THE FACTS SPEAK

APOLOGISTS for Walter Pierce, democratic candidate for governor, blinded by partisanship, are making futile efforts to minimize the importance and force of the charges that he used public funds for private profit, through borrowing money from the state school fund under false pretenses.

The Portland Telegram, which first printed the charges against Pierce, and also copies of different documents that substantiated the charges, reviews the facts on which the assertions of fraud are based, as follows:

First, in the administration of the irrevocable school fund, $5,000 was fixed as the maximum loan to one borrower. Pierce fraudulently borrowed several times the maximum amount. Deliberately he did this. Was this not a "perfectly proper transaction?"

In the next place, he made a pretense of selling land to relatives. Was this "perfectly proper?"

In the next place the mythical buyers of Pierce's land, under his direction, swore in their applications for loans that they were the bona fide owners of the land. Would you call Pierce's inducing others to swear to a wholly false statement "perfectly proper?"

These things are in the record. The facts are established, not by any one's statement based on memory, but by documentary evidence which cannot be impeached. Furthermore, Pierce pleads guilty to the whole disreputable business.

The Telegram is strongly inclined to the opinion that the people of Oregon do not wish to have as the chief executive of their state a man whose mind is so constituted that he cannot distinguish between a public trust and a private graft, between deceit and honesty, between a wrong act and a "perfectly proper transaction."

The governor of a state finds himself in many positions where such a conception of "perfectly proper transactions" may mean incalculable loss to the people of the state.

MANY ENGINEERING PROBLEMS FACED BY ALASKA RAILROADS

ANCHORAGE, Alaska, Oct. 23.—Locomotive engineering problems, such as chasing cows off the track and waiting for horses to give up the right of way, are being encountered by engineers of the Alaska railroad just as they were encountered on the pioneer railroads of the "states" years ago.

One train came into Anchorage from Nenana recently several hours behind time and reported it was held up by a herd of 1500 reindeer which essayed to cross the track in advance of the train. A little later a cow was encountered and a flock of hens dived across the track. One hen was killed.

"Just like railroading through the sheep belt of Kansas," remarked the engineer.

Personal Mention

P. S. Puckett of the Puckett Logging company, is here from Chiloquin looking after business matters.

Arthur R. Mattoon is here from Portland for a visit with his uncle, J. H. Mattoon, circuit court bailiff.

J. B. Mason is here on a brief business visit from his home in Modesto.

Mr. and Mrs. William Bachman left on the morning train for Portland, where they will visit with friends and relatives for several weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Moore are here from Lakeview on a combined business and pleasure trip. Moore made Klamath Falls his headquarters when he was interested in the auto stage business.

Oak Boggs, whom many of the older residents will remember as having lived here when a small boy, is here to make his home, having arrived recently from Corvallis. Boggs has not been here since before the war. He was in France until 1920, and came home to find his father had died during his absence.

Mrs. I. D. Applegate accompanied by her daughter, Mrs. G. E. Piel, are here from Ashland, visiting with Mrs. Applegate's daughter, Mrs. W. O. Smith, and family. It has been two years since Mrs. Applegate has visited at her old home, and she is expecting to be here only a few days at this time. Today the two visitors are at Brook Farm, the country home of Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Applegate.

The Psychology lecture delivered Monday night at the Woman's Library club rooms by Dr. Van Waters was enjoyed by those who attended, and was considered by them to be a veritable mental feast, according to Mrs. W. H. Robertson. The interest and appreciation of those present appeared to partly compensate the speaker for the small audience, she said. Dr. Van Waters has consented to give a lecture on each of his monthly visits, and has recommended as reading matter, for those interested in psychology, Dr. Robinson's book, "The Mind in the Making," also G. Stanley Hall on "Senescence."

His Training Ground

Pat was on the look-out for work, and one morning he took his stand in a group outside the gates of a large engineering establishment. Presently the foreman came up and inquired, "Are there any 'drillers' here?"

"Yes," answered Pat, stepping forward.

"The foreman engaged him at once, but he had not been working long at the machine when it broke down.

"The foreman asked him in sarcastic tones, "and where did you learn drilling?"

"In the army," was Pat's reply.

Brunswick dance records have plenty of pep and the tone is superior. Currin says so.

MILLIONS SAVED BY SCIENTISTS

Unobtrusive Work of Two Men May Result in End of Locust Plague

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 24.—The quiet, unobtrusive labor of two Philadelphia scientists during recent years in the realm of locusts, grasshoppers, and katydids may save the United States millions of dollars, in the future. It is demonstrated each year in the near east, South America, and other regions, how possible it is for a locust horde, large enough to darken the sky for hours, to rise out of no where and eat to the ground thousands of miles of harvest. This has happened even in the United States, and a recurrence is what the scientists are laboring to prevent.

The two men, James A. G. Rehn, recording secretary of the Academy of Sciences, this city, and Morgan Hebard, research associate, returned recently from a tour of southwest United States in the course of which they gathered no less than 9,000 locust specimens. Rehn declared that they are now approaching the end of the survey they set themselves to make of this portion of the insect world fifteen years ago.

"One can never know," declared Rehn, "when some species will arise in overwhelming numbers, as the Rocky Mountain locust did in the late seventies and early eighties. This species swept from its native habitat in Montana and the northwest generally, clear down through the wheat states as far south as Texas, devouring every growing thing in its path.

"The annual cost to the world at large of locust plagues is about $100,000,000. Last year 5,000 acres in British Columbia were stripped and in the Orient, South Africa, the Levant, and South America these insects descend on crops with deadly regularity. The great value of the expeditions fostered by the academy is that they place at the disposal of agricultural stations in this country and elsewhere definite information of the habits, geographical preference, and data on the conditions which favor their development.

In the building of the Academy of Science here they are approximately four hundred thousand specimens of locusts, representing 40,000 separate and distinct species, the largest collection in the world. Supporting the specimens in an unparalleled store of well correlated data, readily available for reference.

Ford sailed into the garage and exclaimed: "What's wrong with my car?"

Although I drive it carefully, I'm getting but 20 miles to the gallon of gasoline." The attendant whose father owned a drug store suggested Colgate's or Pex or Squibb's and a toothbrush for the gear teeth. How many miles do you get?

Garden Tract Needs Shift

It is well to pick out a new spot for the home vegetable garden at this time of year one of the best ways to prevent the increase of vegetable diseases from year to year is to rotate the soil in order that parasites that get established with one crop may have a chance to die out before the crop is again grown on the same land. This often takes several years. Potato ground especially should be rotated on account of wilt and rhizoctonia.

Roof Hen House on

Now is the time to fix the roof of the poultry house if it has not been done.

Drafts Cause Diseases

Watch the ventilators and sky lights in the poultry house and keep them closed to avoid drafts which result in roup, leg weakness, and colds. If the birds are affected with colds, tincture of iodine injected into the nostrils by means of a machine oil can, after squeaking out the mucus, will prevent the cold from developing into canker or roup.

Fresh Mash for Layers

See that the pullets consume as much mash as possible as this is what will make them lay. The tendency is to eat too much scratch feed which causes them to stop laying. They should have all the green feed they will take, plenty of fresh buttermilk, and as much mash as scratch grain.

Fall grain or disked cultivated land will often prove better than spring grain where the seed bed is prepared by plowing.

Peaches should be fall sprayed with Bordeaux 4-4-50. The earlier the better. The rains bring favorable conditions for blight and die-back infections. Get ahead of them.

Fall spraying must be applied for protection against apple tree anthracnose where summer Bordeaux was not applied. Use it 4-4-50 strength. Get ahead of the rains if possible. Don't neglect the young orchard.

Cut out carefully and completely the old cankers and fall spray as
