KLAMATH RIVER CANYON HIGHWAY

A water grade road along the north bank of Klamath river to the state line is such a big wonderful prospect for Klamath county that it must not be forgotten in our rush for the Klamath Weed highway. Some of the advantages of this scenic, commercial, yes, military, highway down the Klamath river a few miles where we can go north or south or even to the Pacific ocean I will take up later.

The Klamath Weed highway we can get cheaply as it is likely that the Weed Lumber Co. and Garner

City Lumber Co. will have a highway built between their two places, which will bring the road from Weed to Bray. Dorris will see to having it built across Butte valley to state line and we can easily connect from here via Midland to Dorris. For this reason and to obtain the Dallas California highway the road should be built.

It has many disadvantages, and the Klamath river route must eventually be built and steps must be taken right now to insure its future. The Weed road is about 50 or 100 miles long, as compared to about half that distance down the Klamath to the Pacific highway. The Weed road goes over a summit over five thousand feet high—a thousand feet higher than the Siskiyou mountains. It then drops about two thousand feet across a twenty-five mile sandy desert to Weed. This hot sand is not very inviting to tourists coming from the south during our summer tourist season. During the winter the high elevation will block the road with snow as is the Green Spring road in the winter time.

The road has no scenery as compared to the river road, however, there are two points of interest which should be made accessible along the Weed road. They are the lava caves, three miles from Yellow Butte or Delaney, and the lava caves in Butte valley. These are wonderful awe-inspiring places and the Klamath Falls-Weed highway can easily be routed right by their doors as it were.

The road has not the commercial value as the Klamath river road, because of the distance and because the products of Klamath Falls and Weed are the same. The Weed road will not bring the tourists. It will not bring anyone from the north for obvious reasons. It will not get the California tourists who to avoid the heat of the San Joaquin and Sacramento valleys will travel up the coast highway to the Klamath river highway or to Crescent City. From Crescent City tourists will take the highway to Grant's Pass and Crater Lake or they will come up the Klamath to Hornbrook and go to Crater Lake by Medford.

From the fact that the Klamath Falls-Weed road is not an all-weather road, that it will have heavy grades over a high summit, that it will not get the majority of the tourists, that it is comparatively without scenery, that it crosses a desert; that it will not be a commercial artery; that you can only travel one way on it—south; and that it is of no military importance should lead us to hold fast to the road that has not these objections, namely, the Klamath river highway. A. A. SOULE.

ALGOMA

Kotscheder Brothers are erecting a derrick in preparation for well-drilling operations. They expect to drill 500 feet.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hagelstien have returned from Grants Pass where they were visiting friends.

Several good catches of fish have been made in Barclay springs with fly hooks during the past week.

BE PRETTY! TURN GRAY HAIR DARK

Try Grandmother's Old Favorite
Recipe of Sage Tea
Sulphur

Almost every one knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray. Years ago, the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is messy and troublesome. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this famous old recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, at a small cost.

Don't stay gray! Try it! No one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy and attractive. Their Trip Was Ruined Just Because of a Dog

IGO, Calif., July 14.—The family dog played havoc with a pleasure trip Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Russell were making to Martinez by automobile. When they were near Orland their pet dog jumped from the car and was struck by a passing machine and knocked 20 feet back toward Igo.

Russell rushed to the dog's aid, and as he picked him up he was bitten in the hand for his pains.

Mrs. Russell tried to lend assistance to the suffering dog and she was bitten in the foot.

Finally Mr. and Mrs. Russell calmed their dog so they could pick it up and motor on to Orland. There Mr. and Mrs. Russell received attention for their wounds. Then they concluded to motor back to Igo and put off their pleasure trip to Martinez to a more convenient time.

Newest Evening Gown

The newest evening gown is a draped tunic of lace covering a straight and severely plain slip of metal cloth—silver, gold or shaded faintly with orchid, rose or blue.

LONDON—For week-end trips into the country the London woman is wearing a trim little suit or gabardine in tan or navy. Fancy braid curls and spirals add a dressy effect to both coat and skirt. The coat must be of the coat type and if fastened at all it is held together only by a pair of silk loops or a tasseled cord. The coat, of course, flares back smartly to reveal a crepe de chine waistcoat blouse in some bright color or in the shade of the suit but ornamented with a bit of gay embroidery.

A hat with a broken brim is the height of chic. Trimmings perch over and under the brim, which may be a mere indentation or a fairly wide gap. In the latter case the gap is filled in with flowers, feathers or ribbon rosettes. If the hat is wide and with an unbroken brim, it must narrow sharply in front and back. Crinoline hats retain their popularity, though for town wear the hat of crinkled satin is the newest.
