

MONEY AND MARKETS

LUMBER INDUSTRY OF THE UNITED KINGDOM

At the close of 1921, there was an increased demand in the United Kingdom for lumber which led to rather large importations, considering the difficult conditions of industry, says a recent report from Trade Commissioner Dye to the department of commerce. Consequently, during the first four months of this year, the importation of lumber from the United States generally declined. However, about May 1, importations began to increase and have been increasing ever since. In spite of the dull period at the beginning, the total importation from the United States for the first six months of 1922 is practically double what it was in 1921, although still much below previous years.

Costs—Building costs, both for material and wages have decreased during the past six months. At the present time, wages in the building trade are still about 100 per cent above pre-war and material is about 75 per cent above. The output of labor, however, is higher than it was six months ago and considerably higher than it was two years ago. At the end of June, the Birmingham city council accepted tenders for 53 houses of the parlor type at 395 pounds each. At the peak of high prices, this type of house cost 1,100 pounds and was as much as 600 pounds last November.

The great increase in house building, however, which is taking place in the United States has not found its counterpart there. House building is limited to government and municipal schemes and certain arrangements of large mining companies to build houses on a "no-profit" plan for their own employes. Architects and contractors still are hoping for the day when private parties will build houses as an investment.

'LITTLE WOMAN' HELD BEST BOOK

Ballot Places Louise Alcott Story at Head of List of 25

CHICAGO, Aug. 5.—"Little Women", Louise M. Alcott's story of childhood life in New England, heads the list of twenty-five "best books" for country school children in the first to eighth grades as balloted on by the American Library association and the National Educational association. It was announced today, Lewis Carroll's "Alice in Wonderland" comes second on the two foot shelf with Defoe's "Robinson Crusoe" third, Mark Twain's "Tom Sawyer" fourth and Robert Louis Stevenson's "Treasure Island" fifth. Stevenson is the only author to appear twice on the list. He comes in again with the "Child's Garden of Verse."

Other books which appear on the joint list are: Nicolay, Boys' Life of Abraham Lincoln; Kipling, Jungle Book; Anderson, Fairy Tales; Aesop's Fables; Pyle, Merry Adventures of Robin Hood; Lamb, Tales from Shakespeare; Malory, Morte d'Arthur; Van Loan, Story of Mankind; Wiggin, Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm; Stevenson, Bureau of Home Back of Verse for Young Folks; Dickens, Christmas Carol; Irving, Rip Van Winkle; Mother Goose; Dodge, Hans Brinker; Hagedorn, Boys' Life of Theodore Roosevelt; Hawthorne, Wonder Book; Sexton, Wild Animals I Have Known; Spurr, The Arabian Nights, Herd.

Three books selected by the teachers but not included on the combined list were: Bliss, The Making of an American; Baldwin, Fifty Famous stories; Engleston, Stories of Great Americans.

Three books selected by librarians and not included on the joint list were: Dickens, David Copperfield; Grimm, Household stories; Wynn, Swiss Family Robinson.

Teachers are eager to get this list as an aid in making their selection of books, it is indicated by the inquiries that have been coming in from all parts of the United States to the Chicago headquarters officers of the American library association, the announcement said.

Common Scents

It was in a vaudeville house and the curtain had just fallen on an Oriental scene while the smell of incense filled the place.

"Say, usher," said a rather loud patron sitting on the end seat, "I smell punk."

"That's all right," replied that worthy, "I won't let anybody sit near you."

MARSH MAY ESTABLISH HOME OFFICE IN KLAMATH

Bert Marsh, who has been associated with the Montana Auction and Commission house for the past 29 years, as sales manager and conductor, says he has just completed arrangements with his company to open offices in Southern Oregon, and that he has about decided to make Klamath Falls the home office. Marsh says he is not altogether a stranger here as for many years he has been an extensive shipper of the various better foundation breeds of both cattle and horses.

There will be some fun too, along with the good eats, Monday evening. 4-5

PANTOMINE AT CHRISTIAN CHURCH CONVENTION PLEASANT

The four young women of the Christian church who staged a pantomime at the Turner, Oregon, Christian church convention recently, are deserving of great credit, believes The Rev. A. E. Peterson. The audience was highly pleased with the presentation and many complimentary remarks were heard, he said. Mrs. G. A. Massey, was general director of the work and the members of the cast were the Misses Nina Lathrop, Edith Young, Maggie Caldwell and Gladys McCullum. These young women will give an "echo service" at various meetings Sunday.
