Large advertisement for The Evening Herald. Text: 'The Difference in Advertising Is the Difference in Men Of itself, advertising is little. And the differences in it are the differences which exist in men. Just as some men are strong and virile and interesting, so is some advertising. And just as some men are ineffectual and weak and boring, so is some other advertising. "Does it pay to advertise?" It pays those men who are keen enough students of the public to make it pay them. It pays those men who are truthful, sincere, interesting and believable. It pays the men whose product deserves the payment, whose brains are keen enough to organize for success and judge enough of the human mind to know how to tell their story with sincerity and interest. So when you judge advertising, judge it by how it is used and by whom—not of itself and of itself alone. Remember, an ugly man looks just as ugly in a mirror.
