

First Fashions From Atlantic City Boardwalk

What's worn on the Atlantic City boardwalk sets the styles for the nation. Here are the first of the spring promenade wearing sport costume, just approved by the Fashion League, in convention at Atlantic City.

Personal Mention

R. T. McMillan of the Medford Grocery company arrived here last night.

Mrs. Florence Kelsey returned Sunday from Redding where she had been visiting her son who was ill.

Al D. Short, manager of the White Pelican hotel, is here from San Francisco.

Dr. H. D. Lloyd Stewart returned Sunday from a business trip to Portland.

J. J. Steiger was an incoming passenger on the train Sunday.

J. S. Kent of San Francisco, representing the Germain Lumber company of Pittsburg is transacting business here today.

Luke Walker of the Klamath Packing company has returned from a business trip to Portland.

Mrs. James Duncan returned Sunday from Southern California where she spent the winter with friends.

"Jim" Duncan is the popular conductor on the Weed local.

Mrs. Arthur Ekwald and Miss Lillian Abertson arrived here Sunday night from Bray.

Ted Nelson, a newspaper man formerly of Butte, Montana, is investigating the local field with view to making this his home.

G. T. Casper, government sheep inspector from Saint Joseph, Missouri, was recently appointed to take charge of the counties of Klamath and Lake.

O. K. Cross and C. J. Lambert, pioneer Klamath stage drivers, have arrived here to take charge of the Lakeview stage line. Cross and Lambert drove stages into Klamath Falls when the old stage coaches were still in use.

C. R. Jordan, Chiloquin lumberman, was a business visitor here today.

Mr. and Mrs. L. I. McDonald are city visitors today from their ranch in Langell Valley.

A PURPLE ROMANCE OF ANOTHER DAY

The story of "The Fall of Babylon" is a story of a brilliant people who were dust when the Gentle Carpenter was born; who hungered for food and love and happiness—Even as you and I.

They built a marvelous city, Babylon the Mighty, with massive walls that only teachery could reduce.

A lover, the good Belshazzar, wore the legal robe, torn from him in death by the politicians, the schemers, who betrayed the city and enslaved a people that they might humiliate their ruler—Evan as today.

And a wild, lovable little sweetheart from the mountains, who adored the king and loved a singer, might have saved them all. But there was laughter and wine and feasting, and romantic plans.

It is the story of today, as well as yesterday.

The story of you and me.

125,000 men and women in the mighty production; 7,500 horses in the marvelous chariot races along the Euphrates. $650,000 to produce.

"The Fall of Babylon" will be seen at the Strand last time tonight.

Coming tomorrow, Henry Walthall in "The Boomerang." Also Amateur night.

W. C. T. U. MEETING

The regular meeting of the Local W. C. T. U. will be held Tuesday, April 18, at 2 p. m. at the Emmanuel Baptist church on Eleventh street.

An important business meeting will be held after which memorial services will take place in honor of our departed sister, Mrs. Emma Grigsby. All friends of the deceased and members of the union are urgently requested to be present and on time. Also to hear more about the Children's Farm Home that the W. C. T. U. are sponsoring and hope to take control by July, in order to admit a long line of already waiting children. A plate will be placed near the door for a free will offering for the Farm Home.

Mrs. Frances Boyd, president of the local union, will preside on this occasion.

MANY ATTEND SERVICES

All the Easter services at the Methodist church were well attended yesterday. Two hundred and forty-three were present at the Sunday school session. At the morning preaching service the church was not large enough to accommodate all who desired to attend the service. Eight babies were christened and two older ones were baptized at this Easter time by the Methodist pastor. Many expressed their appreciation of the sermon of the morning and the excellent program at both the morning and evening services.

IN THE COURTS

Martin vs. Holmes
Default judgment was taken by Martin Brothers, millers, this morning against C. V. and Lucille Holmes for $1400 with interest at 10 per cent from September 16, 1921, attorneys fees for $150 and costs of $15.50. The action was originally brought on a promissory note for $1600, $200 of which had previously been paid.

Diez vs. Dietz

Order of default was signed by Judge Stone this morning in the divorce case of Edna May against Lloyd Dietz. Testimony will be taken late this afternoon or tomorrow.

Finley vs. Hanan, et al.

Execution covering the sale of lands in section 16, township 39, was entered this morning for $2379.22, in the case of Ross Finley against A. J. and Anna Hanan, John Denehy and E. S. Terwilliger.

Docket Called

Calling of the docket in the circuit court this morning on equity cases resulted in the dismissal of some 25 cases, and setting down for trial of seven cases, which included five default divorce cases. A number of cases were continued over to definite dates for further actions by the attorneys, and several cases could not be heard by Judge Stone for the reason that he had appeared as attorney in the cases in one way or another prior to becoming circuit judge.

Letters from the People

Editor Herald—The lines below were suggested to me on reading a popular novel entitled "Helen of the Old House," a book which is widely quoted in Klamath Falls and now by certain factions because it deals with the strike question, condemning all strikers as a lot of poor, misguided fools, who don't want to work any way, and are misled by foreign leaders who are ignorant, greedy for power, and have no clear idea of what they are trying to accomplish. On the first page is the quotation: "If you break faith with us who die we can not sleep, though poppies grow in Flander's fields"; implying that the strikers have broken faith; and the following is my answer:

DID WE BREAK FAITH?

In Klamath Town the daisies grow
And gleam in spring like drifts of snow;
Above the lake the sage brush gray
Clings where the broad slopes melt away.
In hills whose pines today look down
On strange new scenes, in Klamath Town;
Strange, for the factory wheels are still
And wait upon the workmen's will.
And men who once at factions' calls
Have rallied round their court house walls,
Have turned at last to lanes real
Where hearts can throb and souls can feel.
Invoke the soldiers dead and turn
To distant fields where poppies burn
And bid them speak; we'll ask each wrath:
"Did we break faith? Did we break faith?"
"O'er you the silken leaves are red,
Your wife and child may toil for bread,
And he whose gold has bought
their strength

May stretch their days to dreary length.
And every fight by labor won
May help their lives—your wife and son.
And here, afar, and every where
What workmen win shall workmen share.
If you can know, let this thought yield
A sweeter rest in Flanders Field."
—Vera Moller.
