

Bambino Expects to Break Former Records

NEW YORK, May 20.—Twenty pounds lighter than he was several weeks ago, Babe Ruth, almost a ball player again, was putting in his final preparation today for re-entering the line-up today in the game between the Yankees and the St. Louis Browns.

Alternating with Ruth in the batter's box at the Polo grounds this morning—as has been the case every morning since the Yankees came home for a long stay—was Bob Meusel, fellow exile from the game.

"The Bambino believes that he will break the home run record of 59 that he established last year, notwithstanding that he is entering the season, when it is about one-fourth finished, and that he is not in perfect playing form that he was this time in 1921. Meusel, who batted out 24 four baggers last season, was not so confident of extending his own record.

"You never can tell," mused Ruth, as he crossed his bat. "Accidents will happen. It isn't impossible for me to beat my last year's record. You never can tell."

Babe said today that he had not recovered his full strength since his recent operation for the removal of his tonsils, but that he felt better. The 29 pounds that have melted from his body did not disappear because of the operation, he said. Babe's private opinion is that he just lost 20 pounds—just lost 'em and he feels better.

Babe is far from worried over the home run hitting propensity of Kenneth Williams, St. Louis American slugger, who has a count of 11 to date, just equal with Ruth's standing this time last year.

"Oh, he'll quit," Ruth said. "He's only good on the St. Louis field."

30,000 WILL TURN OUT

should have at least half that number."

Colonel Cosby, one of the original rough riders with Roosevelt, says the camps are designed to build men up physically, teach patriotism and develop potential army leaders in case of emergency.

"A soldier can't be turned out in 30 days," he said, "but in that time a man can acquire the ground work."

Three different classes in the various military branches are to be established at each camp. The country is divided into nine areas, residents of each area attending designated camps.

The red course, with age limits of 17 to 25, provides basic military training to qualify men for service in the organized reserves. More advanced training is provided in the white course, with age limits of 18 to 26, qualifying privates of the regular army, national guard and organized reserves for service as non-commissioned officers in the reserves.

The blue course, with age limits of 19 to 27, is designed to qualify non-commissioned officers of the three branches for service in the officers' reserve corps. Men who have seen service, especially world war veterans, are accepted up to 35 years of age.

Colonel Cosby urges prospective applicants to inquire of corps area commanders or the military training camps association, which has headquarters in New York at 19 W. 44th Street and in Chicago at 210 Mailers building.

Do You Know That the operators are anxious to give their men as short hours, as good pay and as good working conditions as competition will permit? Do You Also Know That the operators have always proposed running only nine hours because these hours are the most favorable hours in our field of competition; and by doing so we are accepting the short odds, as practically all of the mills in our territory run ten hours? Do You Further Know That the pay for common labor is as much for nine hours as our competitors pay for ten hours, and that the pay per hour for skilled labor is the same as the most favorable mills among our competitors?

"Here Come the Elephants!" DO YOU remember how you used to be on the job bright and early to see the circus parade? Remember how you thrilled as the lions, tigers, and the big, lumbering elephants passed in review? How the horses, the blare of the bands, the antics of the clowns, and the glitter of it all inspired you with a fervid determination to see the real show—the big performance in the tent? You didn't realize it then, but you were getting a lot out of an attractive advertisement. Perhaps you don't realize it NOW, but other advertisements, just as attractive, just as interesting and far more valuable to you, parade daily before you in the columns of this paper. The merchants and makers of everything you want or need, here display before you their most attractive wares. It is truly "THE GREATEST SHOW ON EARTH." The whole purpose of any advertisement is to excite your curiosity, gain your interest, arouse your desire; to tell you something you don't know; to remind you of something you have forgotten; to convince you of something over which you have been hesitating. In short, the purpose of an advertisement is, in one way or another, TO MAKE YOU HAPPIER. Read the Advertisements and see if that isn't so
