

DESOLATION ISLAND IS NOW OBJECTIVE OF SEAL HUNTERS

PARIS, Nov. 17.—Kerguelen Land, or Desolation Island, in the Indian ocean, half way between South Africa and Australia, is soon to have one of its infrequent visits from the white man.

A French expedition now is being organized for a six-month stay, but on making the biggest possible killing of sea-elephants and sea-lions, two types of large seals found in those waters. Opposition to the trip has developed among humanitarians and scientists, for the sea-elephant in particular grows enormous. The last expedition in 1898 killed 2,149 sea-elephants in 100 days' work, and brought back 100 tons of valuable oil.

Kerguelen Land has a curious history. Captain Cook, the British navigator, while cruising in the Antarctic sea, suddenly came upon this dreary island, covered with moss, and unproductive, although long thought to be underlaid with coal beds. He landed and was about to take possession of it in the name of his king, when he found a French flag flying, raised by De Kerguelen shortly before, probably about 1772. The British sailor swallowed his disappointment and in his log book recorded only that he had landed on "Desolation Island," ignoring the Frenchman's visit.

Years later an inquiry reached the French naval office, asking for information about the island of Kerguelen. The naval department searched its records, high and low, but found nothing. The question was referred to the British admiralty with a request for an answer, which came in a few days. The island was identified by the British as the one registered on French charts as Desolation Island.

American whalers visited the island early in the 18th century, for old blubber staves with cautions marked "New London," were found there in 1828.

STYLES ADOPTED BY ROYAL FAMILY ARE OF INTEREST TO ALL

LONDON, Nov. 17.—Styles adopted by the royal family are a matter of deep interest to the British fashion followers, and new togs adopted create immediate attention.

Self attire is not ignored by the royal family, and the newest outfit for the course is a knickerbocker suit of homespun, wool vest of bright colors and checkered cap. This is the attire worn by the prince when he recently "played himself in" at St. Andrews.

It is to be noted also that the three other sons of the king follow the lead of their elder brother, and appear in public dressed to the most minute detail after his example.

METHOD OF SAFELY TRANSPORTING FISH FOUND BY JAPANESE

TOKIO, Nov. 17.—A method of transporting live fish long distances has been discovered by Dr. Chiyomatsu Ishikawa, professor of the Tokio Imperial university, by infusing a quantity of oxygen in the water of boxes doubly lined with zinc in order to prevent leakage. The method proved successful and will be again tried with "ayu" a kind of trout which it hitherto has been believed impossible to transport alive. It is very important for the Japanese people to obtain fresh fish, one of the national dishes being raw fish.
