LUMBERMAN FAILS IN PLEA FOR NINE-HOUR WORK DAY

Former Employee of Dorris Company Vote Unanimously to Hold Out for Eight Hours

(Special to The Herald) DORRIS, Calif., May 6.—Walter S. Johnson, secretary of the firm of Tarter, Webster & Johnson of Stockton and San Francisco, which institution owns a majority of the stock of the Associated Lumber & Box company of Dorris, addressed an open meeting of laboring men and other citizens at a local theatre yesterday afternoon, relative to the local strike situation in the box industry.

Speaking to the box men who are striking for the eight-hour day, Johnson stated his situation, and reiterated the position taken by his company previously to the effect that their only solution is nine hours. He will operate on this schedule, he said, even if it becomes necessary to fill the positions of local men with outsiders. This will be done, he stated, as a last resort to get activity under way once more and bring to an end the serious business depression that inactivity has precipitated in this locality.

Johnson appealed to the men to be fair. "We were more than fair with you," he said, "when the market declined last year. Although operating at a loss, we kept our factory in operation without decreasing the wage scale. Now that we are in a position where we must resort to this method in order to operate, and thereby give employment to you men, we believe that you are honor bound to help us out."

At the close of his address Johnson asked the men to express themselves individually or collectively as to their sentiment. Their local spokesmen stated that they would hold a brief meeting, during which they voted unanimously to hold out for the eight-hour day.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 6.—When Mrs. Ruby Maples returned home from a shopping tour yesterday she happened upon a burglar whose gun hand trembled and whose voice was full of quivers.

"Put down that gun, you'll shoot somebody," Mrs. Maples ordered. He did. Then he confessed that it was his first job and he had turned burglar because he was hungry. "Then let's eat," Mrs. Maples suggested. She prepared a meal and the burglar proved that he was telling the truth. He departed tearful with his thanks.

A few moments later he returned and handed Mrs. Maples a $1,200 lavelere. "I didn't have the heart to take it away, lady," he explained.

EX-PRISONERS SEND REGARDS TO FIRE CHIEF

Post Card Mailed by Capener and Evans at Dunsuir; Now Have $8.10

Apparently to show their defiance of the law, Rex Evans and Tom (Bones) Capener sent on a post card, mailed at Dunsuir the following message to deputy sheriff Keith Ambrose: "Well old scout the four leaf clover is still working. Left broke and landed here with $8.10. (can't see me no more). Best to all the fellows. Will write a letter later. Yours as B 4 R. & B.

Keith Ambrose gave Evans credit for writing the card, it being in his handwriting, which showed him to be a very fine penman.

Ambrose translated the message to mean that the pair left this city broke, but that by means of dice-shaking had acquired the sum of $8.10. The expression "can't see me no more," had its origin in George Bogus, Greek, who escaped jail some time ago, he having stayed to Evans and Capener the day before his escape that if sent out to cut wood the next day "you can't see me no more." His escape the next day was fulfillment of the threat.

The initials on the card, "R. & B." stand for Rex Evans and "Bones" Capener, who was highly skilled in "African Golf."

OFFICERS ELECTED TO HEAD KLAMATH COMMUNITY BODY

W. O. Smith Made Chairman and A. L. Wishard Secretary; Purposes of Organization Outlined

Organization of the Klamath community council was completed at a meeting in the chamber of commerce rooms last night when W. O. Smith was elected permanent chairman and A. L. Wishard permanent secretary. By-laws were adopted and other business transacted.

It was voted to include on the council a representative of the public schools, and to extend an invitation to the American Legion auxiliary to appoint a delegate. A committee was appointed to confer with the ministerial association relative to church representation on the council. Endorsement was given to the county unit plan of school administration.

The purpose of the council was outlined by T. A. Stevenson, who said it was not desired to create a political body, but to provide the machinery for uniting the entire community behind certain projects of interest to the entire county, and to avoid the mistake of having several organizations undertake the same project individually. The collective efforts of every organization in the community, he pointed out, would make for harmony and secure accomplishment of the objects in view. The council has no connection with the chamber of commerce, he said, other than that the chamber has one representative on the council.

Members were instructed by the chairman to confer with the organization which they represented in order to place before the council at a meeting next Thursday night any proposed program for consideration.

Various organizations are represented on the council as follows: Chamber of commerce, J. A. Gordon; Rotary club, W. O. Smith; Klamath County Auto association, R. C. Groesbeck; Sportsmen's association, J. J. Furber; American legion, H. R. Hill; farm bureau, T. N. Case; Irrigation district, A. L. ### CO. AGENT NOT NAMED

Farm Bureau Without Head Pending Appointment by O. A. C.

No appointment of a county agent to succeed E. H. Thomas has been made and the work of the farm bureau, without a head, is at a standstill.

Thomas resigned when the county board of agriculture, after a vote from $2300 to $2400 per annum, but offered to hold the position until a successor was appointed. The county court did not accept the offer, however, and the bureau will be without a head pending an appointment by the Oregon Agricultural college, a representative of which is expected here Sunday.

Recommendation was made by the county court for the appointment of John W. L. Smith of Malin but was not acted upon by the college.

The farm bureau, originally organized by the government, is maintained through federal, state and county aid. In 1921 the county appropriated $5,500, the state $4,000 and the government $1400. This year the county reduced the appropriation to $3750, which was matched by the state, the government paying $1,075.

The farm bureau fund goes to defray all expenses in connection with the farm bureau, including the salary of a club agent and experimental work. The bureau is under the jurisdiction of the Oregon Agricultural college, which is empowered to make all appointments.

T. N. Case, president of the farm bureau, expressed the opinion that virtually the entire membership of 200 was pleased with the accomplishments of Thomas and hoped for his return.

Ingersoll's only hope now lies in a possible pardon or parole.
