LET'S GET IT

In the bill passed by congress, and awaiting the president's approval, authorizing the appointment of twenty-five new federal judges for existing districts, there is an opportunity for Klamath.

Oregon needs another judge and another federal judicial district, and the federal government would save money in the prosecution of Klamath county cases by the creation of a second district for Oregon and the establishment of a court at Klamath Falls.

The present cost of transportation of defendants in federal cases, mostly heavy violations, and the attendant witnesses to Portland is enormous. It is estimated, we do not know how closely, that the cost of the average trial is $500. Considering the cost of railroad fares and hotel accommodations, which are only part of the expense, and the fact that the average contorted case calls for the transportation of at least ten persons to Portland, the average seems reasonable. If every case were contested the cost would be far greater than $500, but the average is reduced by a portion of defendants pleading guilty.

Once a year, also, the federal court sits in Medford, reducing the mileage costs, but those who assert that the cost of administering federal justice in Klamath is close to $25,000 a year seemingly are within reason's bounds.

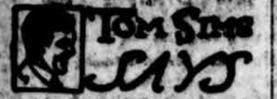

Looking figures at this juncture we can make no definite statement, but figures can be easily obtained.

Twenty-five thousand dollars a year would pay salaries to a judge, clerk, bailiff and other officials of a federal court, and leave a residue that in ten years would pay for a magnificent federal building.

True, the present congressional act is to provide judges to relieve congestion in existing districts, but the situation in Oregon calls for remedy by the creation of a northern and southern district.

The logical location for the court of the southern district is Klamath Falls.

We respectfully suggest that the chamber of commerce start a movement to ascertain the possibilities of the situation and to get busy with the Oregon representatives at Washington to secure a new federal district if it is possible.

America's Ex-Service Men Best Treated of Any in World

Republican Administration Spends More for World War Veterans Than for Any Item Except the Public Debt.

U. S. REPRESENTATIVE EARL W. RIDDICK (MONTANA), MEMBER HOUSE COMMITTEE ON AGRICULTURE

In November, 1918, the people elected a Republican Congress. The first session of this newly elected Republican Congress began May 19, 1919. With it began practically all Federal aid for relief and assistance of those who served in the World War. An elaborate program was formulated providing for hospital and medical aid for all disabled and diseased ex-service men. The program included those suffering from mental diseases as a result of their war experience; also vocational training and rehabilitation; also financial allotments for those engaged in such training; also compensation for men totally or partially disabled, and for their dependents; and for the dependents of those who died as a result of injury or disease contracted while in the service of their country.

There was expended to July 1, 1922, for the purpose of carrying out this program the sum of $1,435,551,335. In addition an appropriation of $432,092,542, has just been made by the Congress for the Veterans' Bureau for the coming fiscal year. This is a greater appropriation than made for any other purpose except in payment of the public debt.

Following the war the administration of relief for ex-service men was divided among several bureaus and this necessitated tremendous overhead expense, entailing a disproportionate amount of money appropriated for aid of World War veterans, and it occasioned endless delay in handling ex-service men's cases and put them to unfair expense. To remedy these evils the Republican Congress passed a measure, combining all agencies dealing with ex-service men under the Veterans' Bureau.

Following the war, hundreds of thousands of veterans permitted their insurance to lapse, largely because of the slipshod manner in which their claims were handled under the Democratic administration. At the request of representatives of the ex-service men the Republican Congress made it possible for all ex-service men whose policies had lapsed to be reinstated at any time prior to March 4, 1922.

The hospitalization and medical treatment of ex-service men was found to be unsatisfactory and Congress transferred 99 hospitals to use of the the fourth consecutive season McNeely has been a member of a hunting party at Agency lake having equally as good luck.

Miss Wanda Brown and Miss Alice Thurston, both teachers in the high school, spent yesterday at Crater lake. It was Miss Thurston's first trip to the lake and she was entranced by the beauty of the scene.

C. F. Cole left this morning for Oakland after a week's visit here. Mrs. Cole will remain for another day with her sister, Mrs. Harry Ackley, and then go on to Ashland for a visit with her mother, Mrs. Wells.

Bill Nitschelm and Everett Hardbrook were two of the many Klamath business men who arose before day break this past week-end and hied themselves to some choice duck pond that they might be ready to shoot at the first ray of the rising sun.

Mrs. George B. Chamberlin, who for the past year has been with relatives and friends in Chicago, returned home the last of the week. Mr. and Mrs. Chamberlain expect to leave again in about a month for California and other points.

L. A. Liljeqvist, assistant state attorney-general, arrived here last night and will devote his time while here to business connected with the case of the State against

Modernize Your Kitchen

In the progress of the people of any community you find all other fuels giving way to the only modern one—Electricity.

The great West with its Hydro-Electric plants is able to sooner adopt this clean and economical fuel than where generating plants are operated by steam. In many western cities the electric range is displacing even gas.

The reason lies in the range itself, with its simplicity and its clean, odorless service rendered at small cost.
