Art Institute Unable To Supply Graduates

CHICAGO, April 14.—The school of the Art Institute of Chicago is "unable to supply the demand for graduates trained in the industrial courses of its normal department," according to Institute officials. The demand is considered a symptom of awakening interest in industrial art. Graduates go to positions carrying initial salaries of from $1,400 to $2,100 a year. Miss Mary Scovel is director of the department.

Most of the courses are of recent origin. The course in weaving, believed to be the only such course offered in a normal school of the middle west, was introduced this year in response to a demand from the northwest for teachers of weaving.

The weaving course includes learning the different parts of the loom and making hooked and rag rugs. Students also master the chemistry of dyeing and dye the products of their looms as well as weaving them.

Other courses taught, each having an enrollment of about 20 are toy making, jewelry, art metal work, pottery, printing and lithography, costume design and interior decorating. Students prepare to teach all industrial subjects regularly treated in a public school system.

The jewelry course is a year and a half old. Machinery used for this course was given by the manufacturing jewelers' association.

FARM POINTERS

Bordeaux Gets Blossom Blight
Where blossom or spur blight, caused by the brown rot or Monelia fungus was serious last year on prunes, apricots and cherries apply a thorough spray of Bordeaux 4-4-50 just as soon as the blossom buds are ready to burst open. Caseinlime spreader, if added at the rate of one-half pound to 100 gallons of spray, is desirable to secure maximum protection.

IN THE COURT

Mitchell vs. McLemore
Answer to the complaint was filed in the case of J. B. Mitchell against Marshall Hooper, the First State bank and D. M. McLemore, involving $100,000 in damages. The records also disclosed the entrance of Judge D. V. Kuykendall as associate counsel for the defendants, presumably in the interests of the First State bank.

Pickens vs. Vinson
Order confirming sheriff's sale was signed this morning by Judge Stone in the case of Hiram Pickens against A. H. and Cassie Vinson, involving real property in section 9, township 29, in Klamath county.

Lageson vs. Lageson
Answer to the amended complaint was filed this morning in the case of Mabel against Justice Lageson, involving a suit for divorce. The case will probably be heard the latter part of this month.

Grand Jury Meets
At 10 o'clock this morning the grand jury met to consider some important matters, which was pursuant to a call from the district attorney. This being a secret body, the results of the session will not be made public until reported to the circuit judge, probably some time tomorrow.

Docket Called Monday
Circuit Judge C. F. Stone announced today, and all attorneys were so advised, that the docket of cases will be called at 10 o'clock Monday morning, at which time all cases at issue or ready for trial will be set down. This is the second calling of the docket held by Judge Stone, the first one being about a month ago. It is expected that Judge Stone will leave for Lakeview on May 15th, to hold a term of court there, and that Judge Batchellar of Lakeview will take up cases here in which Judge Stone is disqualified by reason of having appeared at attorney in such cases before becoming circuit judge.

OFFICIAL GUIDE FOR RADIO MAN
WASHINGTON, April 14.—Public interest in the radio telephone has developed so remarkably within the past few months that Uncle Sam has published a book for the benefit of the "ether talk" enthusiasts. It is called—"The Principles Underlying Radio Communication." It was prepared by the United States Bureau of Standards of the department of commerce, and published by the government printing office.

Elementary electricity, dynamo-electric machinery, radio circuits, electro-magnetic waves apparatus for transmission and reception electron tubes, are the titles to some of the subjects treated. There are 619 pages in all and the price is one dollar at the government printing office, Washington, D. C.

"We have been simply swamped with requests for information on the subject of radio," officials of the department of commerce declared today in calling attention to the new "air book."

Attention was also called to a regular monthly radio service bulletin published by the bureau of navigation of the department of commerce. According to the radio experts of the commerce department, this pamphlet contains current information regarding radio development names of newly licensed sending and broadcasting stations, their call letters, what they sent out, etc. The government printing office in Washington will send the service to anyone for a whole year upon receipt of 25 cents.

Pigs Eat Farm Waste

Waste products suitable for hog feed only are found more or less on every Oregon farm, no matter what the type of farming is, explains H. A. Lindgren, livestock fieldman of the state agricultural college. Skim milk, grain, stubble, table scraps, cull fruit, vegetables and roots, are some of the waste or by-products listed. Rightly fed they help produce pork economically. One hog should be kept for each dairy cow. It requires normally about one hog to glean the grain from each ten acres of stubble, though this varies. An average of one hog per farm additional is required to consume other wastes. On this basis Oregon could grow 376,000 hogs, with an additional 25,000 from city garbage.

The great menace to the forests is fire, which destroys the timber, dries up the streams, drives away wild life, and leaves in its wake ruin and desolation.
