APPEARANCES

(Hosburg News Review)

MANY people who maintain property in a poor condition have no conception of the way their real estate looks from the street and to neighbors. They get used to the scanty grass and the piles of rubbish and the tumble down sheds that may disfigure their places, and do not give a thought to the way the same looks to other people. Easy going human nature adjusts itself to almost anything, and people soon sink to a low standard of care. Other people who on the whole maintain good looking places will yet permit the whole effect to be marred by a few disorderly conditions.

These could be removed by just a little work, which would make such a difference and give such a sense of comfort and pride in return for a little effort. The mayor of Attleboro, Massachusetts, in planning for a clean-up week, has had photographs taken of a number of places, which will be given to the owners thereof, to show how their property looks to the man on the sidewalk. This is a method of propaganda that could be used elsewhere.

If the man who has allowed himself to become more or less careless in maintenance, could be made to realize that his neighbors are affected by his indifference, that they comment upon and regret his failure to co-operate in keeping the home town at a high standard, he would get busier much quicker. The attitude of a town toward physical cleanliness is a good deal like the discipline of a company of soldiers. If one or two men get out of step the whole line looks ragged, and pretty soon others become slumped and the beauty of united motion has disappeared.

The home place that tolerates disorderly conditions is a discordant unit in the company of homes, and it tends to destroy the effect of the whole. Owners of property that is not cared for in creditable condition should do their part to keep up the morale of the community.

Earl Shepherd Says New Marvel of Science Here to Stay

"For many years," said Earl Shepherd of the Shepherd Music House, "we refused to sell phonographs, being under the impression that they interfered with the sale of pianos. But after seven years retelling we found that phonographs were simply an addition to our line, and today nearly every home has both a piano and a Victrola."

"Lately we have been forced to make a decision in regard to the radio as a musical instrument, owing to the fact that some of the leading companies operating under the Armstrong patents will market exclusively through music dealers. We have decided to handle complete 'Zenith' outfits, manufactured by the Chicago Radio Laboratories, which are reasonably in price and have received under ideal conditions up to 2,000 miles."

"We have decided that the radio has come to stay and is fast evolving from a fad, as many people once termed the automobile, to an instrument of educational value and real worth."

"The Shepherd policy will be to make haste slowly, but owing to the tremendous demand it is often six months after orders for complete outfits are placed before installation is effected."

We told you last week that Business was getting better in Klamath Falls. We can still report improvement. Customers' deposits are growing—collections are fewer—the sheep owner will soon be on easy street—cattle are commanding higher prices—the prospect for a bumper crop is excellent—lumber conditions are improving, and with the money that will be spent in our community by the city for paving, county and state for roads, Jack Kimball in destroying the beetle, the government for irrigation, and numerous other activities, we see no reason for any but an optimistic view of our future.
