from the express company or the postoffice the night they arrive in Klamath Falls. Care should be taken that the chicks do not become chilled while on the way home.

The brooder or brooder house should be started long enough before the chicks arrive so that their quarters are perfectly dry and the temperature up to what it should be. It is a good plan to see that each chick gets a swallow or two of sour milk or butter milk the first night as they are taken out of the shipping box.

There are a number of good methods of feeding, of course. The following has been successfully used; beginning the next morning after the chicks are received, feed a good grade of commercial chick feed five times a day, feeding about what the chicks will clean up in ten to fifteen minutes, except at night, when they should have all they will eat. Give them all the sour milk or buttermilk they will drink, but no water. Mix a small amount of fine grit with the first four feeds of chick feed. After this, keep fine grit and finely granulated bone before them all the time.

Two days later begin feeding wheat bran, keeping it before them for a short time after the grain has been fed for the first few days, later leaving the bran before them all the time.

At the beginning of the second week, the number of feeds of chick feed can be reduced, so that by the end of the week the chicks are receiving chick feed three times a day. Also, in place of straight bran, keep a dry mash before them, made up of three parts bran and two parts of shorts, by weight.

When four weeks old, wheat can gradually be added to the commercial chick feed, so that by the time the chicks are five or six weeks old they are eating whole grain without the addition of the commercial chick feed. Water should not be given in addition to the milk until the chicks are three weeks old.

Much of the heavy losses occur during the first week, due to some form of white diarrhea. Sometimes the chicks are diseased when they arrive, but more often the disease follows chilling, either in transit or because the quarters are improperly heated. The most prevalent form of this disease yields readily to a treatment with catechu. As soon as any indication of the disease is noticed, the entire flock should be given access for two days to drinking water to which catechu has been added in the proportions of one level teaspoonful to three gallons of water. It is best to dissolve the catechu first in a small amount of hot water. This is not so much a cure for the chicks in advanced stages of the disease as it is a preventative when the disease is in the flock.

OREGON BREVITIES

Income tax receipts for 1932 have fallen off $300,000,000 so far. States planning to raise revenues by a state income tax would find themselves on a diminishing revenue.

WHY SUFFER SO?

Why suffer from a bad back, from sharp, shooting twinges, headaches, dizziness, and distressing urinary ills? Klamath Falls people recommend Doan's Kidney Pills. Ask your neighbor! Could you ask for stronger proof of merit?

Mrs. Jeff Wilson, 1402 Oregon Ave., Klamath Falls, says: "Doan's Kidney Pills are a family remedy in our home and whenever the occasion calls for a kidney remedy Doan's never fail to do the work. I have taken Doan's for a long time for I have been more or less subject to backache and kidney trouble. At times I have such terrible pains through my kidneys that I can hardly go. My kidneys act irregularly and I feel miserable. I used Doan's Kidney Pills and am not bothered with backache or kidney trouble now. Doan's have been a great benefit to me." (Statement given March 13, 1932).

On March 16, 1932, Mrs. Wilson said: "I gladly repeat all I said in favor of Doan's Kidney Pills as there is nothing better for kidney complaint. I use Doan's occasionally to keep my kidneys in good order." Co., at all dealers. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y.—Adv.
