CONSTRUCTION OF CUT-OFF IS ASSURED—GRAY

One of Three Railroads In Controversy Must Build, Says U. P. President

Completion of the Natron cut-off, linking Portland and the Willamette valley and South Central Oregon, is the one thing absolutely assured in the controversy which rages about the unmerging of the Southern and Central Pacific.

Carl H. Gray, president of the Union Pacific system, is authority for this statement, presented entirely without qualification, says the Oregon Journal.

"I may have no promise to make them, but I will have a statement," Gray commented.

"The Union Pacific looks upon promises as things not to be lightly offered, but as notes that will fall due and must be paid."

"If the Central Pacific is unmerged from the Southern Pacific and made an independent railroad," said Gray, "it must complete the Natron cut-off. If the Southern Pacific retains control, it has categorically promised to complete the Natron cut-off. And we, the Union Pacific, have categorically promised that if we obtain the Central Pacific we will complete the Natron cut-off."

As to other railroad construction by the Union Pacific, particularly the extension of the line from Crane across interior Oregon to connect with the Natron cut-off, in the event that Union Pacific plans are successful, Gray preferred to reserve statement.

JOIN MOVIE CONTEST

New Entrants Have Chance to Win Free Theatre Tickets

For those who have not entered the Herald's movie contest, and would like to do so, here's a word of cheer:

Some of the contestants who sent in guesses the first day guessed incorrectly. Therefore, all one needs to do is to clip the pictures from the Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday papers, and if the guesses are correct he or she has an equal chance with some of the other contestants. And even those who have a 100 per cent score to date may make several mistakes before the contest ends.

After entering the contest, remember that the early bird has the best chance to win. Should a tie develop between contestants, the ones whose guesses are first to reach The Herald will be judged winners.

Hon. Geo. L. Baker, Portland's popular mayor, famous for a number of things, including the kiss bestowed on Mary Garden on her recent visit to Portland, will represent the city of Portland at the chamber of commerce second annual community dinner at the White Pelican hotel Monday evening.

Mayor Baker is an eloquent speaker and it is believed his acquaintance to the program will add considerable impetus to the meeting. He will be accompanied by a delegation of Portland business men representing the Portland chamber of commerce, according to a telegram received this morning from W. D. B. Dodson, manager.

With this line-up of speakers, the advisory committee is arranging to accommodate 300 people. Mayor Baker and W. E. The Harry Borel orchestra will furnish the music, with Borel giving a special violin solo. Charles Fayette, who plays leading cornet in the local band, will also give a special number.

More than 400 invitations have been mailed out to members of the chamber and other citizens of the community, and the returns already indicate that the attendance will be a heavy one.

Ladies are especially invited to attend, and the ladies auxiliary of the chamber of commerce will act as the reception committee.

ENGLAND SUGGESTS THAT HER DEBTORS CANCEL WAR DEBTS

Attitude Will Not Affect That of United States; Mission Coming To Washington in September

GIRLS SHOW PROWESS

Athletic Contest at Playground Brings Surprising Results

An impromptu athletic contest was staged at the children's playground Tuesday when C. W. Rowe and T. M. Stewart of the city heating plant nearby offered prizes to the girls swinging back and forth the greatest number of times on the swinging rings.

First prize, a box of candy, was won by Irene Hargrave, who negotiated the rings the surprising number of 82 times, or 41 round trips. Dorothy Grisez won second prize, also a box of candy, with a score of 74. Third prize, a doll, went to Marjorie Stinson with a score of 19.

So successful was the contest that the sponsors announced a similar contest August 15 when both boys and girls will be entered.

Miss Ruth Dixon, who is in charge of the playground, was elated at the showing made by the young girls, pointing out that the records made by the contestants might well be envied by much older persons.

The playground has won immense popularity, according to Miss Dixon. It is used daily by from 50 to 200 children of all ages, the best proof that the project is a success. The children are unusually well behaved and disorders are unknown Miss Dixon said.

"The children make their own rules and abide by them," she said. "The rules change from day to day, and to fit the occasion, but once fixed there is no argument. Each child accepts the rules without question."
