TO THE FLAPPER

Blessings on thee, little dame—
Dareback girl with knees the same,
With thy short transparent clothes,
With thy rolled down silken hose
With thy red lips, reddened more;
Smear'd with lip-stick from the store;

With they make-up on they face,
And thy bobbed hair's jaunty grace,
From my heart I give thee joy—
Glad that I was born a boy.

The Wife Market

In reading our favorite newspaper last Sunday, we noticed that in the South Sea Islands it costs eight spearheads to buy a wife. In this country a single bonehead often secures a very fine wife.

The man of the hour is the one whose wife told him to wait a minute opines Sykes Hamaker.

Old Hank Hombrew says Henry Ford says he's gonna pacify Mexico by introduc'n' Ford cars. But Gosh!—That won't pacify 'em! Leastwise my Ford car don't pacify me—it just makes me Madder than EVER!

C. F. Stone says the old-fashioned girl used to stay home when she had nothing to wear.

In one of the fashionable blocks in a middle west city, early every house is occupied by a family where the husband is living with his second wife. Social rivals call it "Second avenue."

Babies and Babies

Her: "Do you love babies?"
Him: "Sure, if they are about eighteen to twenty years old."

Whenever we see a bird going around in the stores helping his sweetie to buy her wedding clothes we think he must be either bossy or very curious.

A. H. Hale says thin sandwiches, ants, bugs, mosquitoes and grass stain always go with the picnic lunch.

One of woman's greatest responsibilities is to select a suitable father for her children.

Theatrical Antiquity

Frank—"How'd you happen to get a date with that chorus girl?"
Furter—"Intimate friend of grandfather when he was in college."

Will H. Hays says he hasn't been able to find anything dreadful in Hollywood, Cal. Perhaps that $150,000 per makes the city look good to him.

Heard on the Train

"Is this seat reserved?"
"It seems to be, it hasn't said a word to me since I've been here."

Why do they call them "the sad sea waves" during the one piece bathing suit season? asks Ray Telford.

Eleven Letter Men Will Seek Place on Pullman Football Squad

PULLMAN, Wash., Sept. 5.—Eleven letter men from last year's squad will be out for places on the 1922 Washington State college football team when practice begins on September 13. Included in the list will be veterans for every berth on the team except that of center.

Captain Ford Dunton will be in his old place at tackle, and also will probably carry the burden of most of the kicking for W. S. C. this year. Dunton is a consistent 50-yard punter, and did most of the booting for the school last year. He has devoted most of his spare time this summer to kicking practice.

Arthur Hamilton, brother of Fred Hamilton, the 1920 captain, and a tackle on last year's team, is back in college and Moecker, letter-man from the 1921 machine, is another tackle candidate. Frazier and Shannon are the most likely tackle prospects from last year's freshman team.

Duerwachter, McKay and Davis, guards from the 1921 team, are eligible again this year, as is Hoffman, substitute from last year. There are no letter-men available to fill the position of center vacated by last year's captain, Earl Dunlap. Of the men who will be out for the position, Cramer, last year's substitute, seems the most promising.

Clarence Loomis and Verne Hickey, "W" winners, are the veterans who will be out for the end berths. Cook, a second team player from last year, and Keller and Hughes, of the 1921 freshman squad, will also be eligible.

Of the backfield men, the veterans who will return are Moe Sax, quarter, Zaepfel and Sandberg, Davis and Griffiths, freshman quarters from last season, will both be back. Three other backs from the 1921 freshman combination who will be out are Slater, Hales and Triggivi.

There would be little surprise here if Coach Gus Welch should shift Hickey from end to backfield, possibly quarterback. Although Hickey is considered one of the best ends in the conference, he is said to be even better as a backfield player. He combines ability as a good passer with the knack of consistently getting off 50-yard punts.

George Varnell, well known Pacific coast football official, says that the pre-season size-up of the W. S. C. prospects shows a good squad, a generous sprinkling of

Occidental Football Team to Be Stronger

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 5.—The Occidental college football team this fall will be much stronger than the eleven which represented the school last season, members of the student body claim. While three or four of last year's team have graduated, a fine array of last season's frosh will be available. The Tiger freshman team last fall was heavy and formidable. With this material to give weight to the Oxy line, football enthusiasts predict the Tigers will have one of the south's strongest squads.

Last fall Occidental lost the southern California conference title when it was defeated by Whittier, but Oxy supporters say that the team was weakened, several Oxy stars being unable to play in the game because of injuries sustained in their contest with University of Southern California earlier in the season.

players for all positions, good kickers and passers, plenty of weight, but a lack of real speed. He believes, however, that prospects look better this year than they did before the opening of the 1921 season.

THE LIBERTY

An extremely well balanced cast appears in support of Doris May in "Eden and Return," to be screened at the Liberty Theatre today.

Emmett King, a familiar figure on the stage and screen, will have a role for which he is particularly suited—that of Doris May's father. Doris will be Betty Baylock, daughter of a famous Wall street operator, and Mr. King will be Robert Baylock, the proud daddy. Margaret Livingston, whose vivacity has established her as one of the popular young women of the screen, will be seen as Connie Demarest, who helps to give the story much of its humor. Gerald Pring, a young Englishman who has appeared in many motion picture productions in this country, also will have a most congenial role as Hamilton Poates, a character for which his peculiar talents especially adapt him.

THE STRAND

Sheldon Lewis, who plays Mark Bower, the millionaire speculator and rone in Sir Louis Tracy's "The Silent Barrier," at the Strand tonight, says he always wanted to be a comedian instead of a heavy and wishes he had been born with a comic phiz instead of a serious one.

"It's a queer thing but true," remarked Lewis in discussing his villainous role in "The Silent Barrier," "that the man who writes funny stories or builds comedies or farces is a sad and serious soul to his friends. On the other hand, your chuckling, jovial chap gives birth to the most blood-curdling drama.

"In my case I'm handicapped by nature for the laughing roles, despite the fact that I am a merry wight at heart. I'm cast in the dark mold that is associated so unreasonably with all the villainy in the world, but just the same I'll always be convinced that I'd have made a hit in comedy."

PHILADELPHIA LEADS BUILDING

Jumps From Eighth to Sixth Place Among Nine Large Cities of Country

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 5.—Building activity in this city during the first six months of the present year has resulted in Philadelphia jumping from eighth to sixth place among the nine largest cities of the country in the number of new dwelling permits issued, the Philadelphia housing association announces.

For the first half year New York had housing projects which will provide accommodations for 242 per cent of the yearly population increment. Los Angeles ranks next with a record of 214 per cent, followed by Boston with 115 per cent, Chicago with 113 per cent, Pittsburgh with 105 per cent, Philadelphia with 92.6 per cent, Baltimore with 69 percent, Detroit with 61 per cent and Cleveland with 51 per cent. As contrasted with last year's record for the period, Philadelphia has increased the percentage provided for its yearly need of new accommodations 7.6 times. Only one other city has a larger percentage of its new housing accommodations under permit in single family houses than Philadelphia, Baltimore tops the list with 90 percent in single dwellings; Philadelphia has 88 percent; Pittsburgh 68 percent; Los Angeles 58 percent; Cleveland 50 percent; Detroit 40 percent; New York 37 percent; Chicago 24 percent and Boston eight percent.
