"Just fast enough," replied Mr. Chuggins, "to break the road rules, and not fast enough to keep ahead of the cop."

Everyone Croaked

The professor of a medical college was to give a talk to some students. He arrived rather late and began to talk as he entered the classroom.

"I have dissected a frog and will now explain the functions of the different organs," he said.

Thereupon he undid a package and out came two sandwiches and a piece of cake.

"Who's that guy you were talking to?"

"Aw, that's me old family drugist."

"What did he say?"

"No."

Three of a Kind

She was telling an acquaintance about her girl friends.

"Yes," she said, "my friend Maude is only twenty-five, but she's been married three times, and all her husbands have been named William."

"You don't say!" replied he. "Why she must be a regular Bill collector!"

Girls who want to follow the latest style and have their names embroidered on their stockings must either have short names or long legs. It's one or the other.

SPORTS

Georges Finds Tennis Rough

Georges Carpentier, heavyweight champion of Europe, finds that tennis is not quite so gentle a sport as he anticipated. The fists that have knocked out a lot of Europe's best boxers couldn't evade blisters when they gripped a racket. Mrs. Carpentier is shown here binding up one of the blisters.

WORLD'S SERIES ABOUT TO START

Fans Begin Speculations; Connie Mack Found Best Manager

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—Baseball's annual classic, the world series, is just in the offing.

The fan begins his speculations. For the sake of argument he turns back to series of other years.

What manager has had greatest success in world series?

And the answer comes—Connie Mack, christened Cornelius MacGillivuddy—of the Philadelphia Athletics. Mack has carried three of the Philadelphia teams to world championships. Twice he met and defeated John McGraw and his Giants. In the other series Mack triumphed over Frank Chance, the great Cub leader. McGraw triumphed over Mack in 1905.

Chance won two world series with the Cubs; Carrigan won two with the Boston Red Sox and McGraw has taken two with the Giants.

The following table shows the winning and losing managers since 1905:

WINNER
1905—McGraw, New York Nationals
1906—Jones, Chicago Americans

MOVIES

THE LIBERTY

If every motion picture were as clean and as entertaining as "His Nibs," in which Charles (Chic) Sale is starred by Exceptional Pictures corporation there would be no cry for censorship.

This picture, which has its final showing at the Liberty theatre tonight, is a delightful satire on the old-fashioned movie, a take-off of all the extravagant melodramas of eight or ten years ago. Also it pictures a rural theatre, The Slippery Elm Picture palace, and the people who attend the show. In addition to its great comedy appeal, the picture has the added novelty of showing Chic Sale in seven distinct character roles, each of them a triumph in characterization, for Sale does not ridicule or burlesque his rural impersonations, but instead gives lifelike pictures of the types seen in the small middle western communities.

THE STRAND

Tonight at the Strand will show "The Gray Dawn" for the last time. Those who saw this picture yesterday are enthusiastic about it and urge their friends to attend tonight.

Tomorrow the picture will be "The Three Musketeers" and the price will be ten cents to everybody. A crowded house always goes with the ten cent price and there will be three shows tomorrow night.

Next Sunday "The Four Seasons" will be shown. This picture depicts the passing of the seasons in all parts of the earth. It is the evolution of everything that lives and breathes. Of wonderful educational value to the young and of untiring interest to the adult, this picture will draw the school children and teachers almost as a whole.

Special arrangements are being made to accommodate the children in large numbers. Teachers can make plans now to reserve sections for their classes. The picture is next Sunday and Monday.

P. S. Great Duck Hunter Discovers New Species

(Letter from Phil Space to his friend Ed Jenkins, Oshkosh, Wisconsin. Published by permission.)
Dear Ed:

Well, Ed, when I tell you I have been duck hunting you will know right away that I got a squad of ducks even whilst the other dumbbells with me did not even get a tale feather. And you would be dead right, Ed, what I mean. Not only that, but I got a new kind of duck which has a beak like a chicken, or something, and not flat like the ordinary or backyard variety of quackers have.

When this bunch ask me to go hunting I says all right but I do not guarantee to get anything, I being modest and not one of those birds which is always sounding off on his own bugle. Joe Snodgrass and the other fellows kinda grinned at that like they knowed I was a grate hunter but was keeping it dark. However, we went down to a place called the government's sump and started hunting.

Snodgrass and the other fellows says now Phil the way you do it is to snuck up on them and maybe you do not have to use your gun at all but can club them to death. Says I, you gents run along and use your brains to find means and ways to get your own ducks and do not bother with trying to hand me the durham. So they start off and after a while I walked down to one end of the sump and sit down in a dry spot near the water and light my pipe.

Well, Ed, I had not sit there 10 (ten minutes) when along comes a squad of ducks and sits down on the water a couple rods away. Says I, well hear goes and I let them have 2 (two) barrels. Say, Ed, they was ducks laying all around the place and when I waded out and gather up the remains I had six. It was growing dark now so I go back to the car and wait for the others.

Well, along come Snodgrass and the others pretty soon and they did not have not even a tale feather, as I said before. So I flash my bag on them and what do you suppose those dumbbells did. They luffed, Ed, so help me, that what they did. They sat down and luffed and rolled on the ground and luffed and I get soar and says I what is the joak and if you tell me I will luff too. So one says ducks my eye them's not ducks but mud hens.

Well, Ed, here's my turn to laugh and I done so. Mud hens, says I, your all goofy as in the 1st (first) place these birds were not in the mud but in the water, and in the 2nd (second) place who ever hear of a hen going near any water. Just tell me, says I, who ever hear of such a thing as a hen going in water unless it was a stew pot.

Of course these dumbbells was two ignorant to see it and I get kinda soar and I says the next bird which opens his face about these being hens, mud or any other kind, gets one rammed down his gullet. Well, that sobered them up, what I mean, and we cranked up the Lizzie and start back. Every once in a while one of them busts out like he had been touched off but when I give him my Dempsey look he got over it and only stayed red in the face.

And that's about all there is to it, Ed, except that the missus sides with those dumbbells and says what do I mean by bringing home mud hens and I says the next person, man or woman, which says hen to me will not be able to talk about hens or nothing else for a long while to come.

If you know what kind of ducks those is I shot you might let me know, Ed. There a new species I guess and something these dumbbells around hear do not know nothing about.

Yrs. Respect'ly
Phil Space

THIBET WILL NOT BE MYSTERY LAND VERY MUCH LONGER

LONDON, Sept. 25.—Thibet, it is hoped, will not much longer be the land of mystery. Nor will the great outside world, it is expected, continue to be the great land of the unknown to the Thibetians. They are to be offered an opportunity of seeing, on the movies, something of the wonders to be found in the vast world beyond Thibet. In exchange it is hoped they will allow cinematograph pictures to be taken of the wonders of Thibet for people of other lands to see.

A cable just received in London announces the arrival in Calcutta of the members of the British Buddhist mission to Thibet. They have begun the long and difficult journey on foot through the Himalayas.

On their way to Darjeeling the mission visited the Bodhidharma (or "Tree of Intelligence") the sacred fig tree under which, according to Buddhist tradition, Buddha was sitting in contemplation when he attained the perfect wisdom. A film is to be taken of the tree and of the pilgrims visiting it, and it is hoped to show these pictures to the Dalai Lama in Lhasa itself. Films of wild animals and the various aspects of the outside world are also being carried in order to offer to the highest Thibetan authorities the first cinematograph exhibition ever given in their famous city.

She's Pride Of U. S. Navy

Miss Emma Scott Editt, daughter of Rear Admiral and Mrs. Edward Hughes will head the list of navy debutantes at Washington this season.

FORMER EMPEROR WILLIAM EMERGING FROM HIS SECLUSION longer in office the former emperor does not hesitate to work in his garden in full view of passers by.

He clips and trims fir-trees within a few feet of the foot-path which encircles the grounds, and with only a wire fence between him and the public. He talks incessantly of forestry and the care of trees. The former war lord is having the dense woods which surround the park thinned out, and he is himself taking an active part in the work. He looks cheerful and healthy.
