

URGES MAIL BOX USE

Proper Receptacles Will Speed Deliveries, Department Holds

Delays in city mail delivery, due to failure of residents provide a proper door-slot or mail receptacle has caused the postoffice department to issue instructions to postmasters that these accommodations be provided.

Postmaster McCall is asking all Klamath Falls residents who receive mail by carrier to provide either a proper mail box or door slot. For business houses and offices a slot is preferable and in some dwellings it is also preferable. There are other dwellings where a mail box at the bottom of a flight of steps might save the carrier time and trouble.

These are matters, says the postmaster, that are to be worked out by co-operation between postoffice and patrons, the accommodations provided to be such as best will facilitate delivery and improve the service.

The orders are not arbitrary, but are expected to be fulfilled within a reasonable length of time. The spirit in which they are to be carried out is manifested in the concluding paragraph of the departmental instructions:

"It is not the department's desire, of course, that any shall be deprived of delivery by this requirement, but rather it is earnestly hoped that all will see the reasonableness of it and its advantage to themselves as well as to the carriers. But if it finally becomes necessary mail delivery will be discontinued where no door-slots (preferably) or mail receptacles, are provided."

GOES TO WEST POINT

Appointment Won By Charles Maguire of Klamath Falls

The staff of the Sacred Heart Academy takes a laudable pride in the honor that has come to Klamath Falls in the appointment of one of their pupils to the United States Military academy at West Point. The appointment was made through Congressman Sinsott of The Dalles, who chose Charles Maguire as fulfilling the requirement laid down by the government for such appointment.

The recipient is the son of J. F. Maguire, a prominent business man of this city. He entered the Sacred Heart academy at its opening and during his stay there took a leading part in the studies and athletics. In the past year he represented the academy in debates and elocution, was a member of the handball and basket ball teams, and caught for the Knights of Columbus ball club this summer.

The newly-appointed cadet and his father left yesterday morning for San Francisco, where the former will enter upon an intensive course.

THOUSANDS AT EPISCOPAL MEET

Portland Convention Draws From All Parts of United States

PORTLAND, Ore., Sept. 6.—

Thousands of Episcopal churchmen from almost every county in every state in the United States and also many from foreign lands, joined in elaborate celebrations of the holy communion this morning in every Episcopal church and mission in Portland. The services were held simultaneously at 7:30 a. m., and marked the opening of the forty-seventh triennial gathering of the general convention of the Protestant Episcopal church. The convention will be in session here until September 23. Prominent among the problems which delegates will consider are proposed changes in the Book of Common Prayer and the adoption of a program for the next three years.

At the early morning services the house of bishops and deputies celebrated communion at Trinity church, the largest and finest Episcopal church in Portland, and the delegates to the triennial meeting of the women's auxiliary made their communion at St. Stephen's Pro-Cathedral, the church at which the bishop of Oregon worships. Similar celebrations were held at other Episcopal churches of the city for the delegates to the conventions of the smaller organizations and societies of the church.

The first great mass meeting of the convention assembled at the municipal auditorium at 10 o'clock. All delegates from outside of Portland were provided with tickets, so none of the visitors would fail to obtain a seat. The service was one of the most spectacular and elaborate ever staged in Portland.

The service started when the great white-robed choir of 250 singers emerged from the side rooms of the building, and as they marched down the main aisle of the auditorium they sang the inspiring hymns of the church. They were accompanied by the modern $20,000 pipe organ which is a feature of the auditorium.

When the singers had filled the aisles of the building they parted their ranks, while each member of the house of bishops passed through and up to the platform. The bishops, who were dressed in their full episcopal robes, were led by the presiding bishop, the Most Rev. Daniel Sylvester Tuttle, D. D., of St. Louis, Mo., followed by other bishops in the order of their seniority. When the bishops had taken their places the choir closed its ranks and followed them to the platform.

Morning prayer was then said by the Rev. Alexander Mann, rector of the Trinity Episcopal church, Boston, and president of the house of deputies. The Bible lessons were read by Dr. Henry Anstie, of New York City, secretary of the house of deputies, and Dr. J. F. Nelson, secretary of the house of bishops. The Rt. Rev. Edward T. Lines, bishop of the diocese of Newark preached the convention sermon, followed by the benediction by Bishop Tuttle. Bishop Walter Taylor Sumner of Oregon was master of ceremonies.

At the conclusion of the celebration the delegates adjourned to the basement of the auditorium where luncheon was served.

During the early afternoon the house of bishops and the house of deputies met for their first sessions, when preliminary organization work was done. The first few days will be devoted principally to organization and the hearing of reports from various commissions.

Possibly the outstanding social event of the convention is set for tonight when the visiting bishops and members of their families accompanying them will be entertained at Bishopcroft, the Episcopal residence in Oregon, by Bishop and Mrs. Sumner. Those who have been selected to receive the guests are Bishop Tuttle and his sister, Mrs. Sarah R. White, both of St. Louis; Bishop and Mrs. Thomas P. Gallor, of New York City, and Bishop and Mrs. Sumner, of Oregon.

Present indications point to this convention being the largest in the history of the church. The housing committee has the names of 5,000 official delegates and visitors listed on its books, or twice the number which were registered at the last triennial convention in Detroit, Mich., in 1919.

Hundreds of delegates who arrived early this week have spent the time as guests of local Episcopalians viewing the Columbia river highway and other scenic points in and about the city.

CONSOLIDATION OF C. P.

ating them. Three lines now use the tracks between Seattle and Portland. Probably no railroad construction would so benefit the people of Oregon as would the provision of more than one line make joint use of the tracks between Portland and San Francisco. Thus the localities lying between these cities would be served directly by the various systems whose competition now goes only to Portland and the Willamette valley and to San Francisco and the Sacramento valley. Experts declare it is difficult to overstate what it would mean to the many communities to have the service of the "Hill Lines" direct joint trackage arrangement.

Joint Use Thought Probable

Similarly, the joint use of the Central Pacific between Ogden and San Francisco would permit the several lines east of Ogden to enter San Francisco directly without the need of building additional railroads across the Nevada desert and the Sierra Nevada mountains.

Transportation experts closely in touch with the situation declare that it may be expected that, when the hearings on consolidation of the railroads are resumed before the interstate commerce commission, the Hill group will be found to have included either ownership or joint use of the Oregon & California and Central Pacific lines from Portland to San Francisco and of the Central Pacific from Ogden to San Francisco, relying for the support of the community not so much upon promises of large expenditures of money for new construction as upon affording direct competition to all intermediate points by making joint, instead of exclusive use of the existing railroads.

The building of the line from Bend to Kirk and the additional incidental construction that would be occasioned is, of course, a very important development in the creation of new lines opening new territory, especially as it would give Portland at least an equal competitive advantage with San Francisco in the Klamath Falls territory which now is considered as belonging exclusively to San Francisco.

That this advantage means is indicated by the fact that there are 30,000,000,000 feet of timber available for marketing from the Klamath Falls district.

Note: This is Mayor Geo. L. Baker's letter to K. Sugarman after reading his ad in The Evening Herald of Aug. 16.

MAYOR'S OFFICE
Portland, Oregon

August 28, 1922

Mr. K. Sugarman,
Klamath Falls, Oregon.

Congratulations on your recent advertisement.

You have the sort of spirit Klamath Falls, Portland and Oregon needs, and I dare say it is that spirit that makes your business a success. You are dead right---grouching gloom never helped a community and it will never help a state, or a town or a business or an individual.

Anybody can grouch but it takes a regular fellow to kick old man gloom in the slats and say hurrah for the things that will mean progress, growth and development, even though that individual may not be one of the direct beneficiaries.

Keep up the spirit and you will get the Natron cut-off and Portland will get the exposition and the gloomers will get a kick in the jaw.

With best personal regards, I am,
Very sincerely yours,

Geo. L. Baker

Mayor
