PLAYING BRIDGE

A man sometimes lives down mistakes. But at a bridge game now he quakes. He loses tricks, the others frown: He cannot live those errors down.

Boomin' Genius

He wrote the sweetest note, but, on second thought, one could hardly call it a note, either.

It began:

"My dearest, sweetest, most lovable girl:

"Your radiant face is before my eyes all hours of the day and night. I dream of your entrancing presence. I review with the utmost ecstasy the words that you have uttered, and I phrase with equal joy the words that I should like to whisper in your shell-like ear."

And it continues in the same vein one page, two, three, five, eight. And it ends:

answer and say that I may take you in my arms and pour out the cravings of my heart. Answer and say that I may utter those words which will break my heart and drain my vitality if they remain unsaid.

"Oh, lady of my dreams, my very soul cries out to yours.

"Your delightfully wretched slave."

He signed it and said, "Now who in hell will I send it to?"

Cause For Worry

There was a man And all his life He'd worked in a shipyard. And he had a baby And it was going to be christened. And for a week He couldn't sleep nights Because he worried For fear the minister Would hurt the baby. When he hit it with the bottle.

Business Man—"Why did you leave your last place?"

Young lady applicant—"I was caught kissing my employer, sir."

Business man—"Er-um, you can start tomorrow morning."

A PAIR A peach came walking down the street:

She was more than passing fair; A smile, a nod, a half closed eye. And the peach became a pair.

YOUNG GIRL NOW HAILED AS FUTURE TENNIS CHAMPION

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 21.—Helen Jacobs of San Francisco, 14 years old, is being hailed by tennis experts of the bay region as a potential tennis champion. Their views were expressed after they saw her this month reach the semi-finals in the junior girls' national hard court championship.

It was the first tournament in which the diminutive racket wielder had participated and she took three games in each set from a young woman who because of age was playing for the last time as a junior.

Miss Jacobs' untrained play demonstrated that she has the makings of a star. Her first service is manlike and she now will be coached for accuracy so that she will not soften her second service. Her fore hand drive has the speed of a veteran but her back hand stroke and her stance on the court can be perfected.

Her mental attitude on the court even when the score is in favor of her opponent is what the experts say will carry her through to high honors. The girl does not know what a "pat" game is and even when she has but one point more to obtain to win a game she does not play safe but tries for a kill which will be a winning shot.

Dr. C. A. Wills, father and first coach of Helen Wills, nationally known as the best girl player, witnessed two matches in which Miss Jacobs played and predicted great things for her. Heads of two tennis clubs in the bay section have offered to see that Miss Jacobs gets the right kind of practice in order that she can develop her latest ability.

Miss Jacobs was "discovered" by Mrs. Blanche K. Ashbaugh, San Francisco newspaperman, Mrs. Ashbaugh saw possibilities in the girl and endeavored to interest Miss Jacobs' parents. They thought her too inexperienced to accomplish anything in the national tournament but Mrs. Ashbaugh thought otherwise and arranged for Miss Jacobs' entrance in the competition.
