THE AGRICULTURAL SITUATION

Good crops at fair prices make the United States prosperous. Nearly one-half the people of the country are directly dependent upon agriculture and a much larger proportion are indirectly dependent upon it for livelihood. The ability of this country to produce food and other agricultural materials has made possible its rapid industrial development and is the basis of its foreign trade.

It is now mid-season and although adverse weather might result in marked downward revisions of crop estimates it is assumed that the crop year 1922 will be reasonably satisfactory. Even if harvest results should fall below the yield which has been forecast there is no doubt that the United States has a good wheat crop. The corn crop is by no means made. The July estimate is for a crop somewhat less than last year but slightly in excess of the average crop during the five years 1916-20. There is a large carryover, however, and a yield equivalent to the five-year average would mean satisfactory conditions in the corn belt. With the exception of oats the outlook for other grains is good and large crops of potatoes and tobacco are expected. A cotton crop considerably larger than last year is now indicated but uncertainty as to deterioration which may be caused by the bollweevil makes the final yield uncertain.

The American farmer is assured of a market. The domestic market is the greatest consuming market of the world, the population of this country being equal to the combined population of the United Kingdom and the German republic. The methods of handling, shipping, financing and marketing the crops of the United States for export trade are unexcelled, and the only important competitor of this country from the standpoint of freight haul to Europe is the Dominion of Canada. The exportable surplus of the American crops of 1922 will be promptly absorbed by the international market.

The last two years have been discouraging to farmers, but they are increasingly becoming aware of their advantageous competitive position and are recovering their old confidence. Prices of leading farm products are now much above their recent low point and also well above the prewar level. There is no reason to expect a return of the price levels of the boom years but there is likewise no reason which might justify a fear that the unprofitable prices of the adjustment period of 1920-21 will return. Farmers are reducing their indebtedness. They are expanding their purchases of agricultural implements, fertilizers and other farm necessities, and the time is not far ahead when they will be in a position to increase their purchases of other classes of goods. Business in the agricultural districts shows confidence and that confidence is a justifiable basis for faith in the entire business situation of the country.—National Bank of Commerce, New York.

FIRST RADIO CONFERENCE

International Authorities Expected to Attend Meeting At Chicago, Ill., August 6-8

CHICAGO, Ill., August 2.—The leading radio authorities of America and the world are expected to take part in the first international radio conference to be held in America, on August 6, 7 and 8, in connection with the pageant of progress. The sessions of the congress will be held in Convention hall on the municipal pier.

The plan of holding the radio conference was a development of the radio committee of the pageant, of which George E. Carlson, of the Chicago department of gas and electricity, and sponsor for the monitorial radio broadcasting station on the city hall, was made chairman. Maj. J. O. Mauborgne, signal officer for the Sixth army corps area, of Chicago, has accepted the presidency of the congress.

Definite assurance of their presence at the congress have been received from Charles P. Steinmetz, Dr. Louis Cohen, consulting engineer, signal corps, Dr. J. H. Dellinger, physicist for the U. S. bureau of standards, Francis W. Dunmore of the bureau of standards, in addition to a number of representatives from large electrical concerns.

While the congress is in progress a meeting of the radio leaders will be called by President Mauborgne and Chairman Carlson, at which a plan to make the congress a permanent organization will be submitted. The purpose of the organization, it was stated, would be to promote development of radio in its many phases to encourage amateurs and to popularize broadcasting programs.

The congress will open with a speed contest for radio operators for which Commissioner Carlson has posted a diamond medal, and which is expected to attract the fastest operators of the country.

MANY NEW LAWS TO BE SOUGHT

Commissioners From Every State At Conference to Act on Statutes

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 2.—Proposed uniform state laws for the regulation of aviation, establishment of joint parental guardianship of children, protection of illegitimate children, establishment of declaratory judgments, extradition of persons charged with crime and creation of uniform commercial acts, were submitted to the thirty-second annual meeting of the commissioners on uniform state laws meeting here today.

Commissioners from every State in the nation and from the United States' possessions attending the conference, will consider and act on the proposed statutes this week. Committees submitting their reports recommended definite drafts of the laws that they had drawn up.

Dangerous flying over populated sections of the country by aviators who made a misdemeanor by the uniform aviation act proposed to the conference. Owners or lessors of aircraft which cause damage "are absolutely liable for injury to persons or property on the land or water beneath, caused by the ascent, descent or flight of the aircraft, or the dropping or falling of any object therefrom," the proposed law states.

Under the suggested statutes the "ownership of the space above the lands and waters of the state is declared to be vested in the several owners of the surface beneath, subject to the right of flight."

This right of flight contained in the draft said that "flight in aircraft over the lands and waters of this state is lawful. Unless at such a low altitude as to interfere with the existing use to which the land or water, or the space over the land or water, is put by the owner, or unless so conducted as to be imminently dangerous to persons or property lawfully on the land or water beneath. The registration of aircraft, licensing of pilots and establishment of rules for aerial navigation should be left to the national government the committee believes.

In the law for the protection of illegitimate children proposed by a special committee of the conference, both the mother and father would be held responsible for the support of the children born out of wedlock. "The mother owes her child maintenance and support as if the same were born in wedlock," the statute would state. "The father owes the child maintenance and support, having regard to the condition in the life of the mother, until it attains the age of 17, or if the child is physically or mentally incapable of working, until the child arrives at full age," the report says.

Failure of the father to support his child would subject him to a fine of not exceeding $1,000 or imprisonment for not more than one year.

The wife and husband are made joint natural guardians of their minor children under provision of a proposed law submitted by the committee on joint parental guardianship. Each would be held equally responsible for the care, welfare and education of the children and the care and management of their estates. Both would have equal powers, rights and duties, and neither have one right paramount to the right of the other.

A uniform fiduciaries act which the committee believes would relieve persons dealing with a fiduciary from the responsibility of a burden of inquiry into the good faith of the fiduciary, is recommended by the committee on uniform commercial acts. The general purpose is said to be "to establish uniform and definite rules in place of the diverse and indefinite rules now prevailing as to 'constructive notice' of breaches of fiduciary obligations."

Under the proposed declaratory judgment act, courts within their respective jurisdictions would have the power to declare rights, status and other legal relations whether or not further relief could be obtained in the court, the declaration to have the same force as a final judgment or decree by the judge. This power would be limited to matters involving construction or validity of a legal question in relation to a municipal ordinance or state law.

"Surely, whatever makes you ask such a question?"
"I only wondered why you put a button in the collection plate at church today," answered the youngster.

C. R. NELSON KILLED

Former Klamath Resident, Loses Life In Idaho Truck Accident

Many friends here will regret the death of C. Richard Nelson, better known as "Dick" Nelson, who was killed recently in Idaho, while driving a county road truck. Nelson was a well-known Oregon athlete and a member of the Klamath Falls baseball team about seven years ago, during his residence here.

He was a well-known University of Oregon football basketball and baseball player in 1915-16-17. He played center on the football team and for three years was a varsity guard in basketball.

In the spring of 1920 he returned to the University of Oregon as coach of the freshmen. Last year he was athletic coach at Walla Walla high school, where his teams had exceptional success. When school closed for the summer vacation he went to Caldwell, Idaho, to play baseball in the Western Idaho league. It was while working for the county road department there, driving a truck, that he was killed June 21.

In February of 1921 Mr. Nelson married Miss Elizabeth O'Connor of Caldwell, Idaho. He is survived by his widow and by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. D. Nelson of Lafayette, Ore.

Nelson was a star baseball player. He played first base for three seasons at the Oregon university and was captain in 1917. He was a member of Alpha Tau Omega national college fraternity. He tried out with the Portland Beavers at one time. He was one of the most popular athletes who ever attended the University of Oregon.

Bell was electrified to hear the sound in another room. For forty weeks the instrument struggled, as it were, for human speech. Then on March 10, 1876, Watson became almost insane with joy when he heard over the wire Bell's voice saying:

"Mr. Watson, come here, I want you."

On his 29th birthday, Bell received his patent. It was at the Centennial Exposition held at Philadelphia, two months later, where men of science the world over who had come to examine and study the numerous inventions exhibited, saw Prof. Bell give a practical demonstration of the transmission of the human voice by electricity.

While Dr. Bell will be best remembered as the inventor of the telephone, a claim that has been sustained through many legal contests, he also became noted for other inventions. He was joint inventor of the graphophone with Simeon Tainter. He invented an ingenious method of lithography, a photophone, and an induction balance. He invented a telephone probe which he used to locate the bullet that killed President Garfield. He spent 15 years and over $200,000 in testing his tetrahedral kite, and established a principle in architecture, the use of tetrahedral cells or units.

Throughout his life, Dr. Bell maintained his interest and labors for deaf-mutes. He founded, became president and contributed $250,000 to the American association to Promote Teaching of Speech to the deaf. He was a member of many of the leading American learned societies.

FINLAND IS "WET"

COPENHAGEN, Aug. 2.—A Danish delegation which has been studying the effects of prohibition in Finland doubts whether it will be possible ever to carry through effective prohibition in Denmark.

The delegates consider that the best solution of the question, so far as Denmark is concerned, is the free sale of intoxicants very heavily taxed.

STARVING PAIR FOUND

Man And Wife Lost In B. C. Rescued by Canadian Police

VANCOUVER, B. C., August 2.—Lost in the mountains, Peter Stafford and his wife were found recently in the last stages of starvation by two coastguards on the Kaye river, 32 miles from Skeena mills. The couple had not eaten real food for 20 days, the only thing that kept them alive being soup made by boiling strips of old beaver skin. Stafford's condition was pitiful, as he has been suffering from tuberculosis for some months. How he was able to survive his terrible experiences is a mystery to physicians.

Stafford and his wife were discovered in a small tent, pitched under a big tree. The man, too weak to move, was placed in a canoe and the woman was assisted along the shore until a point 22 miles from the railway was reached. Here they were left with friends, with enough food to last six weeks, and a store of medicine.

GIRLS TO GIVE MOTHERS A VACATION

MONTESANO, Wash., Aug. 2.—Mothers of Garrard Creek, a community in the east end of the county will have a two weeks' vacation this summer. The Girls' club of the community voted unanimously that each girl take over the household duties for a fortnight and give their mothers a complete rest and opportunity to take a vacation trip.
