Substitute for Merrill Wins From Nifty Nine

Merrill failed to show up Sunday afternoon for the baseball game scheduled between Merrill and the Nifty Nine. Delmar Robertson's team substituted and won by a score of 11 to 13 after an 11-inning tussle.

A cold north wind and a rough field prevented clean fielding. Both teams hit at will and erred frequently.

The Nifty Nine was composed of Chas. Grove, Robert Goetz, Vernon Christy, George Dow, Chester Shriver, Kenneth Maier, Frank Peyton, Harold Wortley and Pat Montgomery, Raymond Hilton and Robert Cornish substituted.

Robertson's team was made up of Bob Bisek, Meryl Staub, Homer Garlich, Delmar Robertson, Waine Bean, Wm. Perrillard, Harry Malastore, Douglas Ferrillard and Jack Mizgs.

Baseball Games Mark High School Holiday

Yesterday afternoon was officially declared a holiday at the high school when Principal Goetz announced that each of the four classes was paid up 100 percent in their annual subscriptions.

Pupils employed themselves at various sports including tennis and baseball. The high school baseball team met Del Robertson's team and was defeated by a score of 12 to 11. The game was close and exciting, the high school boys leading up to the eighth inning.

Immediately after the game the high school boys met and elected George Dow their captain.

drinking and sleeping. This bulky Britisher, knighted for his success in letters, married and the father of a fine family, conservative in his manners as any man of 65, has seen ghosts, talked with them, received written messages from them—and that settles every question, as far as he is concerned.

If you ask Sir Arthur about any phase of heaven or hell he answers, direct, specific, with absolute positiveness and conviction. Here are some of his startling statements:

"Heaven—This is to me as definite a world as Europe or the United States. It is very like this world, except that heaven is devoid of the ugly, the unhappy, the evil things we find in this life.

"Heavenly Spirits—In heaven every person is at the zenith of his or her powers. The spiritual body is like the earth body, except that the former is complete and beautiful. In heaven we lose all earthly deformities; the person with only one leg, one eye or a crooked spine is made whole. The little children attain perfect manhood or womanhood.

"Heavenly Homes—There are beautiful homes in heaven, surrounded by gardens of wonderful flowers. I believe that one finds there one's favorite pets. There are woodlands and lakes, games and sports, joy and laughter. Yes, and the opportunity to work.

"Heavenly Music—The heavenly music is joyous, inspiring, soothing. You know that on this earth there are many sounds pitched so high that the human ear cannot record them. The music of the world beyond is of this sort.

"Human Weaknesses—Heaven is a replica of earth, except that the grossly material things and the weaknesses of the flesh do not enter there. All one's desires are realized in heaven, but the heavenly body does not desire, for example, liquors or tobacco.

"Purgatory—This is a state between heaven and hell, in which souls unfit to enter the higher realms must spend some time, progressing from level to level, preparing themselves for the higher state. Purgatory is sadder, darker, grayer, than this world. It usually takes 40 years for a soul to work its way out of purgatory.

"Hell—This is not a place of fire and brimstone, but it is a dull, dismal place, lower than purgatory, in which go those souls that have throttled their spiritual nature in this life. These souls will suffer the mental stress of working themselves out of this level. Among them will be the souls of suicides, who have attempted to escape from the excruciations of this life.

"Marriage—Heavenly bodies mate, and all marriages are perfect. There are no jealousies, no covetings, no triangles and no divorces in heaven, for every soul is satisfied with its spiritual mate.

"Proof—Among 23 spirits with whom I have held direct communication are my son, who lost his life in the war, and my mother, who in addition to talking with me wrote a note, in which she made a habitual error of spelling and to which she signed a pet name, which no medium could have known.

"Materialization—Spirits manifest themselves to us through mediums. It is the ectoplasm that we see (ectoplasm, says the Standard Dictionary, is the denser outer protoplasmic layer of a unicellular organism or cell without a cell-wall, as of an amoeba or of certain ova. Got it?) This has been scientifically analyzed and its chemical constituents partially identified.

"Phenomena—It would be well not to sneer at the tilting table or the tinkling tamborine, sometimes seen at seances. These have been simulated by tricksters, it's true; but what has not been exploited by fakirs? Remember that it was a falling apple that gave us the secret of gravity.

"Religion—The world is now moving toward general acceptance of spiritualism. This means an increase in moral strength and general happiness here. Some say spiritualism is the work of the devil, but if so it is his best work. Seriously, it is the greatest revelation of God."

Most Unusual Horse Picture of the Season

Many photographs of spills in steeplechases have come from England this year, but none so thrilling as this. St. Bernard fell over Awbeg in the Grand National Steeplechase at Bechers Brook. The former horse broke his neck, but both jockeys escaped although one was pitched on his head and the other was caught under the falling horse.

Taking No Chances

The final view, "cropping out of the mass of discussion and argument, appeared to be doubt in the minds of the council of the legality of Miller's bids, measured from strictly legal standards, and the members opposing it held that in resolving the question they should take the course that offered no chances of involving the city in future difficulty.

The aggregate amount of Miller's bid was $112,622.25, and the Warren company's bid was $117,155.52.

The paving included in the contract consists of the following units: High from Third to Cedar; Eleventh from Klamath to Main; Jefferson, Fifth and Lincoln; Washington from Third to Fifth; Eldorado and Melrose; High and Fourth, and South Riverside street.

Finances Discussed

The city funds are nearing depletion and the street fund is between $500 and $700 overdrawn. This condition was called to the council's attention by Councilman Smith and discussed considerably. Delayed tax collections account for the shortage, and the county collects the taxes, turning over the city's share. The county collections are held up by injunction in the courthouse suit, and it was the opinion of the council that they were powerless to avert a situation which, it seemed, must result in inability of the city to pay its debts after May 1st.

It was decided that the decision of Judge Skipworth in the injunction case was the speediest aid for the situation, but there was no information before the council to show when a decision might be expected.

Retrenchment by cutting down the police force and fire department, eliminating street maintenance and stripping operating costs to bare essentials was discussed as a probability of the next few weeks.

R. E. Strahorn's request for extension of time in completing his railroad to Sprague river came up again and was left with the regular committee, Councilmen Smith, Vollmer and West.
