POSTAL WEEK

FOR its size there is no business in the world that is more systematically and smoothly conducted with less mistakes where there are so many possibilities for mistakes, than the United States postal service.

The men and women who have charge of the transmission of the mails are trained in accuracy, and the postal department is constantly keeping up the standard of accuracy with periodical tests. Unfitness of individuals, making for impairment of the service, cannot long escape detection.

If a letter goes astray, or cannot be delivered, in 99 cases out of 100 investigation shows the fault lies in illegible or improper addressing by the sender.

Sometimes, despite improper addressing, the postal clerk is able to determine the sender's intention.
The results appear as miraculous as mind-reading. They really are wonderful, but the explanation is the intelligent efficiency of the handlers.

As a simple instance, a careless stenographer addresses an envelope intended to reach John Brown at a certain number on Blank street, Springfield, Illinois, to Springfield, Massachusetts. A postal employe at Springfield, Massachusetts, looks at the letter, realizes that there is no street of that name in his city, looks in the directory, finds that the Illinois city has such a street and number, and forwards the letter. The sender's carelessness is corrected, so matter-of-factly that he never knows of his error.

But if the shoe is on the other foot, and a postal employe makes an error that temporarily discommodates the same careless sender, the chances are that the mistake is given an airing.

Despite the best efforts of the postal service it is said that twenty million letters, because of illegible or improper addressing, find their way annually to the dead letter office.

Obviously the remedy is closer co-operation between the public and the postoffice, and this week has been set aside as Postal Improvement week by the postmaster general to foster such co-operation.

The public's part is scrupulous care in originally addressing letters and packages, careful packing and tying to avoid breakage; and after doing all required to prevent errors, then constructive criticism, based on facts, if the postoffice errs in handling.

But before you blame the postal employe, be sure you are free from blame.

Have you a proper mail box, properly placed, to receive your mail? If not, can you blame the carrier, if he refuses to add to his already over-long trip to place your letters in an out-of-the-way hallway?

Do you mail your letters early, or do you wait until a few minutes before train time to drop them into the mail slot?

Do you pay your box rent as promptly as you pay your house rent?

There are a score of things you can do to improve your service, and after all, it is your service, a public institution, a mutual enterprise that we are all proud of and want to maintain at the highest standard of efficiency.

LUTHERAN MISSOURI
SYNOD 75 YEARS OLD

By the Rev. H. J. Meyer On May 7th, the Evangelical Lutheran Synod will be seventy-five years old. This event will be duly observed by Lutherans throughout the country, as the above Synod is represented in practically every state of the union, with branches in Canada, South America and other foreign countries.

mail in Chicago for the purpose of bringing the conservative Lutheran churches in the central states into close affiliation. The small body of 1847 with its 19 pastors, 27 congregations and 4000 baptized members has grown to be an organization having 2570 pastors, 3391 congregations and 901 preaching stations and over 1, 000,000 baptized souls.
The Lutheran church stands four square upon the scriptures as the infallible word of God, the only source of articles of faith and sole rule of conduct. Accordingly questions of doctrine and practice are decided, not by considerations of expediency, but by the clear words of the Bible.

Intense missionary activity unquestionably is largely responsible for the continued numerical progress of the organization. At the present time 650 pastors are engaged in this work serving 1350 missions. Missions are maintained among the Jews, Indians, foreign tongue, immigrants, deaf mutes, and very extensively among the colored people. Foreign missions are conducted in India and China, England, Brazil, Argentine, France, Germany, Australia, New Zealand and other countries.

Verily, the promise that God's word will not return void, but will accomplish his purpose, and prosper in the thing whereto he sends it, has been fulfilled.

Lutheran church of Klamath Falls will have a special jubilee service on May 7th, at chamber of commerce at 10:30 a. m.

$1.53; LaGrande, $1.43.

The report also stated that 64,500 men were employed in the lumber industry of the three states in April, compared with 61,427 in March, and that 97 per cent of the mills and companies are operating on the eight-hour basis.

Pear Fruit Worm Serious Pear growers are advised to examine blossom clusters carefully for small greenish worms. If evidence of their presence is found it is entirely practical to add arsenate of lead to the pink spray for scab control. These worms are the early stages of the pear fruit worm which causes much more injury in Oregon than is generally believed.
