DISTRIBUTION

N discussing the recent meeting of at Milwankee, Arthur Brisbane, the the same robbers. world's most widely read editorial writer, calls attention to the fact that the most important problem facing through advertising. Brisbane says:

want in factories, how to raise it out of the ground, how to pile it up on shelves of libraries.

The great problem is how to dis-tribute it—how to get water from oceans and lakes on to dry land, knowledge from books into men's minds, goods from the factories in-to men's hands, food from farms into men's stomachs.

Advertising is the mainspring of distribution. First to have what people want, then to let them knew you have it, then to force distribution by creating demand.

Once the man in business hunted for a store where crowds would pass and thousands see his win-trouble will be down. That is old, out of date. Now tity is known. he locates himself where he pleases, and puts his announcement in the real show window, which is the advertising page, the window that millions pass

CONSOLIDATION IS FAVORED OF TWO RAILROADS

Joaquin and Santa Clara valleys a direct route to the east he said, and better service than they ever before.

Max Thelen, former president of the California railroad commission. in discussing the history of the Southern Pacific-Union Pacific unmerger ordered by the supreme court in 1913, said that a change in ownership of the Central Parific would cause the Southern Pacific to lose all its deciduous fruit tonnage and considerable of its dried fruit business. Based on Two Grounds

W. F. Herrin said the Southern Paeific appeal to the supreme ecurt for a re-hearing would be based on two grounds-that the two lines which the court ordered unmerged had been a unit in ownership and operation ever since 1885 and that the government had practically recognized them as one concern by arcepting the Southern Pacific's guarantee of Central Pacific bonds when Bonds the latter road liquidated its debt to the government in 1899.

Both he and Guy V. Shoup, an ment of South Riverside Street from the successful bidder other Scuthern Facilic attorney, said West Main St. to city limits and West The Court reserves the right to
