FORESTRY MAN SPEAKS

Representative of Washington Department at Forum

Frank Sexton, county club leader, scheduled as principal speaker at the chamber of commerce forum meeting this noon, gave his allotted time to John F. Preston of Washington, D. C. chief forester for the western division. The county clubs were represented by Charles Wilcox, a club member.

Preston told of the growth of the forestry department and the greater co-operation with private timber owners in conservation work. He also told of the encouragement being given by timbermen to reforestation.

Charles Wilcox told of the accomplishments of the boys and girls in this county and exhibited a picture of his prize bull, brother to the world's champion.

Dr. L. D. Gass was introduced as newly-appointed chairman of the forum committee and presided at the meeting. J. C. Kimball of the Klamath Forest Protective association introduced Preston.

Plane Ambulances for Army

Every squadron in the army air service soon will be equipped with airplane ambulances like this, built at Dayton, O. The stretcher is in the fuselage and a special compartment is provided for a physician.

In the cast of Rex Ingram's latest screen production for Metro, "The Conquering Power"—founded on Balzac's "Eugenie Grandet"—are many of those who were prominent in his sensationally successful picture of "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse." This latest Ingram picture is being shown at the Liberty theatre today and tomorrow.

Alice Terry, the Marguerite Laurier in the Ibanex picture, appears in "The Conquering Power," as Eugenie Grandet. Rudolph Valentino, the Julio Desnoyers of "The Four Horsemen," has the role of Charles Grandet. Bridgetta Clark, the Dona Louisa of Ibanex, appears as Madame des Grassines; Mark Fenton, who did Senator Laour, as Monsieur des Grassines; and Edward Connelly, who played the old lodgekeeper of the Desnoyers estate, as the notary, Cruchot.

THE STRAND

"Sealed Hearts" the Second Selznick picture in which Eugene O'Brien is starring, will open at the Strand theatre tonight. Of noteworthy interest in this production is the brilliancy of the cast which supports this popular star, it being headed by Robert Edeson on the one side and on the feminine side by Lucille Lee Stewart. Miss Stewart, it will be remembered, played a prominent role in "The Perfect Lover," which recently closed here.

Since Mr. Edeson achieved his phenomenal success on the stage as the star in "Strongheart," his name has been one to conjure with in matters dramatic. His long and varied stage career includes an interesting and preponderantly successful series of "legitimate" productions, recently culminating in "The Good Bad Woman" and these successes have raised him to one of the highest niches in the theatrical Hall of Fame.

THE STAR

More sprightly than in "Enchantment," more entrancingly beautiful than in "The Bride's Play" is Marion Davies in her newest picture, "Beauty's Worth," which delighted last night's audiences at the Star theatre. This Cosmopolitan-Paramount picture will be shown for the last time tonight.

Directed by Robert G. Vignola, "Beauty's Worth" delightfully pictures the transition of a quiet and shy little Quakeress into gorgeously gowned and much sought-after society belle. Miss Davies, in the role of the Quakeress, proves that she can be as lovely in severe and unattractive garb as in the latest creations of Paris and New York.

The change wrought in Prudence Cole (Miss Davies) is the skilled handwork of a famous artist, Cheyne Rowell (Forrest Stanley), who discerns in the girl a rare beauty to which others, and especially the young flirt whom she loves, have been blind.

TODAY'S FASHIONS

SUDDEN VOGUE FOR MOIRE

Lovely Material Is Shown in All Season's Brilliant High Colors With Varied Patterns

Moire Back

There's a sudden vogue for moire—moire that's soft and lovely and satin-backed. It's shown in all the season's brilliant high colors with watered markings of various patterns.

FASHION NOTES

LONDON—Bullrush brown is a new shade of peculiar depth and richness. It is a beautiful background for tan and deep cream. Other colors that begin to create a place for themselves are a soft, rosy brick, a gay forest green and a silvery mist gray. Navy blue and canary are vividly combined in some of the tailored suits.

PARIS—Now and then, when the parrot as a bit of trimming has become a little passe, somebody invents such an ingenious parrot motif that this gay bird regains his popularity. At present the parrot with wings is flying across half of the parasols in the Bois. A brilliant bird he is, painted, embroidered or printed in scarlet, purple and gold. His object in flying across the parasol is to reach another parrot raiment—same hues perched on the handle.

LAKEWOOD, N. J.—Creme and hemstitched orchids were prettily blended on a frock seen here. Sand canton crepe formed the larger part of the dress, which was made with many long ribbon like panels of the crepe falling below the hem of the skirt.

June brides think a hitch in time is fine.
