

ASK OPERATORS FOR STATEMENT FOR PAST YEAR

Conciliation Board Holds Decision Rests on the Figures Shown

The conciliation board will complete its investigation here today and will leave for Portland tomorrow morning, said Chairman Woodward. A finding in the case will probably not be reached until the promised financial statements of the companies have been received.

Hearing of testimony in the conciliation board hearing was resumed this morning with H. D. Mortenson on the stand after an abrupt halt was called at 8 o'clock last night at the request of the operators in order to permit a private session of the board and the operators. The session came as a result of the board's request yesterday afternoon for a financial statement of the Pelican Bay company for the year 1921, to show whether the concern had operated at a profit or loss.

Chairman Woodward stated today that the private session had brought no definite results.

Mortenson, who was on the stand from 3:30 to 5 yesterday afternoon, maintained that the mills could not compete with California mills operating on a nine and ten-hour basis. Chairman Woodward held that the essential point to be determined was whether the mills here could operate at a profit, regardless of the hours prevailing in California or elsewhere, and pointed out that the only way to determine this was by a financial statement. Mortenson demurred to the request, saying he was representing eastern stockholders, and was without authority to produce the information. He said, however, that he would wire for authority to do so. In the hearing this morning he said no word had been received. He produced, however, a wage schedule.

The demand first was made for a statement for three years, but this was modified. Woodward later said it was not sufficient to make certain statements to the board with respect to profits or loss, that the board dealt with facts as revealed by figures, and that it could not otherwise make true findings.

Chairman Woodward this morning read into the records received from California, which included three from the California White & Sugar Pine Manufacturers association, one from the M. A. Burns Manufacturing company, one from John P. Memphis of the Madera Box factory, and another from Lamoine Lumber & Trading company. In all cases it was stated that all plants were running nine and ten hours. These telegrams were recorded as exhibits in the case.

Curt F. Setzer, local manager for the Growers & Packers Warehousing association, was called as a witness for the operators. He recounted the eight-hour day being equivalent to the nine-hour day. Like preceding witnesses for the operators, he said the change was vital to the industry; that he had been advised that if he could not reduce cost the company would have to look elsewhere for their product.

He was followed by W. A. Dwight

As developers of knowledge and lovers of taste there is nothing under the sun that approaches the public schools, declared the speaker. They are the foundation upon which the development of disciplined and intelligent citizens, must rest.

He called attention to the litter-ary shown by the statistics gathered during the war, and urged as a remedy more schools, stricter attendance regulations, but above all better pay for teachers.

MINERS' PRESIDENT DECLARES UNION IS GROWING STRONGER

50,000 Strikers From Bituminous Field Said to Have Joined Ranks of Strikers

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., April 12.—Fifty thousand non-union bituminous coal miners, in addition to almost half of the 155,000 workers in the anthracite industry, who are not members of the United Mine Workers of America, are participating in the general suspension of work in the coal industry, according to the statement here today of President John L. Lewis, the miners' leader.

"The union men are standing firm, and we are gaining strength in non-union fields," declared Lewis.

While no exact estimate was made of the men participating in the suspension, it was evident from Lewis' statement that union officials regarded their former estimate of 600,000 as having been exceeded. It was said authoritatively that the union regarded 640,000 men as participants in the walkout.

Lewis declined to apportion the distribution by states of the non-union strikers, further than to say 30,000 had been enlisted in Central Pennsylvania and several thousand in West Virginia, these states being those where the union centered attention on non-union operators.

NO INDIAN POVERTY

Northwest Survey Reveals Only Aged Are Not Self-Supporting

SEATTLE, Wash., April 12.—Poverty among Indians of the Pacific northwest is almost negligible, most of them in fact, except the very aged, being self-supporting. G. E. E. Lindquist, who has just completed a two year survey of conditions among the natives, declared here recently.

Alcohol, Lindquist said, presents no problem on some of the reservations, although on others the drink evil seems to be increasing.

"There is gambling on at least five reservations," he said, "and this is especially true of the Indian women. I heard of one instance where women gambled for blankets and stayed up long after midnight doing so. It is probable that $600 worth of blankets changed hands."

The influence of the medicine man, Lindquist said, has almost entirely disappeared. Most of the natives have embraced Christianity and many missions have been established. Indian basket makers of this region, according to Lindquist, are becoming famous throughout the world for the fineness of their weaving and their artistic manner of decorating the baskets.

Bradbury has resided here steadily since 1910. He came here in 1907 but was away for part of the next three years. He owns a ranch near this city. He has never held public office but for several years was a member of the Klamath Irrigation district board.

He is a farmer and his campaign slogan is: "Farmers' representation by farmers."

Twins Dispute Claims They are 90, Others 88

LEAVENWORTH, Kan., April 12.—Friends of James and Joel Cheatwood, twins who celebrated their 90th birthday anniversary last October 11 on the farm of the former, near here, are prone to dispute the claim of the Woodville, Ohio, twins, William H. Sr. and Henry Burns, to the title of "oldest living twins in the United States," as the age of 88.

The recipe for long life of the Kansas twins is similar to that of the Ohioans—"Work." Each of the Cheatwood twins owns a farm and works on it daily, still being able to keep pace with a farm worker "three-score and ten" years their junior. Pleas of relatives for the twins to retire always have provoked a protest: "Our chief enjoyment in life is working on our farms. If we hadn't kept busy all these years we probably would have died long ago."

At a party given by the twins on their 90th birthday, Jim remarked: "I'm going to keep right on working and whistling a tune as long as I can." So striking is the resemblance between the Cheatwood twins that when they don their "Sunday clothes" and have their beards trimmed, it is difficult to tell them apart. Like the Burns twins, the Cheatwoods also are pioneers, having settled in Kansas in the late '50's. For 65 years they have lived on the farms they now occupy.
