MONEY TALKS

WHEN a man toils through a long, hard day to make, say, five dollars, he is entitled to the view that the price of his day's labor is his to dispose of as he sees fit, to spend where it will bring the most profitable and pleasing results to the owner.

We may believe that it is his best interests to spend his money in Klamath county, and we, editorially, may urge him to spend his money in Klamath county as a matter of right, because it was earned here—because it represents five dollars' worth of Klamath county's natural wealth transmuted into currency—but until he is convinced that he can get as much for his money here as he can in Chicago, St. Louis, San Francisco or Portland, the abstract appeal of the newspaper article will affect him but slightly.

The man who does the most toward establishing community loyalty and keeping Klamath's cash in Klamath is the merchant who consistently advertises, who gives from day to day and week to week a price list of the articles he sells, and convinces the buyer that he can purchase as cheaply in Klamath Falls as elsewhere.

The chief trouble in Klamath Falls, the reason that fifty per cent of Klamath's circulating cash is drained out of the community by mail order houses and metropolitan stores, is the fact that 25 per cent of the business men of the community are bearing the advertising load.

The grocers and hardware dealers here are doing little or no advertising. Sacramento and Portland grocers are taking advantage of the situation and deluging the county with circulars, price lists and reaping big returns. Their customers are forming affiliations that are hard to break. Furthermore, customers who have formed affiliations with outside dealers are comparing the prices they are now paying with the last prices they paid local dealers, which were on a wartime basis. Until the local dealer convinces the buyer that he has met the general readjustment of prices and can sell as cheaply as his outside competitor, there is no one to blame as much as he for the constant drain on our resources by the mail order houses.

No one can fight the merchant's battle as well as he can fight individually through judicious advertising. The merchants bureau, the newspaper, the chamber of commerce can aid, but any campaigns they may conduct deal only with abstract advantages of home buying.

The individual merchant can get right down to cases and show the customer where trading at home saves actual dollars and cents. And money talks.

Wills Seeks Match With Jack Dempsey

NEW YORK, June 16.—Harry Wills has officially challenged Jack Dempsey to a match for the heavy-weight championship. The challenge with a forfeit of $2,500 to bind such a match was filed with the New York Athletic commission.

William Muldoon, chairman of the commission, refused to say just what the commission will do in connection with the challenge, nor would he commit himself as to the attitude of the commission on mixed bouts.

In the course of conversation in which he described the actions of "our non-fighting champions," Jack Dempsey in particular, as a disgrace to the boxing game, Chairman Muldoon left it plain to his listeners that the commission will take every action within its power to force Dempsey to meet a really suitable opponent, and described Wills as about the only boxer capable of giving Dempsey a real match.

Roasts Dempsey
"Jack Dempsey," declared Muldoon, "has not fought one real opponent, and yet he is commercializing his title in a most disgraceful fashion. Dempsey's fight with Willard enabled him to wrest the championship from an outclassed opponent so far as condition was concerned. In Miske he fought a man who only shortly before had gone through a serious operation. Carpenter he outweighed by probably 20 pounds.

"The match with Brennan was another joke. Yet one of these four men he would select as his next opponent. Wills, the only man capable of giving him anything like a fair match, is seemingly a man not to his liking."

Muldoon says a time limit will be placed on Dempsey's acceptance or declination. Should Dempsey refuse to recognize the challenge of Wills, the commission is prepared to declare his title forfeited and open for competition.

do it, or else was coerced by competition from other roads building into this section.

The directors went into executive session after the Union Pacific officials retired, and after some discussion passed the following resolution:

"Whereas, it has been decreed by the Supreme court of the United States of America that it is illegal for the Southern Pacific Railroad company to control the Central Pacific Railroad company, and the Union has a direct and vital bearing on the development of the state of Oregon and the entire west; and

Whereas, it is reported that the Public Service commission of the state of Oregon is to meet with the Public Service commission of the state of California, to voice formal protest against the action of the supreme court;

Therefore Be It Resolved that the Klamath county chamber of commerce, through its board of directors, respectfully request that the Oregon Public Service commission withhold any action and any attempt to express the sentiment of the people of the state until sufficient time is given to investigate thoroughly the decision of the court and its bearing on the welfare of the people of Oregon; and

Be It Further Resolved that a copy of this resolution be spread upon the minutes of the Klamath county chamber of commerce and copy sent to the Public Service commission and to the State Press."

KLAMATH COUNTY CHAMBER OF COMMERCE.
By the Board of Directors,
M. S. WEST, President.

The Union Pacific representatives present were G. W. Morrow, Union Pacific tax commissioner, and F. E. Studebaker, traveling freight and passenger agent.

LON CHANEY IN "THE TRAP" COMES SUNDAY

Frank, the porter at Swanson's, said to me: "Boss, don't book any more of them pictures like 'THE CRADLE BUTER,' and I said: 'Why not?' And he replied: 'Because folks get so excited and laugh so hard that all the buttons fly off their clothes, and you never will get 'em swept up.'" And he told the truth—there are a hundred laughs in it. And when you see this with the seventh chapter of "STANLEY IN AFRICA," and Cartoonist PAUL TERRY'S idea of the FABLE OF THE CAT AND THE MICE, and just for good measure we add a beautiful PATHE REVIEW, you will feel that you have had your money's worth—and a little bit more. Tonight's the night—at THE LIBERTY.

Saturday we show Eileen Percy in "THE TOMBOY."
