WE MUST UNITE

WITH a resumption of railway building and its attendant development looming more closely in the future than for years past, it behooves Klamath county to seize its opportunities with a united grasp.

The greatness of the times demands that we drop disrupting feuds and petty bickerings.

Co-operation among ourselves and action in common with the remainder of the state and with neighboring states, when events shall have shown which course of action is best for the common interest, is essential if we are to benefit.

There is no debatable ground here if we are honestly seeking progress. There is no place for the doubter who says—Can we co-operate?

WE MUST CO-OPERATE

A visitor in an institution for the insane was being shown around by the superintendent. They passed from the buildings to the grounds and on the far edge, on an unenclosed diamond, found a baseball game in progress.

A packed stand of rooters was sending the air with cheers and criticisms. Out on the lot players were squabbling over close decisions and berating the umpire.

"Who are these?" asked the visitor.

"Why, they are patients of the institution," replied the superintendent.

"But are you not afraid that they will escape? They have no enclosure about them and could easily overpower their few attendants. Suppose they should co-operate—"

"Not a chance in the world," declared the alienist easily. Man, these people can never CO-OPERATE. They're CRAZY.

The people of Klamath county are intelligent. They realize that opportunity is knocking loudly at the door.

They can and will CO-OPERATE. They can and will adjust and compromise their differences, unitedly frown down any fresh attempt to create discord and disrupt harmony, and rise to the heights of the opportunity that means added wealth and increased prosperity for the community and every individual member.

THE BAND

THERE are plenty of good reasons why Klamath Falls should have a band. There is not one reason, as far as we know, why Klamath Falls should not and cannot have as good a band as any city of the size in the country.

The good will and enthusiasm with which every one is rallying to the support of the band movement is inspiring.

Just a little help from everyone of us, and the band is assured. A comparatively small amount, not to exceed a thousand dollars and possi-

Klamath Seeks to Join Hands With Golden State Live Wires

To Citizens of Klamath: Klamath is not a physical part of California, but the imaginary line shall not keep us from joining with one million boosters to place before the world the advantages and attractions of our great west.

Klamath has more to gain by this public spirited movement than any city in the Golden State. It appears that the dream of 13 years is about to be realized in our railroad aspirations, as responsible men have promised that which we have long waited for; we are determined to have our one outlet to the Pacific highway by way of Weed; the irrigation development of the county is adding untold wealth to the tax roll, and is preparing the way for thousands of settlers; the lumber market is sound, and we need 1,000 men to fill out the pay rolls of the various mills; highway construction is beginning and a shortage of labor is all that can retard the program.

We are asking California to remove the imaginary state line and admit us to the inner circle. And we must be prepared to go the limit and share in the harvest.

The movement is coming just at the time when we are planning to hold our campaign to gather additional workers for our chamber of commerce. The undersigned committee has been placed in charge of operations and we are going to expect the fullest amount of co-operation from every public spirited citizen in the county. We are going to prepare the organization to meet increased responsibilities in the vast amount of work to be undertaken.

We do not have to sell promises this year. Although a year of depression and retrenchment has passed, the chamber many times justified its existence on the basis of these achievements. We are going to sell it to new members and resell it to those in arrears.

Furthermore, we are going to do it all by ourselves—no outside help this time. It has taken 15 years to build up the organization to its present standard and the only road is ahead.

Bear in mind when called upon that you are working for Klamath and give us a hearty response. We have given liberally of our time, our money and our influence. We are confident that you will do likewise.

James P. Humphreys, well-known automobile man of Hebron, Md., who declares he believes Tanlac is the best thing to overcome stomach trouble and run-down condition. States it completely restored his health.

"I believe in giving everything its due and I want to say right now I just can't praise Tanlac too highly for what it has done in my case," declared James P. Humphreys, proprietor of the Hebron Motor Co., Hebron, Md.

"For three years or more I suffered from indigestion. After eating I would boat and my heart would palpitate until it interfered with my breathing. I was habitually constipated and my nerves were all upset. My sleep was un-sound, I got up mornings all tired out, and I was only a shadow of my former self.

"Well, Tanlac has given me a keen appetite, stomach trouble has disappeared, my nerves have steadied down, and I have gained several pounds. Tanlac, to my mind, is the best thing ever sold for stomach trouble and run-down condition."

Letters from the People

STATE GAME LAWS ARE UPHOLD BY SPORTSMAN

Editor Herald: Since I have been connected with the Klamath Sportsmen's association I have heard many criticisms expressed as to the hunting laws of our state. Some of them were constructive but in my opinion most of them would not be for the best interest of game conservation. In their narrow-minded way, many believe that the people of the present generation are hindered by too many restrictions in their pursuit of wild life. They will tell of how much better the fishing and hunting was in the past. This is a fact that cannot be disputed; yet, had our forefathers had more restrictions placed on them, there is no doubt but that game of all kinds would be more plentiful at this time. And it is also true that if those who come after us are to enjoy any of the pleasures that we now find when in the field or stream with the rod or gun that we must foster all reasonable conservation laws.

It is often said that there are too many does and that we should have an open season on them as well as on the bucks, claiming that the bucks are becoming scarcer. If this is true there are two ways of overcoming it without killing the female deer. The enactment of the so called Spike Buck law, similar to that in force in California, would go far to increase our herds of deer, besides being an added protection to the hunter against being mistaken and shot for a deer. This law prohibits the shooting of any deer not having forked horns, protecting the young deer that authorities claim is most valuable of all for breeding purposes. Or if necessary close the season for one or two years.

In 25 states the killing of deer is confined to males, in 11 states closed season is in effect on all deer, while in the state of Massachusetts deer may be killed only with a shot gun, no hunter being permitted to hunt with a rifle or revolver during the open deer season.

Some complaint is heard as to the amount charged for the hunting and fishing license ($5.00) comparing it with California where only $2.00 is charged. California with her large population is in a position to sell many times the number of licenses possible in this state, thereby giving her a much greater revenue to be used for game conservation. Few people ever compare with the state of Washington, where the county unit plan is in effect, where a charge of one dollar each for a county fishing or hunting license or $7.50 for a state license is made. Florida charges $1.00 for the county of which you are a resident and $3 for each additional county. South Dakota charges $5 to hunt big game and $1.00 more to hunt small game. In Oregon none of the tax-payers' money is used for the protection and propagation of fish and game for the sportsmen, as the entire revenue is derived from the sale of licenses. This is not true of the commercial fishing industry, as it is no unusual thing for our legislature to appropriate money for the construction and operation of the salmon hatcheries for the benefit of the canneries. I have been informed that some $85,000 was appropriated last year.

While our hunting and fishing laws may not be 100% perfect at the present time, the Sportsmen's association asks the co-operation of the sportsmen in their enforcement.

Within the next week the state game commission will be in Klamath Falls, and the officers of the association would be very glad to receive from sportsmen any suggestions they have to make as changes in the laws, so that they will be in a position to present the matter to the committee.

UNION SERVICES HELD

Union church services were held Sunday evening at the Presbyterian church, the sermon being preached by the Rev. J. W. Bryant, pioneer of Klamath county. Next Sunday, July 16, all local pastors will be here and will occupy their respective pulpits for the morning services. Union services will be held that evening in the Christian church at Ninth and Pine streets. The Rev. S. J. Chaney of the Methodist church returned late Saturday evening from several weeks' work campaigning in California for the new building and location for the College of the Pacific, which is also spent a few days in Yosemite valley while away.

Summer Is Cool If You Let Electricity Do Your Work

—There are many small and inexpensive electrical devices which decrease the labor and discomforts of summer—devices made for the home.

—We suggest a fan and an electric iron as the two most popular articles for making warm days cooler.

—But the thing you need most of all is an electric range. Then, as never before, housekeeping becomes a pleasure. The cost of operation of a range is small. We make a very low rate for heating and cooking.
