

IN THE COURT

McAniff vs. Burke, et al.

Trial of the case of Eugene McAniff against John P. Burke and the Klamath Livestock Mortgage Loan company, involving $1,550 on labor liens for farm labor and herding sheep was closed at 4:00 yesterday afternoon, and was taken under consideration by the court before giving a decree.

Flynn vs. Curtain

At 10 o'clock this morning the case of Cornelius Flynn against Con Curtain and the Klamath Livestock Mortgage Loan company went to trial before Judge A. L. Leavitt, in which Flynn is seeking to recover $1200 for herding sheep during the year 1921. Taking of testimony was concluded at noon, and the case was taken under advisement by Judge Leavitt, a decree to be announced later.

THE LIBERTY

Frank Tuttle, who has written most of the light comedy stories, as well as directed them, is responsible for "The Cradle Buster," a whirlwind comedy which will be the attraction at the Liberty theatre today.

"The Cradle Buster" is a youth who on his twenty-first birthday, which also is Independence Day, July 4, decides to be a man. He starts to smoke, swear occasionally, and even takes a drink. He gets started, in an innocent way in a love affair with an actress, elopes only to have his plans go astray, but when he has to battle, fight and show his grit to win her, he becomes a real man, goes the complete route and winds up by foiling a plot to take her life. Then he is a man. He was busted out of the cradle and shows his friends that the nickname "Sweetie" is not for him.

THE STRAND

The ouija board has broken into the movies at last!

In "The Battlin' Kid" one of the principal characters, an old-time sheriff, uses this uncanny method to discover various things, but as a matter of fact, it does nothing but get him into trouble—at least as far as the scenario is concerned.

There is a strange story connected with the use of the ouija board, however, in this picture. When the scene was being taken in which the board is used, Ed Burnes, taking the part of the sheriff, decided to have some fun and consult "Ouija" even though the scene was just a flash.

To his surprise, it spelled out "fall—danger—hurt," but try as he would, he couldn't get any more information out of the mystic board.

The matter was forgotten until two days later, when Bill Patton, taking the part of Crandall, the hero, missed the other side of a cliff while making the jump and crashed to the bottom. He broke three ribs and his wrist. "The Battlin' Kid" at the Strand tonight.

THE STAR

There is an unusually well produced photoplay at the Star theatre, where the Goldwyn picture, "The Grim Comedian," by Rita Weiman, will hold forth the entire week. This Frank Lloyd production is a story of theatrical life coupled with a mother's sacrifice to keep her convent-bred daughter in ignorance of the mother's former manner of living.

The conflict is well worked up between the mother, her daughter, and the mother's discarded lover. It is a situation uncommon on the screen, and has been admirably handled by the director, Frank Lloyd, and a cast of eminent players, including Phoebe Hunt, Gloria Hope, Laura Lavarrie, Mae Hopkins, Jack Holt, John Harmon, Bert Woodruff and Joseph J. Dowling.

The story is not unrelenting drama, for there are moments of comic relief that are unforced, genuine and highly amusing. "The Grim Come-
