

The Office Cat

BY JUNIUS

He didn't have a stylish wife, Who followed all of fashion's fads With those new fangled skirts and pads.

She never begged his accounts By running bills of large amounts. For costly plumes and four-foot hats And fancy high-heeled shoes and spats.

And evening gowns of texture fair; She wore no jewels in her hair. She never had a desire to skip To Europe for a summer trip.

In social realms she didn't shine And never had to stand in line At swell receptions dressed to kill; There was no unpaid modiste's bill. Though like all women everywhere, She never sulked about that fact. But got along with wondrous tact. The servant problem peeved her not. She never worried o'er her lot. Or caused a single family jar Because she had no touring car. And last, but not the least to note, She didn't even want to vote.

When little Percival arrived at school he carried the following note: "Dear Teacher: Our little Percival is a very delicate child, and if he is naughty—and he is apt to be naughty—at times—just punish the boy next to him and that will frighten him so he'll be good."

RISKY

People who live in glass houses shouldn't make noise.

Fashion Note

New hats will be trimmed with skunk fur. That's sensible.

One of the medical journals says indigestion causes people to lie. Here's a chance for somebody. Pink pills for prevaricators.

FACT

Wealth does not make men humble, Bill.

A thoughtful man declares; You'll find the heir to millions will Put on a million airs.

"What has become of the girl you were making love to in the hammock last summer?" "We fell out."

Who remembers back when motor car thieves used to wait until you got out of your car before they stole it?
