

IN THE COURT

Roff vs. Roff

Return by the sheriff of the service of summons and complaint was made this morning in the circuit court in the divorce case of Pearl Roff against Art Roff.

Malin Bank vs. Smith et al

Seeking to collect a $500 note, and asking $150 attorneys fees, the Malin State bank filed suit this morning against Walter G. Smith, C. S. Merrill, Halbert E. Smith and H. W. Johns.

Watt vs. Stocker

George Watt, local stockman, filed suit against L. Stocker this morning in the circuit court seeking to collect an amount of $758.14, as the balance due on a merchandise account. Writ of attachment was issued by the court.

Ingham vs. Clevenger

Order of dismissal, based on motion of counsel for the plaintiff that the case had been settled out of court, was issued by Judge Leavitt this morning in the case of James Ingham against H. L. and Lillian Clevenger, involving the collection of a $200 note, with $50 attorneys fees asked in the complaint.

Gerard vs. Rueck

Dismissal of the case of Victor Gerard against Carl Rueck, involving a property contract of $1275 on Los Angeles property, and asking $250 attorneys fees, was the order of circuit Judge Leavitt this morning, pursuant to motion of counsel for Gerard that such action be taken.

Northwestern vs. Royce

Seeking the collection of a chattel

note for $562.70 on a Buick car, and asking $150 attorneys fees, the 2nd Northwestern Finance corporation filed suit against M. A. and W. D. Mann, and H. S. Royce in the circuit court this morning. The suit seeks to have the car attached and sold for the note.

THE LIBERTY

What happens to a woman when she starts out vamping important men to help her husband? That is the question one may expect to find answered in "A Wonderful Wife," the Universal photoplay at the Liberty theatre tonight. Miss du Pont, the exquisite blonde beauty of "Foolish Wives," is the star of a dramatic vehicle illustrating in a single concentrated story the theme of marital honesty.

THE STAR

It was Mack Sennett who flashed the wit, wisdom, beauty and brilliance of "Mickey" to the world.

It is Mack Sennett who has produced another triumph—one that will outlive "Mickey," and its title is "Molly O."

In "Molly O" are again combined the forces that made "Mickey" supreme among comedies: Mack Sennett, the producer; merry Mabel Normand, the mischievous star, and F. Richard Jones, the director.

A Cinderella story is told in "Molly O"—a story bubbling over with comedy, yet fraught with faith, wit, humor, pathos, beauty, pageantry and romance, and graced with exquisite glimpses of human nature.

Miss Normand touches the peaks of art and the heights of comedy in her portrayal of a daughter of poverty struggling against the overwhelming odds of environment to reach the uplands of happiness.

Taking more than a year to complete and over 2,000 persons to present, "Molly O" comes to the screen a picture greater than "Mickey."

THE STRAND

That popular young idol of the screen, Eugene O'Brien, comes to the Strand theatre tonight in "The Figurehead," which shows him as an idling young man about town who is induced to accept a nomination for mayor of his city, running against a saloon-keeper who controls the city politically.

What young Sherry Dows (Eugene O'Brien) does not know is that his opponent picked him as a "figurehead" candidate who could be easily beaten, and forced his nomination upon the opposing party leaders, who in reality took orders from the saloon and dancehall man.

Sherry regarded the entire affair as a lark, anyway, but fired by a love which lifts him out of his indifference, he conducts a remarkable campaign which gives the bosses some sleepless nights. They resort to all sorts of political stratagem to get him to withdraw from the race, and when he remains obdurate, they try to "frame up" a scandal which will make it impossible for him to continue the campaign.

The erstwhile idler now shows some of the great qualities that have heretofore been latent in him. In a brutal, elemental fight, stripped of all the veneer covering avarice and intrigue, he hits out man-fashion and carries the day.
