OUTBREAKS IN IRELAND REACH SERIOUS STAGE

Republican and Free State Forces Clash; Shooting More Frequent

LONDON, April 6.—Indications that the situation in Ireland is becoming dangerous in consequence of the growing antagonism of republicans toward supporters of the free state are given in daily newspaper dispatches. Hostile demonstrations by revolting sections of the Irish republican army against the Irish regulars have been reported with increasing frequency during the last few days. The demonstrations are often accompanied by shooting and seizure of free state property.

DUBLIN, April 6.—One hundred young men from Tralee, proceeding to Dublin to join the free state army, were intercepted today at Malrow, County Cork, where they were to change trains, by a strong party of republicans. A clash occurred in which one of the free state recruits was wounded. All the free state men were then arrested and taken to the barracks at Duittevant, County Cork.

BELFAST, April 6.—Republican forces were reported to be concentrated on the Ulster frontier between Counties Leitrim and Fermanagh. An officer and six special constables patrolling the shores of Lake Sillan, 10 miles north of Belleco, were attacked by 75 persons using a machine gun. One constable was killed.

SERMONS BY RADIO

Inter-Denominational Services Are Broadcasted for Oakland

SAN FRANCISCO, April 6.—Chimes pealing through the air at 11 o'clock each Sunday morning give notice to radio telephone fans along the Pacific coast that church services are beginning. After the chimes have called the auditors, a voice announces that inter-denominational church services are to be broadcast by the Rockridge station at Oakland.

Hymns, anthems, a prayer and a sermon are heard during the seventy-five minutes the Trinity Center, sponsor for the services, holds the air. The services are identical with the regular protestant church services with the exception that the collection plate is not passed.

The church services have been heard more than 2,000 miles out in the Pacific ocean and in all Pacific coast states, according to reports received by the broadcasting station. Invalids who are unable to get to church have listened in on the services and one woman, bedridden for three years, has written that the services are greatly appreciated. They are the only church services she has been able to hear for the last three years.

The sermon each Sunday is furnished by a leading divine of the San Francisco bay region and is read by the operator of the broadcasting station.

GREEKS FLEE TURKS

Refugee Leader Committed Suicide Rather Than Surrender

CONSTANTINOPLE, April 6.—Hundreds of Greeks in Pontus, on the Black Sea littoral of Asia Minor, fled to the mountains recently in order to escape the horrors of deportation by the Turkish nationalists.

These Greeks have been credited with the intention of setting up a "Pontus Republic" of their own and thus have drawn upon themselves the wrath of the Angora government.

The Kemalist Minister of the Interior and the chief of the Nationalist gendarmerie have just made a tour of the disturbed area where they issued a proclamation giving the fugitives one week to return to the country where, said the order, "they have lived so happily for so long," and ordering them to report at the military depots.

According to reports, the refugee leaders have committed suicide rather than surrender and the Kemalists have sent a punitive expedition to the affected region, having detached two regiments from the Greek fighting front for that purpose.

As a result of her trip she said the conviction that "America should care for Americans first" assumed first importance in her mind among all other phases of immigration problems. He is Only Cabby Left
Lucky to Earn $5 a Week

CHICAGO, Ill., April 6.—Repeating a copy-book maxim to keep his courage up, Edward Budd, the only horse-rab driver left on the south side and one of the last seven in the city, remains on duty despite the motor competition which he says is starving the old-fashioned cabby out of existence and will soon make him a memory.

"Five years ago there were about 500 of us, and plenty of work for all," he remarked as he waited for customers. "Now I am lucky if I make $5 a week, and sometimes two weeks pass without bringing me a nickel, though I'm on watch from early in the afternoon until 2 or 3 o'clock in the morning."

"When I get discouraged, though, I remember a saying I learned at school, 'Perseverance overcomes every obstacle.' I say that over to myself sometimes, and then I think of school days in Hampshire, when I saw her majesty the queen. We children stood on a bench as she passed, and her majesty stopped and pinned a white rose on my lapel. I'll never forget that."

"I'd quit driving if I could do anything else, but I froze my feet twenty-odd years in a storm that tied up all the trains. I was out all night driving people home who would have frozen to death if I'd stayed in and taken care of myself. Now those same people would pass me by and take a taxicab."

Budd was a coachman for a family of means in England before he came to America 40 years ago, and has been a cab-driver in Chicago ever since.

KLAMATH EXCEEDS QUOTA FOR NUMBER SENT TO STATE PEN

Fifteen Now Serving Time in Salem Institution; Average of One a Month for Sheriff's Term

Klamath county has sent more than its "quota" of prisoners to the Salem penitentiary, Sheriff Lloyd L. Low was told the other day when he arrived there with eight more, swelling the total to 15, all of whom have gone from here since October, when the highwaymen, Morrison and Reynolds, were committed. The average has been one a month during Low's term of office.

Low said he visited many of the Klamath prisoners, and saw Dr. Brumfield, who is sentenced to hang, together with 14 others. Brumfield, he said, looks broken, and has apparently lost much of the poise credited to him during the early days of his confinement. The state penitentiary is overflowing with prisoners, Low reported. He said that when last there, in October, there were 399 inmates, while the addition of the Klamath delegation brought the number up to 476.

Deputy Sheriff C. C. Low returned last night with Dave Worden, wanted here on a statutory charge, and who was returned under extradition procedure.

Deputy U. S. Marshal Wells of Portland departed this morning with federal prisoners T. J. Kempe, Orville Davis, Clinton Charles and Benjamin Tupper, who will come before the federal court at Portland to face liquor charges.

NEW PLAN FOR SCHOOLS GIVEN O.K. BY CHAMBER

Board of Directors Approves County Unit System of Supervision

The county unit plan for rural schools was endorsed by the directors of the chamber of commerce at the regular meeting Tuesday noon. This plan, which will be voted on in the May primaries, calls for the same system and supervision that the City of Klamath Falls has at present in the grammar grades.

The 49 rural districts would be consolidated with a county board elected at large as the governing body. This board would appoint the county superintendent of schools, employ all teachers, buy equipment and have general charge of the entire system. A blanket tax covering the entire county exclusive of Klamath Falls would be levied to raise sufficient funds to run the schools, whereas under the present system each district levies a separate tax for the maintenance of the district school. It is held in some instances at present where the tax is poor, an exceptionally high tax is necessary, while in others where the land is high in value no tax is needed. This makes the maintenance of the schools inequitable. It is declared, and forces some districts to have less than standard instruction.

The plan will also bring under school taxation land valued around $1,000,000 at present not included in either of the districts. It would standardize the rural schools, enable all of them to obtain trained instructors, avoid duplication of time and effort and will be more economical, advocates point out.

The directors also endorsed the "Truth in Fabric Bill," which contemplates having manufacturers stamp on the cloth the amount of wool contained. It has the same quality as the pure food and drug act according to its advocates, Rex Bord, who looked into the matter for the directors, reported that it is the most important legislation for wool growers advanced in years in that it enables the public to know what they are buying.

Under the terms of the bill manufacturers would be compelled to state whether cloth contains all wool, or only a certain percentage of wool. The matter is being sponsored by the National Sheep and Wool bureau of America.
