

GREECE TORN BY REVOLUTION

King Constantine Reported To Have Abdicated; Warships Advancing on Capitol

LONDON, Sept. 27.—Greece is in the grip of a revolution. King Constantine is reported to have abdicated. Several warships and transports, manned by revolutionists, are reported advancing on the capitol from the Aegean Islands where the revolt originated. The cabinet resigned yesterday as the crisis approached. Martial law has been declared in Athens.

The British commanders are confident that they can keep the Turks from crossing the Dardanelles or capturing Constantinople until arrival of formidable reinforcements now on the way. Turks are entrenched on neutral zone which they refuse to recognize as such.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 27.—General Harrington, British commander here, sent an ultimatum today to Kemal Pasha at Smyrna by wireless, giving him 48 hours to withdraw his forces from the entrance to the Dardanelles. Another body of a 1000 Turkish cavalry today crossed the neutral zone from Biga.

It is unofficially forecast that the Kemalists reply to the allied peace note contains unacceptable conditions, in that the Nationalists insist upon using the straits for transporting of troops to Thrace before beginning a peace conference.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27.—Unequivocal approval by the Washington government of the allied proposals to insure the freedom of the Dardanelles and Bosphorus, and also to protect the racial and religious minorities in Turkish territories, expressed by Secretary Hughes today in reply to an inquiry addressed by the Associated Press. Hughes declined to discuss the territorial question raised by the allies' proposal, but made his attitude clear on other points.

K. OF P. PLAN SMOKER RODEO HATS IN STYLE

Siki and Dempsey to Appear on Program; Big Time Promised

Siki, the Senegalese fighter who landed Carpenter a K. O. the other night, and Jack Dempsey, so-called world's champion, will appear at the Knights of Pythias smoker to be held in Pythian hall at 8 o'clock tonight. At least those were the names the acrobats gave to the Pythian entertainment committee.

Other celebrities of local fame will also appear, and several entertaining stunts are planned. Borel's orchestra will furnish the slow music when the Siki-Dempsey bout ends and those who are able to quit laughing after the affair is over will be offered an excellent luncheon.

The entertainment is open to friends of Knights of Pythias by invitation.

SEEK POLICE BENCH

Two More Candidates Appear, Gaghagen and Brandenburg

Two more candidates have appeared for the office of police judge. They are Justice of the Peace L. L. Gaghagen and Patrolman Clyde Brandenburg. Both have petition blanks and Justice Gaghagen's will be in circulation tomorrow.

Justice Gaghagen said he would make no campaign as he does not believe in the practice of button-holing friends to ask their votes. He said that if the voters wanted him they would elect him, and that he would let it go at that.

Brandenburg has been a member of the police force for the past year or two. Previous to that he was engaged in the merchandise business.

Wide Brims and Tall Crowns Are Latest Fashion Here

Rodeo hats are the latest fashion in Klamath Falls—big wide-brimmed ones with tall crowns, donned in the front. That's the fashion as decreed by the fair and rodeo boosters. Some folks are saying that extra admission will be charged those coming to the rodeo wearing ordinary hats. But this report is believed to be a slight exaggeration of the facts.

This latest fashion holds good for women as well as men, the boosters say.

CLINIC BIG SUCCESS

97 Babies Examined; Health Declared to Be Unusually Good

The register of the annual Klamath Falls baby clinic showed that 97 babies had been examined during the one day. It was with the greatest satisfaction that the ladies of the library club learned of the success of the clinic which was held under their direction and was made possible only by the hard and diligent work of club members, ably assisted by Miss Lydia Fricke.

"The health and general condition of the children I found to be very, very good," said Dr. Warner, of Portland, before she left for Lakeview this morning. "And best of all, they rate very favorably with other children in the state."

This was the largest one-day clinic held in the state so far this year according to Dr. Warner, who is state medical director of hygiene.

Nurses who assisted yesterday and whose names were not in last night's paper were: Mrs. Charles N. Coscob, Mrs. H. E. Hauger, Miss Hazel Moorehouse, Anderson' and Zimmerman.

ABDICATED!

King Constantine and Queen Sophia of Greece reported to have abdicated because of widespread discontent among the Greek people due to their troops' defeat by the Turks in Asia Minor.

OPERATION OF C. P. INDEPENDENTLY IS AIM OF PETITION

Canvass Made of Klamath Business Firms By J. W. Morrow, Tax Agent of O. W. R. & N.

Operation of the Central Pacific as an independent railroad, through the carrying out of the unmerger decision of the supreme court, is the aim of a petition circulated here during the last few days by J. W. Morrow, tax agent of the O. W. R. & N., and liberally signed.

Morrow said that 175 signatures were obtained in Klamath Falls. He attempted to make a full canvass of the business district and could name less than half a dozen firms that refused to sign. Forty-eight signatures were obtained in the Fort Klamath section, about 25 in Lakeview and others in Merrill and Malin.

No immediate use of the petition is contemplated, but it may possibly be handy as an instrument of rebuttal to points raised at some future hearing, he said.

Following is the text of the petition:

We, the undersigned, severally engaged in business in Oregon, and patrons of the Southern Pacific company in its freight service, believe that better transportation service in Western Oregon will be obtained if the decision of the Supreme court of the United States in the case of the government against the Central Pacific and the Southern Pacific be enforced, and joint operation by two railroads in Western Oregon afforded. If in the enforcement of the decision and the joint operation in Western Oregon so much desired, the ownership of the connecting railroad be such as to favor the movement of east-bound business across the state of Oregon, thereby affording sufficient tonnage to warrant the construction and operation of a line through Central Oregon, the advantage to Oregon resulting from the dissolution would be of incalculable value to the state. We, therefore, desire to see the decision of the court carried out, and the Central Pacific made an independent road or acquired by a railroad that will compete with the Southern Pacific in Western Oregon.

COFFEE CUTS MELON

At the regular meeting September 26, the board of directors of the California Oregon Power company declared the regular dividend of $1.75 per share on the preferred capital stock of the company, payable October 25, 1922, to stockholders of record on October 15, 1922.

This dividend is for the quarter ending October 15, 1922 and amounts to over $39,000. Dividends have been paid regularly upon the preferred capital stock of this company since the date of its issuance.

LONG-BELL BUILDS MODEL TOWN WHERE PINE FOREST STOOD

Tenant Has Every Modern Convenience, Including School, Stores and Church

A logging camp which in reality is a modern town with a school, church, comfortable homes, and every modern feature of an up-to-date town, is the way the Rev. A. D. Bristol, pastor of the Christian church, describes Tennant, 30 miles from Weed on a spur from the Klamath-Weed line about eight miles west of Leaf. The Rev. Bristol recently established a Christian church in the new town. In describing the features of the place, he said:

Town Has 700
"At present there are 700 people in Tennant, of which 450 are actually engaged in getting logs to the railway cars. Next summer it is expected there will be a town of from 1,000 to 1,200 people. The town takes its name from J. D. Tennant, vice president of the Long-Bell Lumber company.

"Tennant assumed the proportions of a town March 1 of this year. Before then the townsite was virgin forests. At present there are 75 modern, four-room dwellings occupied by families and 17 more are under construction. There are also 200 cabins for unmarried men.

"The Weed Lumber company, a subsidiary concern of the Long-Bell Lumber company, is providing every convenience for its employees. A modern, up-to-date school building has been erected which will seat 50 pupils. The school has two class rooms and a large assembly hall. Additions can be erected to house 300 if necessary. The employers and employees are very proud of this building, which permits children to attend school nine months in the year.

Up-To-Date Roundhouse
"The company owns and operates an up-to-date roundhouse and machine shop, which is not surpassed in equipment by any on the main line of the Southern Pacific. A large, modern electric plant is being installed which can furnish light for a good sized town. An excellent water system brings pure mountain water into the town.

"A large store was recently completed where everything one may need may be obtained. The com-

KEMALISTS ADVANCE FURTHER

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 27.—The Kemalists have advanced further into the neutral zone, pushing three squadrons of cavalry from Biga to Cara Buga and are now on the flank of British at Chanak. This area, however, is within the range of dreadnaughts. The Turks charge the British violated the neutral zone by permitting Greeks to cross.

PRINCE MAY GET CROWN

LONDON, Sept. 27.—If Crown Prince George refuses to succeed Constantine on the Greek throne, the next in line is Prince Christopher, and if he should become king Princess Anastasia, the former Mrs. William Leeds, would become queen.

RAYMOND MOORE FREED

PORTLAND, Sept. 27.—The charge against Raymond Moore, arrested over a year ago in Klamath Falls when he happened to pass through a refuse heap in which detectives had placed a dummy mail bag to trap the sender of threatening letters to John Siemens, was dismissed in the federal court today. The court found no incriminating evidence against Moore.

RIDERS COMING IN DROVES FOR KLAMATH RODEO

Prizes Attracting Famous Riders From Every Western State

Are riders coming from every western state for the Southern Oregon rodeo here next week? Conversation with the boys working out at the fair grounds brings but one answer, they are coming in droves. Furthermore, it is pointed out, this is the last rodeo of the year and the riders and fancy ropers see an opportunity to get a winter's stake.

Many Famous Riders
Who are coming? Well, here's a few of them, Pat McCarty of Montana, the Costes brothers of Montana, Jesse Stahl, Perry Tracy of Red Bluff, Bill Raymond of Dorris, "Wildcat" McCarty of California, Ray Kane of California, Ben Dobbins, Tex Crockett of California, not to mention the Klamath county riders. There will be about 100 in all, according to "Shorty" Rhodes of Lakeview, who is on the ground even now.

Then there's Montana Red, the noted bull rider; "Skeeter Bill," noted race horse rider, and Mrs. Bill, equally noted trick roper.

And horses The Charles Snelling string from Lakeview and the Godfrey & Monroe horses from Alturas. "Positana," of the latter string, will make them all step lively, the Alturas boys say. These are but a few; others are coming from Medford, Red Bluff, Fort Klamath and elsewhere, not forgetting, of course, the Bly horses. This may be largely Bly's show, but Bly is not going to overlook any opportunities to keep Klamath money in Klamath.

$3,000 in Cash Prizes
Speaking of money! The Bly association will distribute $3,000 in cash prizes, even a small part of which is enough to keep a rider in eats for several weeks. That's the magnet which is going to make things lively on those three days, October 4, 5 and 6.

The fair ground today is a busy place—no place for a lazy man, or even for a man who doesn't like to watch other folks work. Carpenters are rushing the first unit of the grandstand, which will seat 1600, the bleachers and the stock building. The exhibit room beneath the grandstand is about completed. A caterpillar is dragging a disk around the half-mile race track and stock corrals are being erected. Jim Givans of Bly is on the job from morning until night superintending the work.

Big Time Predicted
And that's about all today, except this: If the Klamath county fair and Southern Oregon rodeo is not the biggest affair of its kind ever pulled in these parts, then the fair board and the Bly rodeo boys and the local boosters will eat their Stetsons, ribbons and all. They're all sold out!

"Let'er buck!"

WEATHER PROBABILITIES

The Cyclo-Stormograph at Underwood's Pharmacy shows that the barometric pressure has been rising rapidly since the early hours of morning, but 2 P. M. the tendency was again slightly downward.

If wind subsides a freeze or frost may be expected tonight.

Forecast for next 24 hours: Generally fair, probably cool, with variable winds.

The Tyco recording thermometer registered maximum and minimum temperatures today, as follows:

2 CONVICTS MAKE THEIR ESCAPE FROM McNEILL ISLAND

Fugitives Escape to Mainland in Launch; Remove Prison Records Before Leaving

TACOMA, Sept. 27.—Two men, prisoners at McNeill Island, escaped last night in a launch. They were James W. Beronto, serving a three-year term convicted of swindling $11,000 from an international revenue officer, and Robert J. Turner, sentenced to three years for forgery of a postal money order in San Francisco.

Beronto had the status of a civilian employe, Turner was a trusty. Beronto cleaned the prison records of all the photographs and records of himself and Turner.

The escape came on the heels of a report of a plot to effect a wholesale delivery of prisoners and transport them by automobile to Vancouver, B. C. and there embark for South America.

G. O. P. MEET OPENS

Walter Toose, Jr., Scores Insignificant Influence at Work

PORTLAND, Sept. 27.—An address emphasizing the necessity of political parties and denouncing what were termed "certain insidious and sinister influences at work undermining both major parties," was made at the convention of republicans from all parts of the state Tuesday by Chairman Walter L. Toose, Jr. He was followed by Senator B. L. Eddy, Roseburg, whose address on party loyalty and patriotism was frequently interrupted by applause.

Secretary C. E. Ingalls read the convention call. Senator Poindexter, of Washington spoke in the afternoon and resolutions committee was to report on the principles to be adopted.

HOLY WAR MAY BE RESULT OF TURK UPRISING

Possibility Seen By Correspondent; Inside Story of Near East Is Told

(Herbert Adams Gibbons, author, Correspondent and university professor, has spent more than 10 years in Turkey, the Balkan states, Egypt and other parts of the Near East. For three years he taught in a college at Constantinople. Much of his time has been spent as a correspondent, in interviewing the big political figures of those countries. He is just back from Constantinople and has written the following "inside story" of what is happening on the Bosphorus.)

By HERBERT ADAMS GIBBONS, Author, War Correspondent and University Professor

When the first Turkish delegation was summoned to Paris in the spring of 1919 to learn the fate of the Ottoman Empire from the victorious allied powers, who were at that time sitting in judgment upon the defeated powers, it was universally agreed by the victors that the vanquished should all be treated alike. Hence they were told the truth about themselves when they made pleas for mercy.

The entente powers proposed to dictate a series of treaties, similar in terms, all inspired by the thesis that the enemy powers were equally guilty for the origin and methods of a war that had threatened the bases of our civilization. For this reason M. Clemenceau answered the plea of Damad Ferid Pasha and his associates, that Turkey be let off easily, by a statement—in his blunt, unvarnished manner—to the effect that the Turks had always made a mess of governing and that history recorded no instance where lands once freed from the Turkish yoke had not become prosperous and better to live in.

Outset Turkey

The original idea of the allies seemed to be—once they had tied Germany hand and foot and dismembered Austria-Hungary—to fulfill the promise made in the reply to President Wilson's famous note to the two groups of belligerents at the end of 1918. What were the entente powers fighting to accomplish? Nothing less than putting the Turk for all time out of Europe, and this clearly meant out of Constantinople, for the simple reason that the Turk had forfeited all right to consideration by his crimes against civilization.

But soon it was realized that the settlement of the Near Eastern question was not going to be easy to decide upon. The prime ministers of Great Britain, France and Italy held conference after conference, and the Treaty of Sevres was not ready to hand to Turkey until a whole year or more after the German and Austrian treaties had been signed.

Turkey's Coup

Then a startling thing happened, the full significance of which has not yet been appreciated. But it will be during the winter of 1922-1923! A group of Turks, led by Mustafa Kemal Pasha, repudiated the Treaty of Sevres, and set up a separate Turkish government at Angora.

The entente powers sat tight at Constantinople. It was the Greeks who enforced the treaty in Thrace and who entered upon an extensive campaign in Asia Minor to assure for themselves the possession of the Smyrna region, given to them by the Treaty of Sevres.

France and Italy made treaties with the Nationalists at Angora, and furnished them with the military means to combat the Greeks. Great Britain cried out against this policy, but backed the Greeks only half-heartedly because a strong section of public opinion in England sympathized also with the Turks. The Greeks maintained themselves in Asia Minor for more than three
