

SOCIETY

The Happy Hour club met with Mrs. J. J. Keller on Tuesday afternoon. A social afternoon was passed with sewing and visiting at the close of which the hostess served a delightful luncheon to the following ladies: Mesdames R. A. Emmitt, George Humphrey, O. M. Hector, E. Jones, W. P. Johnson, L. Ruconich, S. Summers, William Steinmetz, G. W. Bratton and Lloyd Alfred.

Mrs. M. Motschenbacher, Mrs. John Linman and Mrs. Frank Howard were joint hostesses at a farewell party Friday for Mrs. P. E. Hannon, at the home of Mrs. Howard. A large number of friends of Mrs. Hannon were asked in for the afternoon to bid her farewell, as she leaves very soon for Oakland, California, to join her sons who are in school there. At the close of the day dainty refreshments were served by the hostesses. Present were, Mesdames W. E. Davenport, E. G. Dreher, Charles Maguire, Byron Noud, R. E. Deweese, Mike Lavenick, W. E. Lamm, George Watt, J. C. Boyle, Charles Thomas, Guy Ekwall, A. Von Kralinger, Harry Hargraves, McCormack, W. H. McFerren, A. J. Santamaw, Fred Houston, O. W. Charming, indeed, was the wedding of Miss Myler Calkins to George Stevenson last Sunday morning at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Calkins. Exactly at 10 o'clock the bride appeared accompanied by her father, who later gave her away, and her sister, Miss Clara Calkins, maid of honor. They met Mr. Stevenson and his best man, Edward Geary, in front of the fireplace which has been transferred into an altar of flowers and ferns for the occasion. Mrs. Fred Cofer opened the ceremony with the Lohengrin wedding march, and Miss Esther Calkins sang "O Promise Me." The service was read by the Rev. S. J. Chaney. At the close the Misses Clara and Esther Calkins sang a duet, "Believe Me If All Those Endearing Young Charms," accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Cofer. The bride was lovely in a gown of white tulle and she carried a bouquet of Prussian lilies-of-the-valley, butterfly roses and orchids, showered with Cecil Brunner roses. The bridesmaid was gowned in orchid-colored crepe-backed satin and carried an arm bouquet of Madame Russell roses. Mrs. Calkins was dressed in a becoming black silk with a corsage of lilies-of-the-valley and orchids. Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Stevenson changed to traveling clothes and left in their car for California. The guest list follows: Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Stevenson, Mr. and Mrs. Don Stevenson and children, Mrs. Fred Cofer, Misses Evangeline Foster, Mary McCormack, Agnes McCormack, Faye West, Margorie Delsell, Maybelle Leavitt, Margaret Worden, Mary Jenkins, Marie Obenchain, Ruth Lindsay, Bob Riggs and Paul Noel.

Friday, September 8, the Woman's Library club will open its club year with an at home, at which all daughters of members will be honor guests.

Hostesses for the afternoon will be Mrs. T. C. Campbell and Mrs. Fred Baker. A program dealing with the girl, her needs and problems, will be taken up under the direction of Mrs. H. D. L. Stewart, Mrs. Bert Thomas and Mrs. D. M. Smith. Each of these three ladies will speak of different phases in a girl's development. Miss Constance Fisher, Lucile Harlan and Margaret Cummings will add music to the afternoon's entertainment. Following Friday's meeting, the club will hold its regular gatherings on the second Friday of each month until next June.

A group of the younger men about town were hosts on Friday of this week at a delightful dance at the White Pelican hotel. This is the first of a series of dances which are planned for the coming season.

A family reunion which took the form of a picnic supper was celebrated last Tuesday evening on the west side of the river, honoring Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Wilson of Medford and Mrs. A. L. Harvey of Ashland. The affair was given by relatives of the guests. The real feature of the evening were the fresh venison steaks which were cooked over the glowing coals of a real campfire. The venison was the gift of Robert Sloan who had returned home from a successful hunt from Secret valley the day before. The following were present: Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Wilson, Mrs. A. L. Harvey, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Goelzer and family, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sloan, Mr. and Mrs. Nate Otterbein, Mr. and Mrs. Roderick Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Hoagland, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Parker, Grace Hoagland, Opal Harvey, Stanley Hajicek and Junior Sloan and Frank Wright.

TODAY'S FASHIONS

New Styles for Little People

Peg-topped rompers are fashionable for small boys and bloomers with a new collar are being shown for little girls. Velvet is fashionable for all children between two and ten.

NEW YORK—It looks as though the most important part of the fur coat this winter is to be the lining. Of stunning figured satins, of rich plain colors embroidered with metallic threads it would be a pity if these linings were worn to bluish unseem. As a matter of fact, long arm holes with no sleeves or with sleeves copiously slit will ensure a glimpse.

PARIS—A little hat of bright red velvet has three distinctive features. One is a ruche of the velvet, wide and soft, which forms an upturned brim for the draped crown. A second feature is the use of mosaic hairpins with long oval handles, thrust into the crown on either side of the front. The third feature is a thin veil of pearl grey embroidered round the edge with bright red, which is fastened to the right side of the brim and falls without pretense of shading the face in handkerchief folds to the shoulder.

NEW YORK—The knickerbocker suit is still the favorite hiking costume for autumn wear and it is not likely that this sensible and comfortable style will soon disappear, especially for women who are petite. The new knickerbocker suits do not have the short coat which topped the suits for summer time. There's a long, warm overcoat, topping the knickers almost to the knee. It is long enough for warmth and short enough to dispense with the clumsiness of skirts.

NEW YORK—One feature that is noticeable about the autumn gowns is their breaking out into gathers. These do not come at the back, but sometimes at the side and often in front. Draperies, too, are no longer concentrated at the back of a frock. They are caught up with at the side or in front and the girdles fasten at the front more often than at the side. The back, in contrast, is straight and plain.

In several southern states fish are being turned loose to eat mosquitoes. Poor fish.

Klamath County Fair and Rodeo wants every exhibit possible this year to make it one of the biggest yet held in this part of the country. Thousands of people will attend this Fair and Rodeo that never did before and it is up to us to impress them of the remarkable progress this county is making.

Business men of Klamath Falls have advanced nearly $9,000 to insure the holding of the Fair on the permanent site adopted by the public and approved by the Fair board. Work on the Fair ground is progressing rapidly and will be ready in ample time to receive exhibits on the appointed day.

We know we have some of the finest cattle and live stock in this County of the entire state and the county Fair is the place to exhibit them. Every farmer is urgently requested to make every exhibit possible and especially in livestock. What the co-operation of the people in other sections of the country has done for the community and the fair can and will be done here as well.
