

WILL SELECT IDAHO TICKETS

Three Parties in Convention Today to Complete Their Platforms

BOISE, Idaho, Aug. 22.—Delegates representing the republican, democratic and progressive parties in Idaho will gather in state convention today to choose congressional and state tickets and to adopt state platforms. The republicans will meet at Wallace, the democrats at Hailley and the progressives at Nampa.

Delegates to the state conventions were chosen at party conventions held in the county seats August 15. Delegates to the county conventions had been selected at county primaries held August 1, at which candidates for county offices also were nominated.

One of the warmest contests is expected in the republican state convention, where the issue is restoration of the state primary system, instead of the present convention system. It is scheduled to be an important consideration. United States Senator William E. Borah has gone on record in favor of the primary system and state party leaders have advocated the convention plan.

Delegates from Ada county, in which Boise, the state capital, is located, and which will send the largest delegation to the convention, are expected to favor restoration of the primaries, as it is claimed by primary advocates that delegates favoring the primaries were chosen in the county primaries to attend the county convention.

Advocates of the primary system also claim delegates from Canyon county, which also sends a large delegation to the state convention, but convention plan partisans also declare the canyon delegates will vote for the present system of nominating those.

In the republican convention Congressman Burton L. French of Moscow, representing the First Idaho district, and Congressman Addison E. Smith of Twin Falls from the second district, are candidates for renomination. For governor, Chas. C. Moore of St. Anthony, present lieutenant governor, is a candidate in the republican convention, and was said to be without opposition prior to the convention. Contests are expected to arise also for republican nominations for secretary of state and lieutenant governor, together with other state offices.

In the democratic convention chief interest centers in the governorship contest, with Moses Alexander, former governor, and William Morgan, former justice of the state supreme court, both of Boise, as chief contenders.

The progressive party, leaders of which were prominently identified with the Non-partisan league when it was active in Idaho, has announced that it will have complete state and congressional tickets in the field. It also is expected to draft a platform for submission to the voters of the state.

SHOT TWO ON STAGE

Man Believed Demented Kills One And Wounds Another

PORTLAND, Aug. 22.—An inquest will be held this afternoon or tomorrow over the body of Alvin R. Price of Kelso, who was shot and killed last night by George Reberio, a passenger in the Astoria bound Columbia stage near Rainier. R. Widling of Vancouver, B. C., another passenger, who was also shot by Reberio, is reported recovering from wounds in the head and chest. Reberio, a former inmate of the California state hospital, said at first that he fired in self defense but later told Sheriff Weldington the men insulted him. The sheriff said these statements were not corroborated by those of the witnesses.

Reberio's mental condition is to be examined. He refused to eat in jail today.

Warning

CORVALLIS, Aug. 22.—An earnest warning against surrender to the influences opposing co-operative market associations in Oregon is given by Paul V. Maris, director of the agricultural college extension service.

"Oregon now has such large investments of effort and capital in the half dozen commodity co-operative associations recently established that disaster can not come to any of them without inflicting heavy losses and giving co-operation a setback from which it can not soon recover," says Maris.

The success of co-operative associations in California, which brought prosperity to several groups of agricultural producers and benefited the entire state, is cited as an example. The Oregon associations listed are those for marketing wheat, fruit, eggs, mint, wool and mohair. The new problems of organizing, financing and managing these associations are in the most part being coped with successfully. One failure, that of the Oregon dairymen's co-operative league, is cited and warning given that should others occur it would be very difficult to maintain any of the associations in periods of even mild adversity.

"Such experiences must be avoided, yet the danger of their occurrence is apparent," asserts Maris. "Group withdrawals have been attempted or threatened within four of the existing associations. There appears to be evidence that unfriendly influences outside the organizations take advantage of internal dissatisfaction to make success extremely difficult."

Mention is made of a report on good authority that a member of the poultry producers' association now defending a suit for contract violation professes to be relieved of any personal expense in the matter. The

117 Year Old Flapper

Name Is Well, Read It

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 22.—Maria Antonia Loujina Mastma Verdugo Chavoya, who, according to records of the San Gabriel mission, near here, was born in Los Angeles in 1805, and is therefore 117 years old, is a stranger to the "flapper," but—

She wears her hair short, because age has thinned it.

She rolls her own—cigarettes.

She married at the age of 15.

She took "joy rides" behind ox teams more than 100 years ago.

She likes to talk about the pleasure of riding in rubber tired buggies.

She likes riding in automobiles, too.

And she likes trips in airplanes, now.

She had one sister and ten brothers, but they have all died, but she has twenty-six descendants in and near Glendale, a suburb, where she makes her home.

She is in good health and she never has worn glasses.

question is asked, "Whence come the funds for the legal defense and prolonged campaign being carried on among members by a paid worker?"

"Let those who would avoid the ghastrous effects of failure and help now to counteract them," Maris concludes. "The initial loss of heavy expense and costly mistakes are past and possibilities of success are demonstrated. Granges, farmers' unions, and farm bureaus everywhere can well afford to give immediate consideration to the problems of co-operative associations. Let us demonstrate that co-operation is a practical possibility in this generation."

A warrant was ordered drawn for the amount of cash on hand in payment to G. C. Lorenz on the balance due for the fifth sewer unit.

Newer Ordinances Proposed

It was moved and passed that an ordinance be prepared to fix the distribution of cost of the fifth sewer unit and to name the property owners liable, the city to bear the cost of the septic tank foundation, pump plant, outfall and right of way, remainder of the cost to be divided equally between the city and the property affected. Half the cost of future advertising to be borne by the city. The matter of formulating an assessment collection policy for this unit was left to the finance committee. An ordinance was introduced declaring assessments for this unit.

Object to Assessment

An objection to proposed assessments in connection with the sixth sewer unit was introduced by the Southern Pacific, alleging that the assessments to be levied against the company were disproportionate to the benefits. The company will be given a hearing, probably at the next meeting of the council.

The question of providing a detour during paving of South River side was referred to the street committee.

Patrolman McDonald was granted a vacation of two weeks.
