THE PLAYGROUND

IT'S a pleasure to stroll around the courthouse block these warm evenings and see the city playground in action. Youngsters, of both sexes and all sizes are getting full benefit from the apparatus installed in the cool, shady grove.

Those who made possible the playground by their generous contributions must feel a deep sense of satisfaction. The community owes them a debt that will increase with the years as the boys and girls of today come into tomorrow's heritage of citizenship with healthy bodies and clean minds, fully equipped to bear the burdens that a complex civilization imposes upon its members.

The playground plan, even at this early stage of its development, is paying big returns on a small investment. From noon until far into the night the grove echoes with the mirth of the kiddies who at last have come into possession of childhood's inalienable birthright—heretofore partly denied them—the right of happy play.

Our heartfelt thanks are due to the men and women who have made the playground possible, and for itself and in behalf of the community. The Herald expresses a sincere appreciation of the magnitude of their service.

It is, of course, unthinkable that interest in such a worthy undertaking should lapse. Its development has only begun. The present plant unit should be enlarged, now that success has been so fully proved, and we trust that contributions from those who have not heretofore realized what great benefits a small amount of money would buy, will swell a fund for the operation and upbuilding of the playground, making it secure as a permanent community institution and asset.

DANNY DEFIES THE ELEMENTS

HERE IS REAL LIFE INSURANCE SERVICE

The real reason—the big reason—as we see it, for a man building his estate in life insurance in preference to property, is that the former is paid out a hundred cents on the dollar in cold cash at his death, whereas the latter may mean something or nothing, just as the market value happens to be of the commodity he has given his life years to accumulating.

To put it another way, ask yourself this question: "What am I striving for—what is it that, in the final analysis, I want—that I seek to leave for my family? Is it property, a lot of farm lands, business blocks, large amounts of bank stock? Is this the thing that I want them to have to comfort them after my earning power has been cut off by death? Or is it the thing that property represents, in other words, MONEY? Certainly, money is what all men strive after, fight for, go to war for, live for, and die for. Why, then, does not the idea of an estate in ready money appeal more strongly to you than that of a lot of property that may depreciate in value the day after your death?"

Many men hesitate to leave large estates in life insurance for the fear that a large amount of money left in ready cash may be squandered or lost. The company that we represent has foreseen all this and has devised a system, that to

AT THE LIBERTY TODAY

MY DEAR FRIENDS:
"MAN TO MAN" is the best picture I ever made.

That's a flat assertion but I will stand on it. In spite of the wonderful reception you have given past productions of mine, I know you will like this one better. It is bigger in every way. When I read Jackson Gregory's great novel I knew I had found the story of my dreams. I saw in it the atmosphere of the Old West that you all like so well. It is brimful of stirring action, engrossing suspense and appealing romance. In short, it is a Western story for all, young and old, men and women.

See it. I know you will like it.
Sincerely,
HARRY CAREY."

Neither can it be attached for debts. Neither can it be sold, mortgaged or assigned. In fact it is impregnable against results of all kinds. You not confuse this with a policy payable in installments. Under the latter the beneficiary may commute the unpaid balance at any time. The service we have to offer is known as a New York Life Trust Agreement and it is the last word in modern life insurance.
