LOOKS QUEERLY

SEEMS to be a little misunderstanding about where the money for the proposed 1925 state fair is coming from.

It was the general understanding that Portland proposed to shoulder the whole financial load. Mayor Baker, one of the chief speakers for the big show, in his several tours in behalf of the fair, stated that the fair amendment would not result in a tax of Oregon outside of Portland.

But the Oregonian says there must be an appropriation by the legislature for a state exhibit. There can be no state appropriation without a tax.

Seems to be a considerable conflict of opinion here. Hucceus?

The matter will bear looking into, to say the least. Klamath county has no objection to Multnomah taxing itself three million dollars for the fair.

But if Klamath county must bear a hand in raising another million dollars for a state exhibit—and a world's fair in Oregon without an Oregon exhibit would surely be lacking completeness—why it's time for Klamath people to begin considering whether the benefits to be derived from the fair warrant an increase of our already staggering tax load.

We believe that the money the fair would cost could be better spent for state development through other channels.

Julius Meier is back from his trip abroad, a discouraged fair booster. Europe has too much serious business on hand to be attracted by a fair in Portland.

The whole plan is untimely. As long as Portland was apparently pledged to pay all expenses, we didn't feel called on to criticize.

But if it is going to cost Klamath county one red cent, we vote to drop the Portland fair, and drop it quick.

Any Klamath county money that is to be spent for fairs, will be a lot more wisely invested in the development of Klamath county's annual fair.

HAS GIFT OF BREVITY

WE GET a lot of kick out of Arthur Perry's column in the Medford Mail Tribune. Perry condenses a column full of pertinent criticism of current events into a few sentences, a knack that tinges our admiration with envy, but leaves us admiring him, nevertheless.

How's this for a pithy pen-picture of the latest development in state politics:

The mental hand springs of Walter M. Pierce, Demo-Klano candidate for gov. so impressed Jess Winburn of Ashland, that he donated him $5000 to continue his gymnastics. This is the Pacific coast record for oratorical pocket clean-ups.

Here's another gem on the railway situation. You'll be just a little more careful about jumping hastily one way or another in the quarrel between the roads if you get the full wisdom of this one:

People who wonder why Southern Oregon is about like the Injuns left it, and marvel why Washington and California excel in the development of natural resources, should buy a map and count the railroads. Such a census will show Southern Oregon cluttered up with one man-sized railroad, and the sister states with at least three each.

Ship Anxiously Awaited
It Carried Whale Tails

VANCOUVER, Oct. 2.—When the Arizona Maru completed her recent voyage from Victoria to Yokohama, Japan, she was eagerly welcomed by epicurean Japanese, for she carried as part of her cargo a shipment of 15 tons of British Columbia whale tails. This delicacy, the first to be shipped to Japan by the Consolidated Whaling corporation in a long time, is held in great favor there. In fact, the Japanese believe that "a whale tail a day keeps the doctor away."

The whaling companies around Victoria did not operate last year and the Japanese as a result, it is said, were forced to patronize the medical profession more than usual.

Would Raise $125,000 For Purchase of Farm For Dependent Children

EUGENE, Ore., Oct. 2.—Plans to inaugurate a campaign to raise $125,000 with which to equip a farm for dependent children recently purchased near Corvallis, Oregon, by the Women's Christian Temperance union of Oregon, according to an announcement by Mrs. Ada Wallace Urush, an officer of the state organization of the union.

The union recently purchased a tract of 245 acres of fertile land three miles north of Corvallis, at a cost of approximately $50,000. Eighty acres of the tract are under cultivation, 80 acres of the farm are cleared and ready for cultivation, and 80 acres are in pasture and timberland. The remaining five acres is occupied by a lake.

The farm is already equipped with the buildings ordinarily required in agriculture, dairy barns, silos, power driven machinery and other farm conveniences being located on the place. However, it is the plan of those behind the movement to equip the farm so as to make it suitable for a children's home.

The plans as announced, call for the construction of a group of cottages, each of which will be a completely equipped home unit. Each of these cottages will be placed under the care of a woman who will be selected to be a mother to the family living in the cottage rather than a matron of an institution, according to the plan.

It is also planned that the children will attend a nearby school. The officials of Oregon Agricultural college, located at Corvallis, have promised to co-operate with the executive board of the home in its plan to provide the children with the benefits of the literary and vocational training offered at the state agricultural college.

The Women's Christian Temperance union has devoted a number of years to working out the plans for the proposed home.

Amundsen Will Carry Mail Over North Pole

SEATTLE, Wash., Oct. 2.—One of the most spectacular chapters in the annals of world wide postal delivery may be written when Captain Ronald Amundsen, famous Norwegian explorer, wings his way across the top of the world in his proposed attempt to fly an airplane from the tip of Alaska to Northernmost Europe via the north pole. With him in his monoplane will ride a mail sack containing letters written by Nome residents for delivery to friends in Europe.

If weather conditions had not forced a postponement of the flight until next year, these letters might have reached their destination a week ahead of the time required to make delivery by the established routes. As it is, arriving perhaps more than a year later, they will have a priceless historical value to their recipients who will doubtless follow the affairs of their explorer-postman with intensified interest.

According to a report by Postmaster Walsh of Nome to local postal officials, the letters were written when Capt. Amundsen was about to depart from the mining camp on his way to Wainwright, 100 miles southwest of Point Barrow, where he will winter awaiting favorable conditions for his proposed flight.

Opera Star Praises Tanlac Both Now Enjoy Fine Health

Mme. Rosina Agostini, soprano, and Sig. Giuseppe Agostini, tenor, noted opera stars, who declare their stomach troubles have been completely overcome since taking Tanlac.

"If ever a person felt like they had been made over I am that person, thanks to Tanlac," declared Mme. Rosina Agostini, noted leading soprano of the San Carlo Opera Co., residing at Hotel Grenoble, New York City.

"I suffered from a nervous run-down condition and got so I dreaded to face my audiences. But as soon as I started taking Tanlac I began to improve, and now I am perfectly normal."

The experience of Mme. Agostini's husband, Sig. Giuseppe Agostini, famous leading tenor of the same troupe, also shows the value of Tanlac as a tonic and stomach corrective. He said:

"My stomach went back on me and I soon got into pretty bad condition. I followed my wife's example and took Tanlac. It helped to fix me up in a short time, and now I always feel fit."

NOTE—The International Proprietaries Co., distributors of Tanlac, have on file in their offices at Atlanta, Georgia, over fifty thousand signed statements from representative men and women from every state in the Union and every Province in Canada. Many of these are from prominent people in this city and section and have been previously published in this paper.

Tanlac is sold by all good druggists.—Adv.

WILL PROVIDES FOR HOME MADE COFFIN

PASCO, Wash., Oct. 2.—The will of Fred Kurtzman at this city, recently filed for probate, asks that the coffin, "in which I am laid to rest be home made and not manufactured by a concern and sold in the usual way."

"It is my further desire," the will continues, "that said coffin be inexpensive and made by some carpenter who is a member of the carpenters' union, or a member and supporter of organized labor."

However Kurtzman's funeral was held before his friends were aware of the provisions of the will. Before his death, Kurtzman was known locally as a staunch friend of organized labor.

How Many Will Give One Dollar?

WALTER M. PIERCE is making a gallant fight, almost single handed, to be elected Governor of Oregon. He has no funds to pay the expenses of his campaign. The issue he makes is Reduced Taxes, and he promises, if elected, to use every power vested in the Governor to lessen the taxation that now rests so heavily upon the backs of the people.

No powerful corporations are behind Pierce; nobody but the plain people. His election depends upon them alone. Don't you feel it your duty to help him in his worthy fight by contributing One Dollar to his expenses? It isn't much for any one to give, but there are many plain people, and if you help a little the battle will be won. It will make a clean campaign and elect a clean man.

Please send your dollar today, together with your name and address, and the contribution will be acknowledged by return mail.

Putting Pierce in means putting your taxes down! Help Pierce Win!
