

CONCERT DRAWS LARGE AUDIENCE

Thurlow Lieurance Entertainment Appreciated by Music-Lovers

MRS. CHARLES WOOD KERRILEY
The Lieurance concert last night drew a large and appreciative audience to the Tice Tree theatre. The setting of the stage was much enhanced by the beautiful soft lighting effects which are one of the features of this opera house. The pervading air of the place was one of curiosity, the audience evidently not knowing what to expect. The program began with the inroduction by George B. Tack of the composer, Thurlow Lieurance. The concert lacked nothing in interest from the explanatory and illustrative short talks by Lieurance throughout the evening. He has absorbed much of the mysticism and poetry of the North American Indians and as his compositions show, he has entered far into the sanctuary and his interpretation has a spiritual quality. Unconsciously his audience was led away into the realm of falling waters, the sadness of the great woods and the singing of birds. The program as a whole was pleasing but the unrelieved minor key of all the selections left upon the mind, a feeling of sadness. If the vivacity and heroic element which is not lacking in the Indian character, could also have been expressed the performance would have had the variety needed. Mrs. Lieurance's dramatic interpretations added much to the evening's enjoyment. Her mezzo soprano voice especially in its lower tones was full and rich and very pleasing. George B. Tack in a flute virtuoso of great excellence and his audience would gladly have heard more of his work. Everyone was pleased with Mrs. Lieurance's rendering of "By the Waters of Minnetonka" an old favorite in this city. Scarcely less appreciated and certainly as beautiful was her exquisite staging of the most tender lullaby "Wium." The last number, "A Fire Dance Ceremony" was the only one which gave scope to Mrs. Lieurance's dramatic ability. It was impassioned and heroic and left on the minds of the audience that feeling of fierce, barbaric ecstasy which pervades the religious dances of the aborigines.

THE STRAND

When an outlaw capable of killing the father of the girl he loves to conceal his crime, finds his proposal of marriage unwelcome, he is not apt to use half-way measures to accomplish his purpose. Roy Stewart, as a dead shot of the plains, boldly protects the girl in a way which will thrill "The Lone Hand" audiences. This new Kipling drama will be at the Strand theatre tonight. Be slow to underestimate the fool. Though his grin is immobile, and his words without sense, he may, single-handed, scatter an outlaw band after killing its chief, save an angel of the cattle country from a fate worse than death, and rid the state of a gang of outlaws who have long defied all law and authority. That is what he does in "The Lone Hand," the new Kipling western drama. This picture and a Charlie Chaplin comedy are being shown at The Strand for only ten cents, one price to everybody.

PINE TREE

In "Manslaughter," the powerful ten-reel feature picture which shows tonight and tomorrow at the Pine Tree theatre, the people of Klamath Falls have with them the picture with the biggest punch of any production of the year. The picture deals with a very modern and up to date theme and under the capable direction of Cecil B. De Mille, the popular stars Thomas Meighan and Leatrice Joy are seen at their best. Scenes follow one another in perfect continuity showing lavish settings, many of which are in color. The automobile wreck and motorcycle smash ups are only the opening incidents which lead up to the intense scenes and situations which follow during the development on the complicated plot. The problem dealt within the play are up to date and bring home to every spectator situations such as any of us might be tangled up with at any time. Beautiful Prisma-colored titles enhance the beauty of the film. Manslaughter, which has broken all house records wherever shown. This is a picture with a punch, and not to see it is to have missed the most powerfully interesting film play of the year. The Pine Tree theatre will present this wonder picture at the regular prices of admission Tuesday and Wednesday, matinee and night.

THE LIBERTY

"Dream Street" is the latest screen effort to come from D. W. Griffith. It is a tale of romance and love and laughter, symbolized with good and evil influences lending an enchantment rarely seen in such cinema productions. The ideas are Griffith while the characters are Thomas Burke known as "Ghia of Chinatown" and "The Sign of the Lamp." The locale is set in Limehouse, London. Although it might be said to encompass the world when it comes to the final analysis of the humans who trip gayly through the several scenes of dramatic effects directed by Griffith.

There is assembled a cast of rare talent to enact the roles of "Dream Street." Carl Dempster is the Gypsy Fair. The "Spike" McFadden of the story is taken by Ralph Graves while his brother "Billie" is portrayed by Charles Emmet Mack. Tyrone Power is the symbolized street preacher for good and the evil one in the street fiddler is done by Morgan Wallace. W. J. Ferguson plays Gypsy's father and the great Sway Wan, of Chinese noble birth is impersonated by Edward Peil.

"Dream Street" will be the attraction at the Liberty theatre beginning today.

WORDEN

Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Gordon of Klamath Falls visited the parental home Sunday.

Ben Gay, who met with an accident some time ago, has improved so that he can attend to business.

N. C. Sergeant was a passenger on the Sunday evening train for Klamath Falls, where he and his family will make their home.

George Poole has moved to Worden. In the next few days he will open a pastime hall for the winter.

Under leadership of Miss Erma McAllister, Worden school is progressing satisfactorily.

Essley Morgan, who left here some thirteen years ago, was calling on old time acquaintances in this vicinity the last of the week.

A dance given on Armistice day by the Library club of Worden, was a success in every particular. The outstanding feature was the bounteous midnight dinner by the ladies of the club, who are past masters in preparation of community gatherings.
